Crane easily turns back Mrs. Spence

Bucking a Democratic tide, U. S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th, easily won his third full term in Congress Tuesday night, turning back a challenge by Democrat Betty Spence of Buffalo Grove.

Although election results came in slowly Crane addressed his campaign workers about 9:30 p.m., thanking them for their efforts in the victory.

Workers in the Spence campaign were not convinced, however, that the election was lost.

Shortly before 11 p.m., election totals at Crane headquarters showed him with 28,686 votes to 19,092 for Mrs. Spence, a margin of slightly more than 60 per cent for Crane.

FIGURES FROM the Spence headquarters agreed with the Crane totals. With slightly more than 25 per cent of the precincts in the 12th District reporting, the Spence workers showed totals of 18,263 for Crane and 11,038 for Mrs. Spence, a 62.3 margin for the Republican Congressman.

However, the Spence camp said its figures were predominantly from Wheeling Township, one of Crane's strongholds, and included "our worst areas."

A Spence campaign aide said in "targeted precincts" where they had hoped to get 50 to 55 per cent of the vote, they received 34 to 38 per cent. At the time the above totals were reported, there were almost no results from the Lake County portion of the district, where Spence supporters hoped to do well. The first Lake County precinct report, though, went for Crane 251-185. The Lake County area of the district contains about 20 per cent of the voters.

ALTHOUGH CRANE'S victory margin was comfortable, it fell short of the 74.2 per cent he piled up in 1972. But with Republicans saddled with the hangover of Watergate, President Ford's pardon of former President Nixon, and Ford's recent proposal of an income tax surcharge, Crane had said privately in the last week of the campaign he would "be satisfied" with 60 per cent of the vote.

A key Spence campaign aide predicted a few days before the election the margin would be within 3 percentage points.

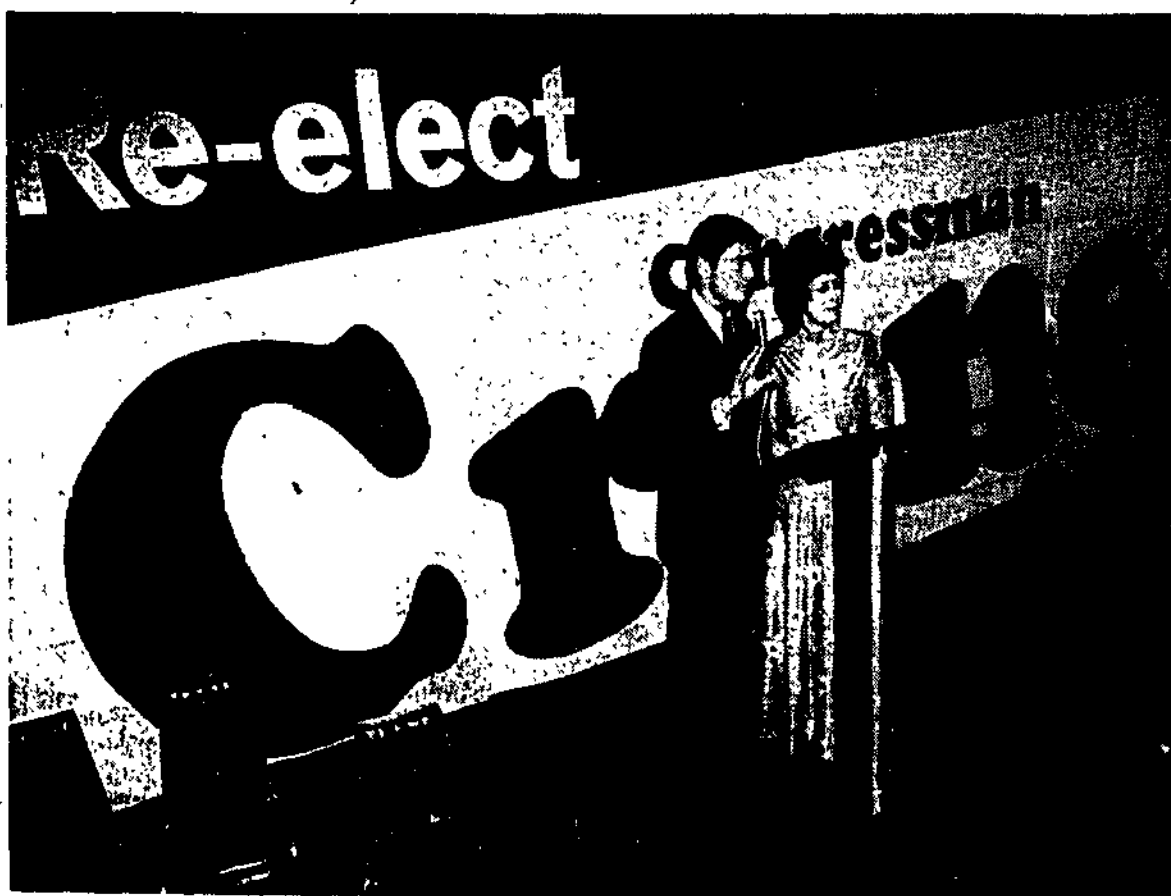

Mrs. Spence, with substantial support from organized labor, conducted the most serious campaign against Crane since he defeated Democrat Edward Warman in 1970 with 58 per cent of the vote.

CRANE, FIRST elected in a special election in 1969 and reelected in 1970 and 1972 never before had failed to carry any precinct in Wheeling, Elk Grove, Schaumburg or Palatine townships. Mrs. Spence had winning totals in scattered precincts in all those townships.

One Crane aide said early in the evening, "This is embarrassing, losing precincts."

But another staff worker said Crane's victory in the face of the Democratic sweep made him "the heir apparent" to the U. S. Senate at some future date.

Crane later said, however, he has no ambition for the Senate, and declared, "My role and the role of the Republican Party is to solve problems we have in the House."

End of the trail in the 12th District...

heavily Republican district. (Photos by Jim Frost and Bob Finch)

Katz, Duff, Porter ahead

Incumbents look like winners in 1st

Incumbents appeared to be on their way to victory in the 1st District Tuesday night, but official tallies were unavailable because of a slow vote count.

Only incumbent Democratic representative, Harold Katz of Glenview, declared victory, while fellow representatives, Brian Duff, R-Wilmette, and John Porter, R-Evanston, were also running way ahead.

The only challenger to the three incumbents, Democrat Dorothy Henehan of Glenview, was getting little support in her try for one of the three 1st District House seats.

"I will return to Springfield fortified by the election results," Katz said. He noted that support for him was heavy in every district, including Henehan's home district of New Trier Township. He called the results, "Excellent."

Brian Duff

Harold Katz

WHILE PORTER AND Duff were not declaring victory they did say they were pleased with the results they were seeing and would wait for the total outcome.

In the race for state senator in the 1st District, Republican incumbent Bradley Glass appeared to be on his way to an easy victory over Democrat Richard Hartigan of Glenview.

Glass, 43, of Northfield, was leading Hartigan by a 2-to-1 vote margin in Northfield Township and also was way ahead in New Trier and Evanston townships. Only Wheeling Township figures were unavailable, but township GOP officials felt confident that Glass would sweep the district.

Glass was seeking his second term in the Senate and said that while he was pleased with the way the voting was going last night, he did not want to predict the outcome until the final votes were counted.

OF THE REPRESENTATIVES, Katz was seeking his sixth term, Duff his third and Porter his second. Katz said that while he knew his Republican opponents were likely to lead all the candidates, he looked at his fellow Democrat, Henehan, as his competition in the closing months of campaigning.

Duff, who was ill with the flu Tuesday, visited several Republican headquarters to thank workers.

All of the candidates returned home Tuesday night to await the election results.

he bears one of the most famous names in Illinois politics — that of the late governor and Presidential candidate who was his father.

Stevenson had peddled the inflation issue, accusing oil interests of being heavily responsible.

Burditt, a suburban LaGrange lawyer who had to be drafted for the race after better-known Republicans backed off, was hobbled from the start because of his obscurity and also by a lack of campaign funds which kept him from going to television.

Still, he put on a vigorous campaign, also concentrating on inflation and seeking to put blame on Stevenson as one of the biggest spenders in Washington.

Waits for Republican to concede

Stevenson praises Burditt in low-key victory

The celebration began early at Sen. Adlai Stevenson's Chicago headquarters Tuesday even though Stevenson delayed his official claim of victory, waiting for Republican opponent George Burditt to concede.

Stevenson supporters cheered each announcement of favorable vote totals for the senator and for Democrat Abner Mikva, in a close race for the 10th Congressional District seat.

At about 8 p.m., after several television stations had predicted his victory, Stevenson appeared and told his supporters, "It's too early to say anything."

After his brief statement, Stevenson went over to regular Democratic headquarters at the LaSalle Hotel to meet with Mayor Richard J. Daley. Stevenson's campaign manager, Larry Hansen, said the campaign will cost Stevenson about $650,000.

"It was a tough campaign. It was a hard year for money and a hard year for volunteers. It wasn't like 1970 (the year Stevenson was first elected to the Senate). There wasn't as much despair."

STEVENSON HAD said, however, he believes his election and that of other Democrats indicates a new mood in the voters. "I think the people are demanding a new standard by which to judge all public servants — mediocrity is no longer good enough," Stevenson said.

Stevenson not only piled up a prohibitive lead in the Democratic stomping grounds of Chicago, but was far ahead in such swing areas Downstate as Rock Island County and even normally Republican enclaves.

Stevenson thus won his first full term in the Senate as part of what appeared to be a Democratic surge across a state once regarded as traditionally Republican.

Democrats hoped to upset the Republicans' 14-10 edge in the Illinois Congressional delegation and perhaps take over control of the Illinois legislature.

STEVENSON'S victory became apparent when, with the first 5 per cent of the Cook County Chicago vote reporting, he was charging ahead with 80 per cent of the ballots.

Even though Democrats were expected to carry Cook County, such a margin would require a Republican landslide Downstate. Instead, Burditt appeared to lose there, too.

Voter apathy and dark, rainy skies over Chicago and much of the state held down the vote and thereby boosted the impact of the Chicago Democratic organization.

STILL, STEVENSON had a wide edge from the start with mounting inflation, Watergate hangover, and the fact that

Dems on way to sweep in Lake County

Democrats appeared to be on their way to sweeping major Lake County offices following Tuesday's election. Returns however, were scarce because of slow vote count.

In the race for sheriff, Democrat E. J. LaMagdeleine was leading incumbent Republican Orville Clavey by an almost 2-to-1 margin. In the County Clerk's race Democrat incumbent Grace Mary Stern was way ahead of Republican challenger Margaret Metzler, also by almost a 3-to-1 margin.

For county treasurer, Democratic newcomer Ray Blom was beating another newcomer, Republican Terence Tucker by a slim margin, but Democratic officials said the trend appeared to be going in Blom's favor.

In the Vernon Township 32nd Legislative District only a few precincts were counted and it was too early to tell who was likely to win in that race. The same was true for the county board candidates for District 5, which includes Vernon Township.

Full results of the Lake County races will appear in Thursday's Herald.

Rep. Crane wins easily over Spence

U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th, handily defeated Democratic challenger Betty Spence Tuesday night for his third full term in Congress. Crane piled up 60 to 35 per cent of the votes, with slightly more than 25 per cent of the precincts reporting, and claimed victory 3½ hours after the polls closed. Spence aides, meanwhile, were clinging to the remote possibility that Lake County votes could bail out the 38-year-old Buffalo Grove housewife. Conservative Crane, 44, was described by a campaign aide as "their apparent" to the U.S. Senate, but Crane denied having any Senate ambitions.

Mikva barely leading Young

Democrat Abner J. Mikva held a slim lead over U.S. Rep. Samuel H. Young Tuesday night in the hotly contested 10th District Congressional race. Figures released in Mikva's headquarters showed Mikva leading Republican Young, 51,888 votes to 50,489 votes, with 75 per cent of the votes in. Figures released in Young's headquarters showed only 46 per cent of the votes tallied with Young holding a 4,000-vote lead.

1st District incumbents winning

Incumbents in the 1st District House and Senate races appeared headed for victory Tuesday night, though vote tallies were slow coming in. Incumbent State Sen. Bradley M. Glass, R-Northfield, was holding a 2-1 lead over Democrat Richard Hartigan of Glenview, while incumbent Representatives Harold A. Katz, D-Glenview; Brian B. Duff, R-Wilmette; and John Edward Porter, R-Evanston, were well ahead of challenger Dorothy Henchen, a Glenview Democrat.

Mugalian holds slim lead

State Rep. Richard A. Mugalian, D-Palatine, was clinging to a slim lead in his bid for reelection from the 2nd Legislative District in the face of a stiff challenge by Democrat David Carey of Elgin. Mugalian held just a 200-vote lead in returns from precincts in Cook and Lake counties, with Carey expected to carry Kane and Elgin counties. Mugalian called the race "too close to call," and said the final tallies "could be as close as 100 votes either way." Incumbent State Rep. John E. Friedland, R-Elgin, won reelection, and State Rep. Leo D. LaFleur, R-Bloomington, also was expected to win.

3rd incumbents win easily

The three incumbent state representatives in the 3rd District were reelected by significant margins. Top vote-getter was State Rep. Virginia M. Macdonald, R-Arlington Heights. She was followed closely by State Rep. Donald M. Totten, R-Hoffman Estates, and State Rep. Eugene S. Chapman, D-Arlington Heights. With 137 of 184 precincts reporting, totals were: Macdonald — 28,199; Totten — 23,804; and Chapman — 21,145. Democrat Walter Sullivan of Schaumburg trailed with 12,605.

Nimrod leading in tight race

State Sen. John Nimrod, R-Skokie, was headed for reelection, with a 3-to-2 lead over Democrat Patton Feichter, although their race appeared much tighter in Maine Township precincts of the 4th District. State Rep. Robert Juckett, R-Park Ridge, led the field in the 4th District House race and was assured of another term. State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, and State Rep. Aaron Jaffe, D-Skokie, also appeared headed for easy reelection victories. Loser in the 4th District House race was Democrat Thomas Flynn.

Democrats pile up huge vote margins

Democrats piled up huge victory margins Tuesday and threatened to sweep election for all county offices.

Only Republican Peter Bensinger, the GOP candidate for sheriff, talked of possible victory.

And, Democrat Diane Hunter of Skokie found surprising support in traditionally Republican Northwest suburbs in a race for a county board seat.

With 74 per cent of the Chicago vote reported, County Board Pres. George Dunne, County Clerk Stanley Kusper and assessor candidate Thomas Tully led Republican challengers by 3-to-1 margins in the city.

SLOW RETURNS FROM about 20 per cent of the suburban precincts showed Lola Flamm, GOP candidate for clerk, Alice Ehrig, GOP candidate for assessor and Carl Hansen, GOP candidate for board president, with less than 2-to-1 margins.

U. S. Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., said Tuesday's results show that "people don't want Republicans in office."

Percy called a meeting of state Republican leaders for Nov. 18 in Chicago to force a "reappraisal" of the party. The election is an "ominous note . . . voters are casting a negative referendum."

"The two-party system is at a minimal level," he said.

Early returns showed Bensinger, former head of the Illinois Dept. of Corrections, trailing incumbent Sheriff Richard Elrod by 194,286 votes in the city; a 2-to-1 margin, but winning in suburban areas by as much as 4 to 1.

"We're moving up slowly in the city and could make up the difference in the suburbs," a Bensinger aide said.

BENSINGER APPEARED at Republican headquarters in the Bismarck Hotel about 9 p.m. with a bottle of champagne. "It looks like we're going to have a long night," he said.

"I'm encouraged," he said, adding that early returns from the suburbs showed a 6,935 to 2,305 lead in Palatine Township, a 2,715 to 1,362 lead in Schaumburg Township and a 2,796 to 725 lead over Elrod in Evanston Township.

Mrs. Ehrig said early results in her race against Tully, which showed a Tully lead of 3 to 1, "is not bad. If we lose the city by only 3-to-1, we've got a prayer."

Tuesday's rain "kept suburban voters at home. They don't identify with the county government the way city residents do," she said.

DEMOCRATIC WINNERS huddled with Chicago Mayor Richard Daley in the LaSalle Hotel. Elrod met first with the mayor, but left the meeting without talking to reporters. Tully was the next candidate to meet with Daley.

Aides of the mayor said he would not appear before campaign workers and the press until the sheriff's race was decided.

Township officials said slow returns Tuesday were caused by voting machine breakdowns, counting of the "blue ballot," and long lines of voters as the polls closed at 6 p.m.

Republicans buried by Democratic landslide

From United Press International

Democrats tightened their control of Congress Tuesday in a landslide that engulfed Republicans and threatened a bitter battle with President Ford in the last two years of his term.

A nationwide surge gave Democrats control of the Senate and House and promised a one-sided majority certain to give Ford's legislative programs serious difficulties.

The GOP fared no better in the governors' races as Democrats picked off statehouses held by Republicans, including the one in New York denied them for 16 years.

An even greater jolt to the Republicans was that they were failing to take a single Senate or House seat or governorship now held by the Democrats.

With results from the Far West still to come, Democrats had ousted Republican Senate incumbents in Kentucky, Colorado and Florida, and in addition to New York, captured governorships in Tennessee, Connecticut and Massachusetts.

Democrats appeared certain to pick up five to seven seats in the Senate.

Many Democrats who had once appeared to be in trouble won re-election. They included Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, who burst into the news and into trouble when police stopped his speeding car near the Tidal Basin in Washington and a go-go dancer jumped from the car into the water. Mills defeated 31-year-old Judy Petty, his first major GOP opposition.

Republicans have not controlled either the Senate or House since 1953-54, the first two years of Dwight D. Eisenhower's first administration a generation ago.

In South Dakota, 1972 Democratic presidential candidate George S. McGovern handily defeated Republican challenger Leo Thorness.

While the Democrats were picking off Republicans in many areas and in many races, they were also holding on to their congressional seats and governorships without a loss.

Entrenched Senate Democrats swept to easy victories. They included Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana, James B. Allen of Alabama, Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut, Herman E. Talmadge of Georgia, Adlai Stevenson III of Illinois, Russell B. Long of Louisiana, Thomas F. Eagleton of Missouri and Ernest F. Hollings of South Carolina.

Democrat John Glenn, the first American astronaut to orbit the earth, scored an overwhelming victory over Republican Mayor Ralph J. Perk of Cleveland. Other Democrats elected to first terms in the Senate included Dale Bumpers of Arkansas and Robert Morgan of North Carolina.

Republican Sen. Jacob K. Javits won in his race against Democratic former U.S. Attorney General Ramsey Clark to return for his fourth term as Senator from New York. Other incumbent Senate Republicans re-elected were Charles McC. Mathias Jr. of Maryland and Richard Schweiker of Pennsylvania — both strong critics of former President Richard M. Nixon.

Rep. Louis Wyman, a Republican, won the New Hampshire Senate seat vacated by retiring Sen. Norris H. Cotton.

Not even the last minute weekend visit of President Ford could turn the tide in favor of the GOP in Colorado, where 38-year-old Gary Hart, McGovern's 1972

Financial community gears for new wage and price control demands

From United Press International

The financial community expected big gains by Democrats in Tuesday's election and braced itself for new demands for wage and price controls to fight inflation.

"The worst thing would be if we had controls," said Lucien Hooper, a 40-year veteran on Wall Street. But he said both Democrat and Republican parties "are more afraid of recession and depression" than inflation, and this could discourage pressure for wage and price controls.

Economists generally view controls as a tool to keep wages and prices down in an inflationary period but ineffective against recession or depression when expansion is sought. Most economists now believe the economy is in a recession, complicated by unabated inflation.

Adding to uncertainty about the economy was the apparent likelihood of a coal miners strike next week despite union promises of new contract proposals.

United Mine Workers and the coal industry resumed talks late Tuesday night with a new union proposal on the table, but union leaders appeared still convinced a strike next week is inevitable.

Federal energy officials said, meanwhile, the governors of a dozen coal-producing states had been invited to the White House for a Thursday afternoon meeting to discuss the impact of any strike. The stoppage could dim the nation's lights, sharply curb steel production and add hundreds of thousands to the unemployment rolls.

In other developments Tuesday:

- As part of a far-ranging, cost-cutting program, Sears Roebuck and Co. announced it was discharging 300 to 500 employees at its corporate headquarters in Chicago.
- Swiss Credit Bank Chairman F. W. Schulthess told the National Press Club in Washington, D.C., that world inflation and unemployment "may well destroy the democratic institutions of the West." He said "a truly awesome tidal wave" of price increases is sweeping across most of the world, adding that "hardly ever before has the situation been nearly as alarming as now."

- The four U.S. automakers produced further evidence of the economic downturn with reports that October new car sales fell nearly 27 per cent from last year to mark the industry's worst new model introduction in 10 years.
- American Motors showed the sharpest drop in October with sales off nearly 53 per cent from a year ago followed by General Motors, down 31.8 per cent; Ford, off 17.1 per cent; and Chrysler Corp., — which announced another layoff of 7,100 employees — down 16.7 per cent.
- The lagging sales, due in part to uncertain economic conditions and prices averaging about $400 higher than 1974 models, have resulted in a new round of industry layoffs which now total nearly 52,000 workers.

U.S. speeds arms orders to Israel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States is speeding up delivery of arms orders to Israel as a result of official Arab alignment with the Palestine Liberation Organization, diplomats said Tuesday.

Although the Rabat Arab summit raised new war fears in Israel, the Israelis still are prepared for a second stage peace negotiation with Egypt, these sources said.

The agreement provides for speeding up the delivery of weapons which American already has agreed to supply, and does not represent additional arms orders.

Meanwhile, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger launched his renewed effort to promote "a just and lasting peace in the Middle East" Tuesday night after proposing a five-pronged approach to world food problems.

Kissinger arrived in Cairo from the Rome food conference and a meeting with Pope Paul VI and immediately met with Egyptian foreign minister Ismail Fahmy and then President Anwar Sadat.

American officials said Kissinger met Sadat in the president's bedroom for 90 minutes. Kissinger said Sadat had the flu but he did not say whether the president was actually in bed.

The Middle East News Agency reported earlier Sadat had been confined to his home with a cold he caught during a visit to Algiers last week.

The American officials said Sadat's wife and daughter joined Kissinger and the president briefly before the talks began. Fahmy and U. S. Ambassador Hermann Eilts also attended the session.

In a statement on his arrival in Cairo the secretary said he had come "to see how further progress can be made towards a just and lasting peace in the Middle East."

"The United States stands ready as it has for the past year to be helpful to the parties in making rapid progress towards peace."

Kissinger is scheduled to fly to Saudi Arabia Wednesday afternoon and then on to Jordan the same night. He will complete his tour Thursday with a visit to Syria and Israel.

He is then to fly to Turkey for talks aimed at promoting peace between Greeks and Turks over Cyprus.

As he left Rome for Cairo in a driving rain Kissinger looked tired from what his wife Nancy said was a night of only two hours' sleep.

Henry Kissinger declares war on world starvation

ROME (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger declared war Tuesday on world hunger and starvation with a five-point blueprint for global action.

He said a concrete and concerted program could end hunger within a generation. He called on oil-rich nations to help pay for it.

Keynoting the United Nations World Food Conference, which had been called at his urging, Kissinger told the more than 1,000 delegates from 100 countries including China and the Soviet Union that they must all "act together to regain control over our shared destiny."

Countries that are able to do so should build up food reserves that other countries could draw on in case of emergency, Kissinger said.

Kissinger said that immediately after the conference the United States would convene a group of major exporters to form a program for increasing food production.

The secretary of state urged help from the oil producing countries, whom he partly blames for the current food crisis because they increased oil prices several times over, thus forcing up the price of everything else.

The secretary of state said the oil producers have "a special responsibility" to help finance the war on hunger.

"Hundreds of millions of people do not eat enough for decent and productive lives," Kissinger said. "In many parts of the world 30 to 50 per cent of the children die before the age of five, many of them from malnutrition."

"World population is projected to double by the end of the century," Kissinger told the conference. He said that at that rate, "at some point we will inevitably exceed the earth's capacity to sustain human life."

Justice Department's Petersen to retire

• Henry E. Petersen, 53, will retire Dec. 31 as the Justice Department criminal division chief after a 25-year government career clouded during its last two years by charges he cooperated with the White House on narrowing the Watergate investigation. Both Atty. General William B. Saxbe and the White House said the decision to retire was entirely Petersen's, who said he might write a book or return to private practice after leaving government service.

• Regarded as one of the Democratic Party's national powerhouses, Alabama's Gov. George C. Wallace might have a call next week. Our own Gov. Dan Walker, long rumored to have a yen for the White House, has been visited by a merchants' association to invite Alabama, and Walker's office said that if he goes he probably will meet with Wallace for "a courtesy call." The Alabamian would be a valuable ally should Walker decide to make a presidential or vice presidential bid in 1976.

• There was further evidence Tuesday that Former President Richard M. Nixon, who cast an absentee ballot a day early in the off-year election, continues to improve since his operation and lapse into shock a week ago. His doctors reported that he doesn't want to spend another week in the hospital — even though he is "terribly physically weak" and in pain when he walks. And Julie Nixon Eisenhower, who had been near her father's bedside much of the time, was back in Washington — an indication he is considered out of imminent danger.

• Elsewhere on the medical front: Aristotle Onassis, Greek shipping magnate and husband of the former Jacqueline Kennedy, entered a New York hospital over the weekend for a checkup that a spokesman said might take as long as a week.

• Arkansas Sen. J. William Fulbright, 69, was doing well Tuesday after surgery for an unnamed ailment and his office said he should be out of the hospital in a week.

• Comedian Jackie Gleason, 58, has been granted a divorce in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., but fellow entertainer Mickey Rooney will have to wait a while longer for his. A Circuit Court judge agreed to terminate the four-year marriage of Gleason to Beverly McKirtick, 41, during a closed-door hearing. But five floors above the Gleason divorce proceeding, another judge reserved a ruling on the divorce petition of Mrs. Carolyn Rooney, seventh wife of the onetime child movie star. The judge also denied Rooney's request for a closed hearing of the case.

• Portland golf pro Tom Littlejohn, who won the Oregon PGA title in 1973, revealed yesterday he'll give up the game and instead go to a Bible college. "I gave my life completely up to the Lord," he said. "Some people call it born again."

• State Department officials said Tuesday that Simas Kodzika, 44-year-old Lithuanian sailor who was turned back to the Russians at sea by the U. S. Coast Guard after he tried to seek political asylum in 1970, had left Moscow for the United States. He was found later to be an American citizen by nature of his mother's birth and he was freed from a Soviet prison in September after serving 3½ years of his 10-year sentence. Officials said Kodzika left Moscow by plane with his Brooklyn-born mother; his wife, Mariya, 38; and their two children, Lolita, 14, and Evadka, 8.

Mikva proclaims win over Young

Democrat Abner Mikva claimed a narrow victory Tuesday night in his struggle to unseat incumbent GOP Congressman Samuel Young in the bitterly contested 10th District race.

With 75 per cent of the precincts reporting, according to Mikva's figures, Mikva had tallied 61,868 votes, with Young totaling 59,487 — a margin of only 2,379 votes.

Young's office released figures that showed the congressman leading Mikva, but with only 56 per cent of the precincts reporting.

Members of Mikva's staff said they were especially pleased with partial vote totals in Maine Township, which includes Des Plaines. They said Mikva had managed to win "seven or eight precincts" this year, and two years ago they were able to win only one or two precincts.

Precincts in Evanston may hold the key to the outcome. It was reported that an especially large turnout in Evanston Township slowed the ballot-counting process. In 1972, when Young narrowly defeated Mikva, Mikva carried Evanston by 6,000 votes.

EARLY VOTE FIGURES indicated the race, perhaps the most hotly contested congressional race in the nation, had drawn only about 60 per cent of the voters, compared with 87 per cent two years ago.

In Northfield and New Trier townships, two areas in which Young was expected to score well, early returns indicated Young was leading Mikva.

Young, interviewed at his Skokie office, which was crowded with 300 supporters, said there had been "a lot of illegal electioneering" on election day.

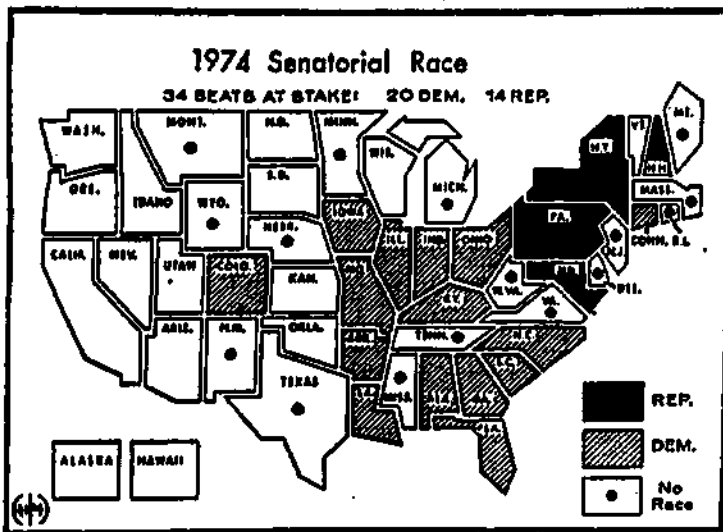

He said he gained votes in areas where he had not scored well in 1972, but said voter apathy and Watergate hampered the GOP cause.

AT THE WHITE EAGLE Restaurant in Niles, between 2,500 and 3,000 wildly enthusiastic backers crowded in to cheer Mikva vote returns.

In 1972, Mikva moved to the 10th District from his redistricted South Side district, where he served four years as a congressman. He challenged Young, and in a bitter election, but lost 52 per cent to 48 per cent.

This year's election proved to be the most expensive in the nation, with each candidate spending $200,000 on the race. A Mikva victory would make him the first Democrat to represent the district in Congress since 1894.

Senate state-by-state...

DEMOCRATS RETAINED control of the Senate and threatened to expand their majority in the first national elections since the Watergate scandals crippled the Republican Party.

The chart shows winners in the 1974 Senatorial race from results compiled as of 10 p.m. Tuesday. Striped states indicate Democratic winners; solid indicate Republicans.

Tireless Viewing

by Ed Landwehr

Do you have a good picture on your television set?

A lot of people think they do until they have a chance to view a fully modern one. Picture fade, distortions and misalignments build up so gradually that you don't notice it. Then one day you notice yourself getting kind-eyed headaches from eye strain.

It pays to scrutinize your TV picture carefully from time to time and call your TV serviceman at the first sign of trouble. Besides preventing physical discomfort, you prevent excess wear on other TV parts. You save on over-all maintenance costs.

And don't forget, Landwehr's Home Appliances, 1000 W. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights will give you the best satisfaction possible. Let us show you. Just call 285-0700.

Village board wrapup

Drop police radio receiver ban proposal

Wheeling officials have decided to abandon a proposal calling for a ban on the use of radio receivers that monitor police calls.

Trustee William Hein recently asked the village board to consider passing an ordinance prohibiting such receivers for the "safety of policemen." The receivers are a danger to policemen, he said, because they enable burglars, vandals and other criminals to monitor police movements.

About two weeks ago, the village board directed the proposal to the judiciary and purchasing committee for further study after Village Atty. Paul Hamer said the village may be able to regulate the use of the receivers.

Trustee Albert Lang, chairman of the committee, however, said Monday night he believes the village cannot regulate the use of the radios and asked that it be removed from his committee.

"I believe there is very little we can do to prevent people from using police monitors if they want to," he said. "I would say we should ask people to stop using them in public places, but I don't think it is feasible to prohibit their use."

Instead of a ban on the radio receivers, Lang and other officials have suggested the police department install scramblers or decoders on radios to thwart the monitoring of calls. The devices would garble messages so they only could be understood by police department personnel.

Hein has denied that he called for the ban on police monitors as part of an effort to prevent news leaks in the police department. According to one police source, however, officials believe residents monitor police calls and give the information to newspapers.

Trustee Edward Berger agreed with Lang that the village should not attempt to ban the monitors, adding, "I think by saying you don't want them (monitors) used, you're going to have more persons playing around with them."

Ideal gets zone variation

The village board has granted a zoning variation so the Ideal Cabinet Co. Inc. does not have to move a sawdust collector installed in violation of village ordinances.

The zoning board recommended the variation be granted after being informed that the collector would not prevent fire department equipment from getting to the rear of the property.

Officials from the cabinet company said they were unaware the sawdust collector was in violation of ordinances until it was pointed out to them by a village inspector during a routine inspection.

They said moving the collector would be costly and asked for the variation so it could be kept at its present location.

The firm, 2130 S. Foster Ave., makes wooden cabinets and the sawdust collector is required by the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency.

The village board, however, refused to allow the firm to install a crushed stone parking lot. A village ordinance requires that parking lots be constructed of asphalt.

Youth worker honored

The Wheeling Youth Commission has given June Orlovski a special service award for her work with community organizations. The award was presented to her Monday night by Village Pres. Ted Scanlon.

"You have given 100 per cent of yourself with no thought of personal gain," Scanlon said. "Many people think you are a very special person."

Mrs. Orlovski has served on the Wheeling Youth Commission for about four years and is assistant chairman. She also works with Omni-House: Youth Services Bureau and the Wheeling Historical Society.

"You have helped make Omni-House one of the most progressive youth agencies in the state," Scanlon said.

Sixth graders make large-type books for visually handicapped

by JUDY JOBBITT

Scott Johnson plays ball, runs around and acts like any other first-grade student.

But Scott has one major difficulty. He is visually handicapped and needs special reading materials with large-type letters and figures.

Sixth-grade students at Tarkington School where Scott is a first grader decided to do something about his problem. They are working on books for Scott and other visually-handicapped students in Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21.

THE IDEA STARTED on a small scale in teacher Diane O'Brien's reading class. One of her students wanted to make a children's book for the class's independent work project.

Mrs. O'Brien suggested a book for Scott. The project was picked up by the class with enthusiasm and mushroomed into a full-scale production of books for the visually handicapped.

A packet called "Interaction" with suggestions for projects to aid the visually handicapped was used to get ideas for the books.

Scott selected most of the books the students are making. Additional requests came from Laurel Denny, visually-handicapped program director, and Jerri Bisantz, his teacher.

STUDENTS ARE MAKING a book of shapes, number books, a dictionary, a coloring book, an alphabet book, a sign book and tapes that a student can listen to while reading.

Objects are made in materials that can be touched so the child can identify the figure in the book by its outline.

Mrs. Denny also is going to print the words in braille so the books can be used by blind students.

Scott visited the class to see how the books were progressing. The students said they learned from his visit because they didn't realize the problems visually handicapped students would have. "He thought it was pretty cool," said one student after Scott's visit.

THE STUDENTS LIKE the project too.

"It's fun because I like helping little kids out," one girl said. "Everybody in the class was so happy because they wanted to do something for him."

"I think it's neat," one boy said. "Never thought I'd see the day I'd help a kid with eye problems."

Although the students still are gearing the project to Scott, Miss Bisantz reminded them that "Scott is to be treated like any 6-year-old." She warned them not to treat him with any special care. Once he knows the way he does not need special guidance, she said.

"He's a smart little boy," she told them. "His only problem is we must enlarge the items for him."

THE BOOKS ALSO will be used by other students in his class. The bright colors and pictures are attractive for any first grade student to use, Miss Bisantz said.

The books are going to be bound by the district. Parts where answers are placed or objects are colored are going to be laminated so the books can be used again.

THE RED CROSS is caring for the Robert Wozny family of Buffalo Grove after fire Tuesday night destroyed most of their home at 410 Raupp Blvd.

Fire department officials said the fire apparently started while someone was making candles on a stove in the basement. There was no official estimate of damage Tuesday night, but officials said it was considerable and the house was uninhabitable. No one was injured.

Palatine, Milwaukee rezoning turned down

The Cook County Board, Monday denied the rezoning of 11.4 acres at the southwest corner of Palatine Road and Milwaukee Avenue in Wheeling Township for general commercial use.

The Zoning Board of Appeals, after reviewing the zoning change request, recommended to the county board that the request be denied.

The owner of the property, held in a trust at the Chicago Title and Trust bank, requested a change to use the property for camper sales, services and storage.

Coinbox stolen from pay telephone

Two burglaries were reported Monday to Wheeling police.

Police said Tuesday that nothing was stolen from the apartment of Thomas L. Meyers Jr., 503 E. Manchester Dr., which was burglarized sometime Monday.

The second burglary was reported at Your Pie House, 335 S. Milwaukee Ave. Police said a rear door was forced open and the coinbox from a pay telephone was stolen.

Police charge man with reckless conduct

John Cargill, 490 E. Mors Ave., Wheeling, was charged with reckless conduct Friday after he allegedly shot a gun at his girlfriend, police said Monday.

Police said Cargill filed a counter complaint of battery against the woman. The woman's name and further details of the alleged incident were unavailable Monday. Police said they expect a warrant to be issued for the woman's arrest today.

Police refused to provide any further information.

Firemen put out burning mattress

40-member citizens' committee

High school building group sets first meeting tonight

The first meeting of a 40-member citizens' committee assigned to study needs for additional building facilities at the district's eight high schools will be tonight at 8 p.m. at the district administration center, 799 W. Kensington Rd., Mount Prospect.

Members of the district board of education and administration are expected to attend. After the committee picks a chairman and takes care of other organizational matters, its first task will be to study a lengthy list of building needs submitted to the board by the administration.

The group will not be restricted to needs on the list.

Supt. Edward Gilbert earlier said the list was prepared as a "starting point."

The committee, made up of five representatives from each school, was authorized by the board in response to a citizens' group request. No time limit has been set for the study.

The group had requested that facilities at district schools be made equal.

Some schools have major items but other don't include fieldhouses and/or swimming pools.

Tonight's committee meeting is open to the public.

Suburban vote heavy despite apathy, weather

by KAREN BLECHA

Voting in the Northwest suburbs was heavier than expected yesterday despite bad weather and predictions that apathy would win this year's election.

Cook County Clerk Stanley T. Kusper predicted turnout here could register as high as 60 per cent. He called the Northwest suburbs "atypical," saying that turnout in other suburban areas was "way, way down."

Kusper had previously predicted that 47 to 53 per cent of registered voters in the suburbs would go to the polls. In the 1970 general election, 74.2 per cent of all suburban voters in the county turned out.

ELECTION JUDGES polled by the Herald yesterday were less optimistic than Kusper. While they termed the turnout "better than expected," they estimated only a little more than 50 per cent of the registered voters would visit the polls by 6 p.m.

Judges said they noticed voters spending longer than usual in the voting booths, in some cases as long as eight minutes. Judges guessed that a lot of split ticket voting and confusion over the judges races could be reasons for the time length. This year judges were included on the voting machine for the first time. Before, they were on a paper ballot.

"We're probably running into a lot of picking and choosing," said Dick Adams, pollwatcher in precincts 44 and 3 in Wheeling Township. He predicted that turnout in the two precincts would be about 55 per cent by day's end.

"THE WEATHER doesn't seem to be holding voters back," said Kathy Godfrey, judge in precincts 43 and 34 in Palatine Township. She said people voting at St. John's United Church of Christ in Palatine had to wait in line.

"The voting machines are a slow process," she said. "I think everyone is voting a split ticket."

Busiest times at the polls, as expected, were in the early morning and near 6 p.m. At one precinct in Arlington (Continued on Page 9)

Machine breakdowns blamed

Vote fraud complaints flood area

Widespread reports of malfunctioning voting machines throughout Northwest suburbs Tuesday led County Comr. Floyd Fulle, Republican county chairman, to declare the mechanical problems "the worst I've seen in 12 years as a committeeman." Fulle charged that "hundreds, perhaps thousands" of voters in Maine and Niles townships left the polls without voting because machine breakdowns forced voter backups.

"It almost looked like a conspiracy to upset and cut down the suburban vote," said Fulle. "It was chaotic."

THERE WERE OTHER suburban vote problems reported during the day:

- A Republican election judge in Palatine township precinct 54 was accused of "assisting someone to vote," and County Clerk Stanley Kuser said the complaint would be "thoroughly investigated. If there appears to be some substance to the charge, we'll refer it to the state's attorney for action."

- A complaint of a 60-minute delay at 5 p.m. at Wheeling township precinct 19 in South School, Arlington Heights, where a voting machine was not working.

- Delivery of an additional machine in another Wheeling Township precinct that listed 10th Congressional District candidates rather than the 12th.

- Opening of two Maine Township precincts, 13 and 75, about 8:15 a.m. rather than 8 a.m. Bart Burns, head of the county clerk's election department, said precinct 13 opened late because a "mix-up" in planning failed to provide keys to open the voting machines. In precinct 75, a one-machine vote location, "someone pulled the control latch and broke a set screw," he said.

- Protests of campaigning within polling places at "at least 25 locations" by backers of Abner Mikva, 10th District congressional candidate. Fulle said officials from the state's attorney's and attorney general's offices were summoned to clear the polling places of Mikva supporters.

- Machine breakdowns at Maine Township precinct 7, a school at 1375 S. Fifth Ave., Des Plaines, throughout the day. Election judge Janet Witthold described the breakdowns as "a nightmare" and said four repairmen failed to correct the machine which was recording only half of "straight" Republican ticket votes.

FULLE ESTIMATED that "80, 100, 110" precincts in Maine and Niles townships faced mechanical problems. "Those machines were evidently delivered without a final mechanical check after they were modified to accept judicial candidates," he said.

Fulle also charged that a recent voter canvass incorrectly removed the names of eligible voters from registration rolls and "forced many people to vote by affidavit."

Burns, however, described the election as "rather calm," adding "I don't think there were an unusual number of breakdowns. There were some problems in the morning because of judge's errors."

Officials of Kuser's office were called to the Palatine precinct, 54, in St. Joseph Nursing Home, 80 W. Northwest Hwy., Tuesday morning by aides of Democratic congressional candidate Betty Spence.

DOLORES, JACK, 791 Brantwood, Elk Grove, a Spence poll watcher, signed a complaint stating "I saw a Republican judge in a voting booth who was assisting someone to vote."

Mrs. Jack then added, "The only thing I observed was him coming out of a Heights, 33 people were waiting in line to vote 10 minutes before the polls were scheduled to close.

Floyd T. Fulle, Cook County Republican chairman, estimated suburban voter turnout could go as high as 70 to 75 per cent. He said that by 3 p.m. yesterday, 50 per cent of Maine Township's registered voters had gone to the polls.

"PEOPLE ARE splitting their ballots like crazy," Fulle said.

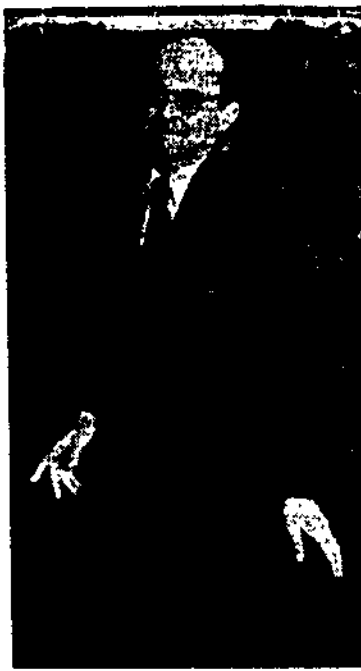

He said voting was also strong in the southern suburbs, saying that in southern Palos Township 80 per cent of the voters had gone to the polls by 4 p.m.

Kusper said that in Chicago the vote was "pushing 50 per cent and up" which is down from past years. "It's just a sad state of affairs," he said.

The current record for low voter turnout, statewide, is 63.34 per cent, recorded in 1954.

closed machine." "If she said that about me, it's an absolute lie. I have not been in a booth when the curtains were closed," said the GOP judge, John Berlin, 55 N. Rose, Palatine. A first-time election official, Berlin was the only male election judge in the precinct Tuesday.

"The law says that when someone needs assistance, there must be both a Democrat and a Republican judge present," said Mrs. Jack. "I reported the one instance I saw. Other witnesses saw many of the same things."

Judges in the 54th precinct said that "60 per cent of the people here (who are residents of the nursing home) need assistance."

"Some people get in there and they can't get out because they can't pull the lever," said Mary Puccinelli, 6 Russet Way, Palatine, another Democratic judge.

Residents of the home, who vote in wheelchairs, have knocked over voting machines in past elections, said Mrs. Puccinelli. Others have difficulty pulling down machine levers.

And now the right to the jaw!

Herald opinion

Superintendent an educator first

Illinois' first appointed state school superintendent should be an educator first and a politician second. It's an absolutely critical point that the State Board of Education should remember while pondering its selection.

This week the board is interviewing the five or six finalists for the job. It's the latest step in a process which began when the 1970 Constitution mandated an appointed superintendent, selected by an appointed board.

The reasoning behind this process was that the superintendent should be an educator capable of leading this state's public education system. Too often in past years the post has been held by politicians inexperienced in education.

One only needs to look at our local school districts to see how well the process of an appointed educator as superintendent works. If local politicians ran schools, then the schools could suffer — and that's the logic which should be extended to the state superintendent's post.

Much of the speculation about the appointed superintendent centers around Michael Bakalis, the present elected state superintendent. It isn't appropriate at this time for us to comment on his ascension to the new post, for we aren't aware of the names or qualifications of the rest of the candidates. We hope that a decision on Bakalis is based on his educational — and not his political — qualifications.

Backs environmental veto

Fence post letters to the editor

All Illinois residents interested in environmental issues should know that the General Assembly will attempt to override Gov. Walker's veto of SB 589 when it re-convenes Nov. 7. SB 589 is a bill which amends the Environmental Protection Act and would prevent enforcement of all existing environmental rules and regulations.

The Illinois League of Women Voters, which supports the Governor's veto and asks a "no" vote on the motion to override, wants all interested individuals to contact members of the Senate and House immediately urging a "no" vote on the motion to override.

SB 589 was drafted by commercial and industrial interests who consider this measure one of their biggest legislative successes of the session and they will lobby hard to effect an override of the veto. Senators Graham, Regner, Nimrod and Knapp were some of the senators sponsoring the bill.

SB 589 amends the Environmental Protection Act and requires an economic impact study of "existing and proposed environmental control regulations." All existing state regulations, adopted by the Pollution Control Board, will be unenforceable until re-adopted following completion of complex studies and public hearings. Since most of these regulations are federal regulations also, it will be necessary for the U.S. EPA to enforce them. Sewage treatment plant construction grants from the federal government amounting to a total of $565 million for the fiscal years of 1972, 1973 and 1974 could be jeopardized. The 1972 funds have been partially allocated but allocation of later funds could be considerably delayed. Federal program grants to the operating funds of the Environmental Protection Agency, amounting to almost $3 million a year, could also be lost for lack of the agency's ability to enforce existing rules and regulations as required by federal laws.

The key to SB 589 is the requirement that "the record of existing rules and regulations shall be re-opened to consider proposed revisions." This language makes all existing rules and regulations unenforceable and guts four years of regulatory action by the Illinois Pollution Control Board.

The call goes out to all persons who wish to retain the Environmental Protection Act as it is to write their representatives urging them to vote "no" on the motion to override the veto.

Irvana Keagy Wilks, Environmental Quality Chairman, League of Women Voters of Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect Area

Fire department 'jealousy' hit

When the Fire Study Committee was formed in early 1973, representation from the Long Grove Fire Department, Buffalo Grove Fire Department and Vernon Township Fire Department was requested. Vernon Township attended only one meeting as they felt the issue was not of great concern to their interests. There was numerous meetings of the committee with representation of the Long Grove Rural Fire Protection District and Buffalo Grove Fire Department. Regrettably, Long Grove displayed an attitude that was both diffident and uncooperative. In only the last two months has one of their representatives indicated any cooperation at all.

It is unfortunate that an attitude of cooperation which should exist between departments in adjoining communities is instead marred by grievances and petty jealousies by certain individuals. While it was the desire of the committee to effect the disannexation in an amenable manner, as a stepping stone to a municipal department, it has been shown that Long Grove Fire Protection District does not wish to be cooperative.

It is apparent that though Long Grove Rural Fire Protection District concerns themselves with past differences, as witness the direct quote by Trustee Anton Berg, "We would not object to losing the area to Buffalo Grove as a municipal department. We are opposed to losing the area to Wheeling Fire Protection District." The fact that the municipal department and the Buffalo Grove Fire Department, Inc., will involve the same personnel is being overlooked. Mr.

Berg's displeasure with Wheeling Fire Protection District is of paramount importance. Petty feuds have no place in such an issue, especially where substantial sums of taxpayers' money is involved.

It has further been the desire of the committee to avoid comparison of the two departments. However, comparison is unavoidable due to allegations made by the Long Grove department which appears to have been intentionally misleading. Long Grove has represented their ambulance service as being a paramedic staffed functioning mobile intensive care unit, as has been operated by the Buffalo Grove Fire Department, Inc., for the past two years. This is not the case as they have not received state certification. Consequently, they cannot operate the sophisticated equipment and drugs necessary to qualify as a mobile intensive care unit.

It has also been alleged that Buffalo Grove Fire Department does not have sufficient equipment and manpower to cover the area involved in the disannexation. The fact is that according to the Office of Insurance Services of Illinois, whose job is to evaluate and certify fire departments in the state, the Buffalo Grove Fire Department has more than adequate equipment and personnel to provide protection for the entire village of Buffalo Grove.

It has been further alleged that Long Grove would have a quicker response to a call in that area subject to the disannexation. In actuality the response of both departments to the center point of the area is of virtually equal distance.

There are additional allegations and considerations which the committee feels should be covered by upcoming open houses to be held on Nov. 7 at Willow Grove at 8 p.m. and on Nov. 14 at Twin Grove School at 8 p.m.

Edward Osmon, Chairman
Blue ribbon fire study Committee

'Western nations stay silent' on action against world torture

by TOM TIEDE

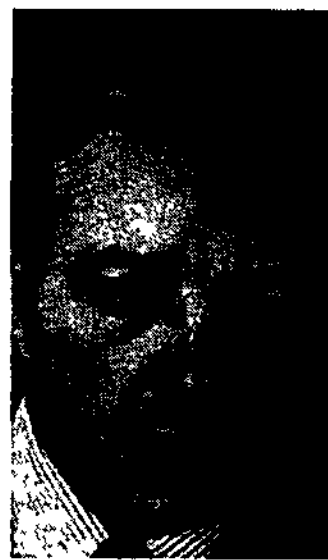

WASHINGTON — When Henry Kissinger told the United Nations last month that the United States would initiate a priority effort to outlaw torture in the world, there was little global notice. Perhaps it's just as well. No use getting hopes up for naught. The truth is the United States probably plans to make a few speeches about the matter, but otherwise follow its historic policy: Look the other way when torture victims cry out for help.

This assessment may seem harsh. But not when measured by U.S. international tradition. "We've never liked to get involved in things like that (torture intervention)," says a knowledgeable State Department official, "so I suppose most of the time we don't."

In the Greece of the military dictatorship era, the U.S. Embassy was located not more than a football field away from a junta-operated prison torture chamber. In Chile, the U.S. representatives saw no evil during last year's overthrow when a detained American youth was being tortured to death in a football stadium.

In Brazil, in Portugal, in dozens of other countries where the U.S. presence carries weight, human beings have died from atrocities while the diplomats pursue the wily tennis ball.

There have been reasons for this other than callousness. So say the foreign service reps, anyway. The explanation is "the United States does not have the right to interfere with the habits of other nations." Never mind that the United States admits to interfering in other nations, such as Chile, for reasons of

CHARLES PERCY

The State Department's man in charge of international human rights, Warren Hewitt, admits the problem is "not getting day-to-day attention."

Less than that, there seems no one at State giving it any thought. All that's been done thus far was a single U.N. speech, by U.S. delegate Sen. Charles Percy; he deplored torture, naming no names naturally, but mostly presented U.S. support for a 1975 U.N. conference on the situation — all those tortured to then must hang tough by their thumbs.

And make no mistake; there are those in the world today hanging by their thumbs. Amnesty International, a private group which keeps tabs on treatment of state prisoners, believes that state torture exists in some 60 nations, half of which practice it as policy. In Uganda, for example, officials have been known to give clubs to prisoners and force them to beat each other to death. In the Vietnam, a more modern technique is called "sensory deprivation": teams of officials pick at a man's brains until it rots with fatigue.

Meanwhile, it's not only the United States but most of the humane world which stands by idly, clucking tongues if anything. Britain, for instance, refers to torture techniques in North Ireland as "interrogation in depth." Israel, the home of victims of one of history's epic tortures, now makes excuses for atrocities of its own during war ("They do it to us").

Except for the Netherlands, which has no clout, Western nations remain silent. And this is the immorality of it all, according to Amnesty International's Joel Carlson: "What is silence if not a kind of approval?" U.S. diplomats, please note.

Clark Mollenhoff's 'Watch on Washington'

ICC 'deregulation' ripped

by CLARK R. MOLLENHOFF

WASHINGTON — Federal Trade Commission Chairman Lewis A. Engman has touched off a bitter dialogue within the regulatory agency community with the suggestion that "deregulation" of transportation could be a meaningful anti-inflation step.

Officials of the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) and Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) consider it meddling by an uninformed interloper, but they are fearful that the assault on transportation regulation may be orchestrated from the White House and the forerunner of a move by President Ford to revamp their regulatory functions.

While Engman denies that his controversial speeches have been written in whole or in part at the White House, it is pointed out by ICC officials that the FTC chairman's criticism of wasteful transportation practices fits like a glove with President Ford's inclusion of deregulation as one of 31 anti-inflation measures recommended to Congress.

ICC Chairman George M. Stafford views the Engman speeches as a possible forerunner of dismantling the ICC to bring about free competition in the railroad and trucking industries and supposedly fight inflation.

Thomas Gale Moore, a professor of economics at the Hoover Institution on War, Revolution and Peace at Stanford, has proposed the dismantling of the ICC, but places limits on its effectiveness:

"It isn't that we can't always do a better job of regulating to keep the costs down. But these intimations that substantial savings — of about 30 per cent — might be made in eliminating the empty backhauls are just unrealistic as far as the regulated trucking industry is concerned."

At the CAB, one member commented critically on Engman's general thesis that "much of today's regulatory machinery does little more than shelter producers from the normal competitive consequences of lassitude and inefficiency."

"Sure we've got planes that have empty seats, and we are trying to take the practical steps to cut down on some of those empty seats by giving the carriers more latitude in the arrangements they make with each other," the CAB member said. "But competition isn't the answer to getting more efficient use of the equipment, for running two planes with half loads uses more fuel and manpower than one full plane."

Engman said that CAB Chairman Robert Timm and ICC Chairman Stafford have expressed concern over his speeches, "but they haven't said anything to me."

The Grand Rapids lawyer said he is not suggesting that the ICC or CAB be dismantled, but that "I just wanted to start a dialogue and some serious thinking on the ways that lifting the regulatory rules might help to curb inflation."

He said he had not discussed his Oct. 7 speech to the Financial Analysts Federation in Detroit with President Ford before he gave it, but that he had talked with him since and that the President "was not displeased with what I said."

Engman, who is from Ford's home town, knew Ford as his congressman but did not come to Washington as a Ford protégé. He served in the Nixon White House as an assistant to former Special Assistant John D. Ehrlichman from 1970 until January, 1973, when he was nominated by President Nixon to be chairman of the FTC.

Some officials note that Engman has been mentioned as a 1976 Republican senatorial candidate to run against Senator Phil Hart, a liberal Democrat, and that his Detroit speech might have been designed to launch his political career.

Emphasis on the individual

by WANDALYN RICE

For the past several years children with severe learning disabilities from the Northwest suburbs have been going to Dundee to attend Summit School, a private school that can help with their problems.

Now, however, the children don't have to go so far. Summit School East opened with a capacity for 58 children last month at the First Presbyterian Church in Arlington Heights. Children from first grade through high school are now going to Summit East for help with problems in reading, motor skills and any number of other things that can plague a child with learning disabilities.

The children attend Summit in the morning and go back to their own schools in the afternoon. While at Summit, according to director Carol Kolinski, the children are given structured work designed for their specific problem.

"I think what is special here is the structure," Mrs. Kolinski says. "Each child is taught totally individually — there is very little group work. Many times the public school teachers don't have the time to work on the individual problems of students."

THE CHILDREN AT Summit have a variety of problems, from dyslexia, a problem of visual coordination that causes a child to reverse letters or whole words, to problems with a short attention span, hand-eye coordination or other motor problems.

In addition, Mrs. Kolinski says, the school has a large number of high school-age students who have gaps in their learning but few of the traditional symptoms associated with learning disabilities.

"Many of these problems — poor visual ability, balance and things like that — will get better as a child gets older, so we can have teenagers who have a lot of trouble in school without having any symptoms," she said.

One 17-year-old girl who is now in the program, Mrs. Kolinski says, is a good example of the teenager whose problems outlast the symptoms of learning disabilities.

"She has tremendous gaps in her knowledge because when she was younger she had a very short attention span," Mrs. Kolinski says. "She came here not knowing east from west or north from south. She had severe math problems and had failed cooking class because she couldn't do fractions. She dropped out of school at 15, but now she just eats up everything we can give her."

CHILDREN ARE usually referred to Summit by their local school districts, Mrs. Kolinski says, after efforts by the local district to help the child have failed. The child is then screened by the Summit staff and placed in the program for a trial period of six weeks.

If the child does not seem to fit in six weeks, she says the staff at Summit will recommend another school. "We have no desire to keep the child here just to fill the rooms," Mrs. Kolinski says. "If we can't help the child, we'll find another placement."

Children accepted for the program, she says, must have at least normal intelligence and "no primary emotional disturbance," meaning that their emotional problems can be a result, but not a cause, of their learning problems.

Mrs. Kolinski says that estimates place the number of children with learning disabilities at about 10 per cent of the school population. She estimates that most of those children are taken care of in their local schools, but the children with the most difficult problems come to Summit.

THE AVERAGE STAY for a child at Summit is two years, Mrs. Kolinski says, but "with a non-reading high school student it can take longer." The teachers work with the children while they are at the school in the morning and then spend the afternoon planning programs for the children.

Tuition at Summit is $2,900 a year, with $2,000 paid by the state and local school districts who send the child, Mrs. Kolinski says. The school has a waiting list and has had one almost since it first started in 1967.

"It's very frustrating," Mrs. Kolinski says. "We'll open a new class and think we're going to take care of the waiting list and a month later we'll have 20 more people waiting."

Summit East can use volunteers who will tape lessons for children who can't read and do other things to help the teachers, Mrs. Kolinski says. In addition, people who are good at arts and crafts can help the children.

Teacher Ann Kim of the Summit School staff.

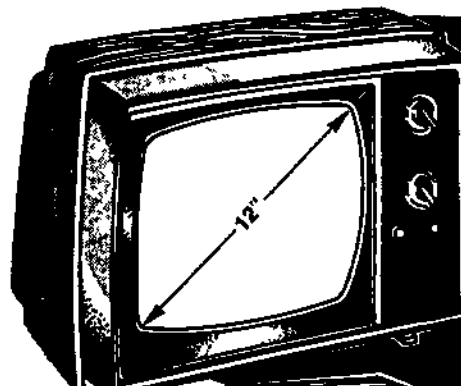

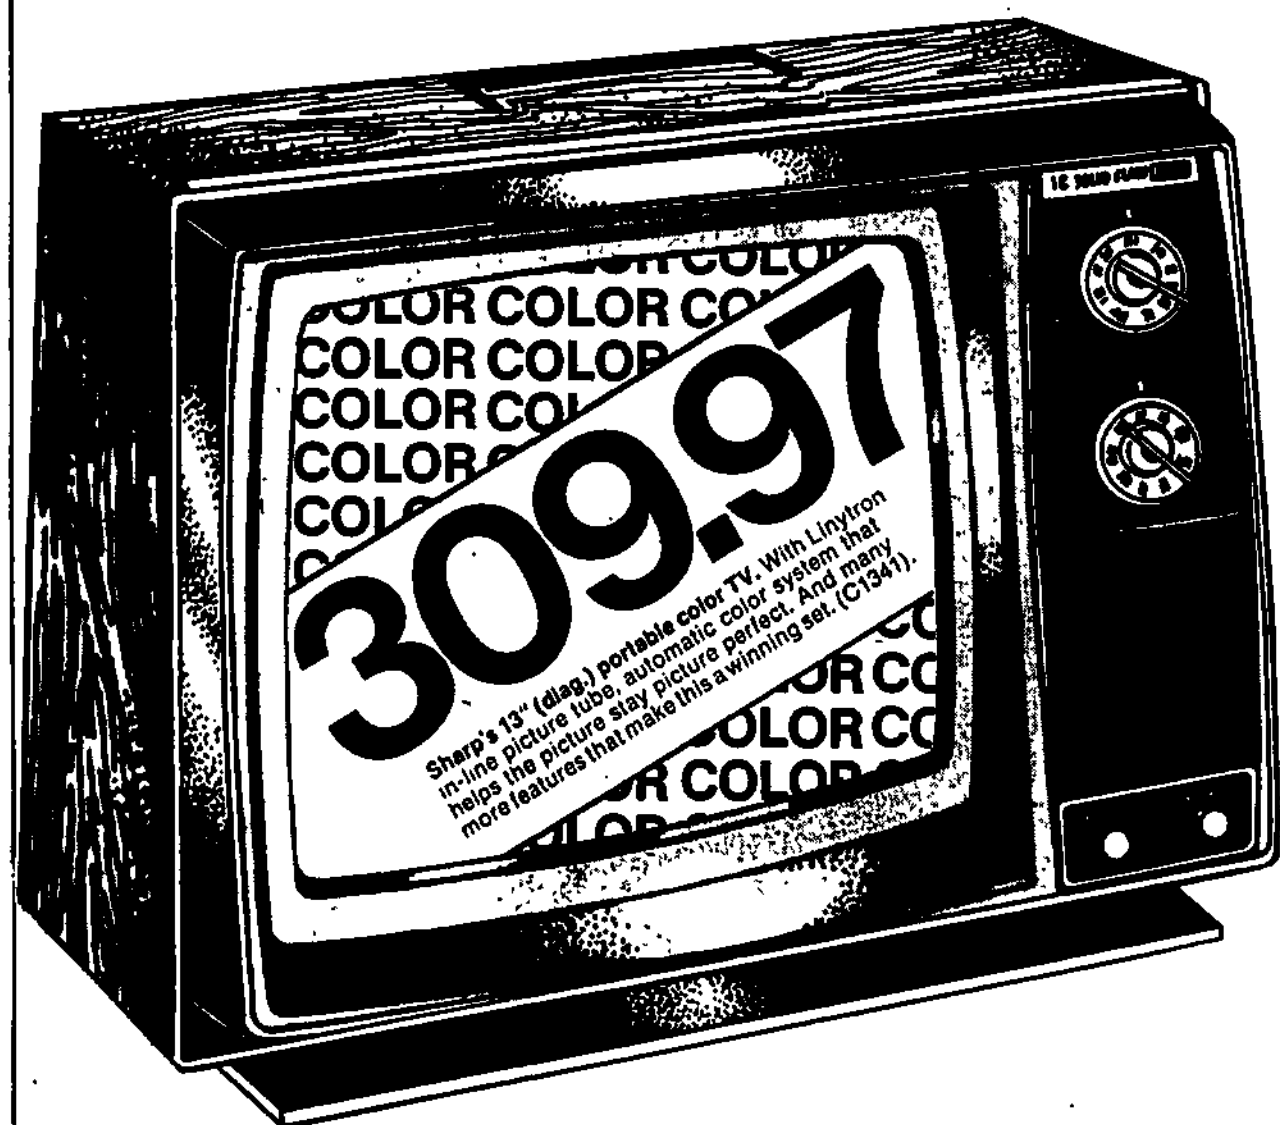

CHILDREN LIKE Steve Muno and teachers like Diane Bugay work together at Summit School on the problems of the children. The school for the children with learning disabilities opened a branch in Arlington Heights last month. The school was founded in 1967 in Dundee.

Win at bridge

South analyzes East's play

South analyzed the lead as fourth best — probably from the queen. West liked to make attacking leads. He counted seven winners — three in spades, two hearts and one each in diamonds and clubs.

"How can I make nine tricks," he asked himself. "I had better lead a diamond from dummy and finesse the ten spot successfully."

Twenty-eight points figures to be enough for game, but this time it did not look too good. Still he led the diamond from dummy. East promptly produced the ace and South stopped to think. "Why did East hop up?"

One good reason would be that the ace was a singleton. In that case South would have no trouble getting two diamond tricks but the third one just wouldn't be there.

"What else could it be showing?" The doubton ace-jack was the mental answer.

Now South made the play to give him his contract against that second combination. He dropped his 10 of diamonds! East led back a heart. South won in dummy, led a diamond to his king and (finessed successfully against West's nine of diamonds after East produced that important jack.

Programming to feel effect of space

This column was written by UPI business writer LeRoy Pope.

NEW YORK — Space satellite hardware has become a $500 million-a-year industry that is likely to affect the lives of nearly everyone.

It is speeding video, telephone and telegraphic communications in a matter of seconds compared with minutes and even hours sometimes by submarine and underground cables. Ultimately, it also will have an enormous impact on television programming around the world, said Jack Greene, president of Comtech Laboratories Inc., a Smithtown, N.Y., firm that makes satellite hardware.

Recently the broadcasters and the cable television companies staged a bitter fight in hearings in Washington before the Federal Communications Commission. It concerned the CATV operators' determined effort to get the commission to relax its rules severely restricting the use of a reservoir of 18,000 motion picture films on CATV with a special per film charge to the set owner.

THIS DONNYBROOK was extremely complicated but it revealed clearly the future of television programming. The billions of dollars it earns is very much up for grabs despite the apparently entrenched positions of the broadcasters and the networks.

Public service broadcasting is winning an appreciable share of the TV audience but it isn't growing fast enough to hurt the commercial broadcasters.

ability to the people who turn them out, American TV programs are by far the most popular around the globe. However, American TV programming does not meet with universal approval. There are critics at home and abroad.

PRESIDENT Luis Echevarria of Mexico recently ordered Mexican stations to drop 37 popular programs, most of them made in the United States. He said the programs promoted violence. Echevarria went farther. In a speech to a world communications conference at Acapulco, he said television, far from improving communication between human beings, does just the opposite, that "it has broken down the interspecific relationship that is a characteristic of civilization."

"I think," Echevarria said, "TV contributes to the loneliness of modern life and makes people isolated and passive."

Comtech's Greene says space satellite communications can diversify and improve the quality of TV programming all around the globe with the underdeveloped countries getting the benefits first because they have no expensive investment in older systems to cling to.

The satellite hardware to create a global market to support an extensive low-cost international program exchange already is being installed, Greene said. In addition to being cheaper than coaxial cable or microwave relay tower transmission, the satellite system produces clearer pictures and music and voice tones over great distance, Greene said.

DAVID FOSTER, president of the National Cable Television Assn., said in an article in TV Guide in May the big issue is that pay-TV can bring first-class programs into the home for a $1.50 that would cost $3 to more than $10 at the theater or the sports arena, and ought to be allowed to do so. He said no one in the CATV industry envisions pay-TV as a replacement for broadcast TV, only as a supplement.

But at the Washington hearing, the broadcasters brought two widely known

They send two messages

Charity Christmas cards

by MARIANNE SCOTT

Over the years sending Christmas cards has become a routine social custom — something performed without much thought behind the action. But if you want the true feeling of Christmas to be the thought behind your card, send the "card with two messages."

Although this thought comes from the Lutheran Welfare Services of Illinois, it speaks for all groups and agencies offering cards that not only send holiday greetings but also help support a worthy cause.

Purchase of these cards can benefit a homeless, underprivileged or retarded child, provide financial help to maintain programs and build new facilities for handicapped children and adults, help provide funds for researching dreaded diseases or help a hospital help the sick.

THE CARD itself, or an insert, tells those who receive it which charity will benefit; it also tells your friends that you have compassion for others less fortunate or in need.

A few of these greetings are reprinted here. Prices are competitive, imprinting extra, and at least a portion of your donation helps humanity. It also provides a tax deduction.

Area facilities selling cards include Little City and Countryside Center for the Handicapped in Palatine and Clearbrook Center in Rolling Meadows.

From cards designed by students in the art therapy class at Little City four have been selected for reproduction. One is of fat little birds perching on a berry branch. Others are children creating a snowman, a sleepy mouse in a shoe and a stained glass window scene. There are 25 cards of one design in a $5 box.

SAMPLE CARDS are available by calling 358-5510. Orders may also be placed at this number or through Mrs. R. L. Muchow, 397-4085.

Little City is a residential community especially created and geared for the training, treatment, education and habilitation of mentally retarded children, presently ranging in ages from 6 to 33.

A group of children adding finishing touches to a snowman outside an old farm-type home is one of the cards being sold by the Parents Association of Countryside Center. It sells at $8.50 for 25. The other card offered is a religious scene picturing a child with manger scene selling at $5 for 25. Both are by local artists.

Countryside operates a day care center for multiple-handicapped students under 16, and also a workshop for adults. Orders may be placed at the center, 438-8855; evenings, Harriet Swanson may be called at 358-5429.

CLEARBROOK CENTER, which operates a day school for developmentally disabled children in Rolling Meadows, a vocational rehabilitation center for adults in Elk Grove Village and a community living facility in Arlington Heights, is offering five cards designed by retarded persons in programs operated by the National Association for Retarded Citizens.

These same five cards are also being offered by the Ray Graham Association for the Handicapped in Addison. Price range of the cards, at both facilities, is $3 to $5.

In addition to the specially-designed cards, both Clearbrook and the Ray Graham Association have many other cards which sell at various prices. Samples of Clearbrook's cards may be seen at the center's community relations office, 3201 W. Campbell, Rolling Meadows. A call to 255-0120 will give you the name and phone number of an area chairman who also has sample cards.

A color catalog and order blanks from the Ray Graham Association are available by calling Roberta Nelson at 543-2440. Area chairmen will bring samples to your door.

THE PALATINE office of the American Cancer Society is offering the society's white embossed card with sketch of a horse-drawn sleigh loaded with Christmas trees. Twenty-five cards sell for a minimum contribution of $12.50. The printing of your own special message or a favorite verse is also offered, charges depending upon the number of words and lines. The office is located at 113 N. Northwest Hwy., 358-3965.

Christmas cards to benefit diabetes research are being sold by the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation, a new organization with offices in Mount Prospect. Marilyn Furer of the Chicago Northwest Chapter may be contacted at 856-1029 for sample cards and to place orders.

The diabetes card, offered in the Chicago area for the first time, pictures a group of happy children of all nationalities. It is done in gold and orange tones. Price is $5.95 for 25.

The Christmas card offered by the area chapter of Sudden Infant Death Syndrome is of many church steeples of all denominations in gold and black on a mustard background. Boxes of 25 sell for $4. Those wishing samples and information may call Sue Livingston, 259-1167. SIDS raises funds to help research a mysterious cause of death in infants.

THE HEART Association offers four cards this year. Thirty-five-cent cards are a pastel snow scene with red cardinal and red berries brightening a peaceful brookside and an embossed white dove set in greenery on a pale yellow background. The 50-cent cards are a red and gold embossed card with Christmas candle and gold interior and a white card with bright colored accents wishing hope, peace, health, love and joy.

All contributions in excess of 15 cents per card are tax deductible. Virginia

The Other Generation Gap

Middle-aged, old have problems communicating, too

by ELEANOR RIVES

In a room heavy with problems, 10 women met last Friday at Harper College for an all-day workshop to explore "The Other Generation Gap" — the one in which the older generation is literally the "old" generation and the younger generation is their middle-aged, adult children.

There was no gap in understanding among the participants. Empathy and encouragement, based on personal experience, were extended freely. Not incidental was the realization that everyone, no matter what his age, must learn to grow old successfully.

Reynold Walter, former counselor for the Bensenville Home Society, now program director of Family Services and Mental Health of South Cook County, conducted the workshop designed to ease tensions between senior citizens and their adult children.

"THE MIDDLE-AGED person is caught between two generations," said Walter. "His children have grown, he is better off financially and would like more freedom. At the same time, his parents have become more dependent upon him."

Walter is one of a growing number of professionals turning their attention to gerontology. His primary goal is to help the different generations understand one another, an accomplishment that involves much time, patience and giving if all levels are to be satisfied.

He pointed out the problems our society visits upon the aging — its emphasis on youth, on activity, on work and independence.

"ALL OF A sudden at age 65, leisure is thrust upon a generation that sprang from a 'work' culture," he said. "A man's abilities should be the yardstick for retirement, not an arbitrary age."

"Older persons, because of declining physical processes; become increasingly dependent in a society that admires independence. Because of income reduction, bereavement, decline in physical function and the social mobility of their children, they tend to become isolated in a culture that is group-oriented."

Walter discussed some of the declines of age — lessened mobility, changes in eyesight and hearing, in hair, teeth, skin, smell, taste — pointing out, however, that though it differs with each individual, there are generally no major declines until the age of 75. Minor declines are a slow process; those who age successfully adjust to them as they occur.

According to Reynold Walter, the four necessary components that must be extended to the elderly to bridge the "other generation gap" are dignity, a sense of self-worth, understanding and the right of decision (or part of the decision) whenever possible.

People adjust to old age in a number of successful ways. The mature, well-rounded individual is objective about his life situation and accepts it. The introvert can find satisfaction in such activities as reading, watching television, going to the park. The compulsive person can enjoy completing small tasks. Even the dependent person can adjust to old age with no trauma; more often it's harder on the people around him.

"THOSE HELPING such people must set some limits and not feel guilty about it," said Walter. "You may honor your father and mother, but you must consider yourself, too, and be true to yourself."

It's the non-adaptive person who has the greatest problem adjusting to old age, according to Walter — the angry, sour-on-life, often self-hating individual who cannot adapt.

"But that person has had input all his life into what happens to him," he said. "He must take part of the responsibility for his old age, too. He should have prepared for it. The child with behavior problems becomes the adult and subsequently the old person with behavior problems."

THE MOST important drives of the elderly are threefold: the desire for independence, the desire for security and safety, the desire for physical comfort and well being. For all three, they need the help of the middle generation.

Noting that loss and grieving occur to anyone at any age, but more frequently to the elderly, Reynold outlined 10 normal steps of the process, some interwoven or overlapping. Only when a person becomes enmeshed in one of these steps is professional help needed.

The first is shock: "I'm really not going blind." "She can't be gone for good." Second is emotional release — crying, shouting — a healthy part of the process. Isolation is pulling oneself back, setting oneself apart for awhile: "How am I going to deal with this?" "How will my friends react?"

THERE MAY BE emergence of physical symptoms — tight chest, stomach pains, headache — and this, too, is acceptable if one does not get stuck in this position. Preoccupation with the loss may follow, and then a feeling of guilt: "If only . . ." "I should have . . ." "Maybe I could have . . ."

An expression of hostility toward the persons helping, or toward the deceased in the case of death, is also part of the normal process. After one recognizes his inability to return to a former state and realizes the unreality of such an attitude, he reaches reaffirmation: "I'm not crazy, I'm not dead — I've made it!"

Each time one successfully completes the steps of this process, he is better able to meet the next experience. The greatest need during loss and grieving is for understanding, someone to say "I care," to impart a feeling of hope.

What is the best living arrangement for an older person, and who makes that decision? At what point does the child take on the parenting role? What resources are available; where can one turn for help?

ONE MIGHT BE for those most affected to request another workshop such as this, where middle-aged children can readily recognize themselves and their elderly relatives. Workshops and seminars in the Women's Program at Harper are listed in the "Women's Fall Schedule," available by calling 397-3000, extension 230.

Meanwhile, they will find appropriate reading material on the subject in "You and Your Aged Parents" by Stern and Ross, "Good Grief" by Granger Westburg, "On Death and Dying" by Elizabeth Kubler-Ross and "Old Age: The Last Segregation," a Ralph Nader report.

Women and children first

Father's role in abortion

by JULIE MARTOCIO
Dear Atty. Martoccio:

I have a problem and I'm hoping you can help me. I read your column every week and something you said about a baby belonging legally to both the mother and father has me thinking about my own situation. Does a wife have a right to have an abortion without her husband's consent? I'm pregnant and when I told my husband I wanted an abortion, he said I couldn't because the baby is his as much as mine. I told him I could have gone ahead and told him I had a miscarriage, but that doesn't make any difference. He's so mad at me he only speaks to me when he has to.

We've only been married a year and I want to keep on working until we can get ahead, like paying for our car and getting enough for a down payment on a house. I told him that when I'm able to quit my job, I'd want to have a baby too. He says it won't be the same baby. Then he said, "Go ahead and see what happens." I'm worried he'll leave me.—P. G. and confused.

Dear P.G. and Confused:

If I said yes, the law permits you to have an abortion without your husband's consent, would that solve your problem? I think not. You feel that your marriage is on shaky grounds and, I believe, even you are not certain that you want to go ahead and have the abortion. You will have to think all of this over very carefully and try again to sit down and talk calmly to your husband to get matters straightened out.

Abortion is strictly a personal matter between two parties that now has the sanction of the law. But the law cannot settle questions of a person's training, religion, personality and in your case, your husband's ego which I suspect you have ignored. He may be genuinely fond of children, but I think the real problem comes from your statement that you "could have lied to him." That's just it. You told him. You didn't ask him. So now you'll have to try to start all over again, unless you change your mind about having the abortion and risking his feelings.

• In 1973, the U.S. Supreme Court limited any state's right to prohibit abortion.

• The court said that a state can prohibit an abortion only in the last three months of pregnancy and then not if the abortion is necessary to protect the health of the mother.

• The reason was, they said, that this is a right of privacy protected by the 14th Amendment.

• The court pointed out that the decision rests solely with the woman and the doctor during the first three months.

• It also said that the state has the right to regulate the abortion procedure to protect the mother's health during the second three months.

• The state has the right, the justices ruled, during the third three months when the fetus is viable (able to live outside the womb) to regulate or even prohibit abortion except where the mother's physical or mental health is endangered.

While the Supreme Court decision is being followed by most states, the issue is far from settled. Many questions are still debated by "pro-life" organizations and religious groups.

There might also be conflict over whether a person has a right to sue for a divorce on the grounds of incompatibility should there be a disagreement over a possible abortion.

In any event, and in the final analysis, every woman has to make her own decision regardless of what the law says she can or cannot do. Only she knows whether an abortion is worth it to her in terms of family relationship, health, religion etc.

I hope you make the right choice.

Dress a doll for Christmas

Interest in the annual doll fashion contest of First National Bank of Des Plaines is running high this year with a report that many of the 96 dolls already have been picked up by contestants.

However, there is still more than a month remaining in the contest and anyone still wishing to enter may do so by picking up a doll from the bank's receptionist.

Contestants have until Tuesday, Nov. 10, to design and sew any type of costume for the doll. Dolls are then displayed at the bank for two weeks and distributed to needy children at Christmas by the Des Plaines Woman's Club.

AGAIN THIS YEAR, the five winners will be determined by public voting on the basis of the best costumes of any type. Each winner receives a $25 cash prize. One prize is given to a youngster 15 and younger with the remaining prizes going to those 16 years and older.

The contest is open to anyone who has the desire to make Christmas a little bit brighter for others and wishing to demonstrate his or her dress designing talents.

Charity Christmas cards

Hunter of the North Cook County office in Skokie, 675-1533, may be contacted for flyers with pictures of the cards.

SKOKIE IS also the home of Orchard Village, a community that serves mentally retarded young adults in Des Plaines and surrounding areas. It offers an avocado card with gold embossed baby head and leaves. The interior is gold, and the cards sell for 20 cents each. Those wishing sample cards may call 967-1800.

The wonderment of childhood, the traditional red and green of Christmas and a chance to help a homeless child are all wrapped up in the holiday card offered by the Illinois Children's Home and Aid Society. The card, with four winsome youngsters gazing at Christmas trees, sells for $6.25 for 25 cards.

Taking orders from Countryside Chapter of ICHA is Sherri Nilson, 397-4067.

An embossed mosaic of Mary, Joseph and the Christ child is on the card offered by Lutheran Welfare Service of Illinois, which receives support from many area churches. The cards, which normally retail for 25 cents each, are available for any donation one wishes to make.

DONATIONS and orders may be sent to Lutheran Welfare Services, 189 W. Madison St., Chicago, Ill. 60602. The cards cannot be ordered by phone, but will be delivered from the printers direct to your door.

Youth Guidance, a youth counseling agency of the Episcopal Diocese and the Church Federation of Greater Chicago, again features doves of peace in white on brilliant purple on its cards. A sample of the card, which sells for $2.50 for 25 cards, is available by calling 427-1002.

Cards supporting programs to meet the urgent needs of troubled children and their families are available from Mrs. A. L. Coy of Arlington Heights. She is a member of the Northwest Chapter, Service League of Lake Bluff Chicago Homes for Children which is offering a card selling at $4 per 25. The card is of four smiling children encircled by a Christmas wreath. Mrs. Coy is taking orders at 299-0343.

WITH ITS issue of 1974 cards, UNICEF (United Nations Children's Fund) celebrates a 25-year tradition of giving through greeting cards. The collection includes panoramic scenes, toys, legends and family scenes. It also includes five madonnas from Renaissance masters.

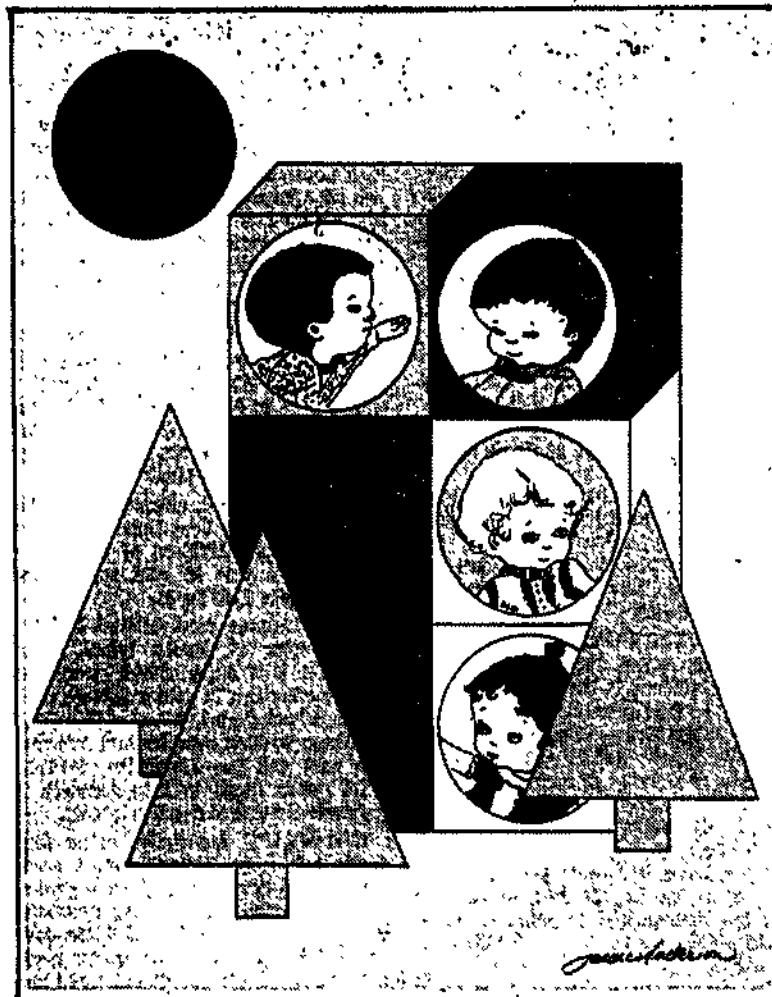

UNICEF, which works to remove the burdens of disease, hunger, ignorance and despair borne by millions of children throughout Asia, Africa and Latin America, claims that the purchase of just one card can provide high protein food supplements to nine malnourished children or buy enough seed to plant 100 feet of beet row.

Boxes of 10 cards range in price from $2.25 to $5. Selling the cards in this area are members of the League of Women Voters. Bobbi Longlais of the Arlington Heights League is taking orders at 255-6176; Mary Ann Lucas, Hoffman-Schaumburg League, 885-2279; Mrs. Robert Redig, Des Plaines League, 824-1794. League members also have brochures for your perusal.

NORTHWEST COMMUNITY Hospital in Arlington Heights has two card selections this year, both created by Ed Fisher, district coordinator of art, music and student teaching for High School District 214. One is a church scene in winter, the other a Raggedy Ann doll peering out the window at Santa. Both sell at $5.25 for 25 cards.

The hospital's women's auxiliary is offering the cards through Corky Patberg, 259-4441. Alexian Brothers Medical Center Auxiliary, Elk Grove Village, again has no special card, but has a selection of 42 cards with inserts explaining that the purchase benefits the hospital. Prices vary according to Virginia DuBeau and Vivian Cassara, who may be reached at the hospital, 437-5500. Virginia's extension is 434; Vivian, 382.

The purchase of any of these "cards with two messages" is a lasting contribution that will have meaning not only at Christmas but all through the year.

She shares zucchini recipes

The homeline

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: My family has enjoyed many of your recipes — especially the zucchini soup and zucchini casserole with sour cream and chives. Since you're such a zucchini fan, thought I'd share a few simple ways my friends and I cook zucchini. It's been fun to experiment, what with it being so abundant in our gardens.

One way is to stuff some large zucchinis with a ground lamb (or beef) rice and onion mixture and bake with tomato sauce about an hour. Another is to cut medium zucchini in half-lengthwise strips and baste with melted butter and broil along with steaks or chops — about five inches from the heat — for about 10 minutes, or until tender.

We also fry sliced zucchini in butter or oil until brown and tender after sprinkling with salt, pepper and a little flour. Still another way is to fry zucchini slices, onion slices, large pieces of green pepper and quartered tomatoes in oil or butter until barely tender (we like it a little crunchy) and season to taste. Delicious!—Audrey White Allen

All of us thank you for sharing. Agree thoroughly that one key point is to cook until barely tender — crunchy. Yum.

Dear Dorothy: Instead of buying an air freshener for my house when it gets musty, I vacuum up a few cloves or a teaspoon of clove spice that I put on the carpet. The clove aroma circulates through the cleaner and permeates the air. You have a fresh-smelling room.—Nancy Lalay

The mail is still coming from readers wanting to know how to make Christmas wreaths from the plastic tops holding six-packs of cola and so on. Everyone seems sure I have it. I don't. Will be happy to print it if someone is willing to share her way of doing it.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 236, Arlington Heights 60004.)

The rebirth of the short cut brings this brilliant Gem to the fore. A short sculptured look with shimmering highlights. It's no stay at home style, for the vital young woman with lots to do. It's a perfect, easy design for day or night especially for the upcoming holidays.

A Paddock review

Overdone 'Red Hot Lovers' still funny

by GENIE CAMPBELL

After 23 years of being the staid, conservative, dutiful husband, Barney Cashman decides to swing out by having an extra-marital fling.

Yet his unlikely choices and his own guilt-ridden fumbling advances make it most difficult for the middle-aged restaurant owner to succeed. The action, though it never even comes close to an "X" rating, results in plenty of laughs, which is all playwright Neil Simon is after in his three-act "The Last of the Red Hot Lovers."

Recently made available to community theater, the adult comedy is being presented by Des Plaines Theatre Guild as its second season offering.

As often happens, Neil Simon gets more than the usual workout in the northwest suburbs and "Red Hot Lovers," one of his more recent efforts, is no exception. It has fairly saturated the area.

HOWEVER, THOUGH not so much fun to see when it's not the first time around, a Simon play, if well produced, can always be appreciated. Thus, Des Plaines Theatre Guild's rendition, with much worthy talent and solid direction, constitutes a light entertaining evening of theater. Nothing smashing but leastwise enjoyable.

Though Don Schroeder as Barney is the show's main character, the women whom he tries to seduce in consecutive would-be affairs are the ones who give life to each act.

Schroeder's portrayal of Barney is disappointing. He comes off, particularly in the first two acts, just dull and plain instead of shy and backward. Admittedly Barney is a difficult role to develop for all his humor is born of subtle gestures, pauses and eccentricities of character. Schroeder just doesn't milk his role for what it's worth.

Yet as master of the script, Simon can cover up any lacks in characterization, if not too serious, and this time he is aided by Barney's three leading ladies.

BETTY KANDBINDER plays Barney's first intended conquest, Elaine Navazio, who looks upon extramarital sexual encounters as facts of life. She's ready. Only Barney isn't.

Ronny Baker plays Bobbi, a young scatter-brained ingenue hoping for her first real break in show biz. The only time she stops talking about her life's experiences is to smoke grass. And if Barney's sexual horizons aren't broadened by her acquaintance, he does achieve a pleasant high.

And Marilyn Carolan is woman No. 3, a friend of Barney's wife who is more nervous and upset than Barney just starting out.

These clandestine intended affairs take place in Barney's mother's apartment. And here Des Plaines Theatre Guild excels. The furnishings are perfect... overstuffed and dowdy.

"The Last of the Red Hot Lovers" is being presented again Friday and Saturday nights for three more weekends. Tickets, 296-1211 between noon and 8 p.m.

A 'love' game of tennis

Donna Kathryn Campbell and David V. Olsen met on the tennis courts where "love" became more than just a game tally. After the tennis match, in which both were competing, David courted Donna off the courts and soon there was a love match.

Donna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Campbell, 147 E. Center Ave., Wheeling, and David, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Olsen of Long Lake, Ill., were married Sept. 28 in First Presbyterian Church, Deerfield.

For the 4 p.m. double ring service Donna chose her sister, Jodie, as maid of honor. Her sisters, Linda and Janice, along with Robbie Adler of Buffalo Grove, were bridesmaids. Five-year-old Christine Lindstrom, Wheeling, was flower girl and 3-year-old Michael Fess, a cousin from Northbrook, was ring bearer.

BEST MAN to the groom was Steven Spencer of Darien, and ushers were Paul Rowley of Wheeling and the groom's brothers, Michael of Long Lake and William of St. Charles.

A reception for 180 guests was held at Hendrick's O'Hare Inn after which the newlyweds honeymooned a week at Disney World in Florida. They are now residing in Grayslake.

MESSAGE FROM FERGUSON. Jeff Boji (85) listens intently as he takes orders from Schaumburg coach Bob Ferguson during Super Bowl V Friday night at Hershey.

The senior lineman relayed the play to Saxon quarterback Russ Zonca, who guided his team to a 7-6 victory over the Huskies for the Mid-Suburban League title.

First state football tourney begins

St. Viator, Deerfield to collide

by MIKE KLEIN

How do you set the odds when there are so many similarities? Both potential state champion football teams possess outstanding quarterbacks, complete platoons for offense and defense, excellent rushing attacks and bountiful traditions.

Yes, there are differences, largely dictated by personnel. One team relies on speed and guile. The other seeks to wear you down with greater size and muscle. In neither case has the formula worked against every opponent.

But the biggest gap . . . once you get past their unquestioned football knowledge . . . exists within the men who run these football teams. They're streaks of a different cut.

You'll be hard pressed to confuse Deerfield's Paul Adams with St. Viator's Jim Lyne when their teams help inaugurate Illinois Class 5A football playoffs at 2 p.m. today in Rolling Meadows' stadium.

Underneath his Warrior red parka, Adams is a thick chested powerful man who earned his credentials playing tackle for the University of Illinois. He is straight laced, totally committed and not taken to the flip, odd or off-color comment which makes good press.

Now we view Lyne, outwardly calm but to those who know him, a man who harbors inner tension. He says things like suburban kids aren't mean. Okay, they're tough, but not mean like city kids. He knew quite a few at Holy-Francis in Chicago.

So much about Lyne doesn't fit. He lives near Old Town where he selects posters to inspire the Lions. The latest artwork depicts four Neanderthal men who presumably are Viator's defensive line of Dan Young, Scott Zetek, John Romano and Mark Michuda. The poster people carry clubs and look mean.

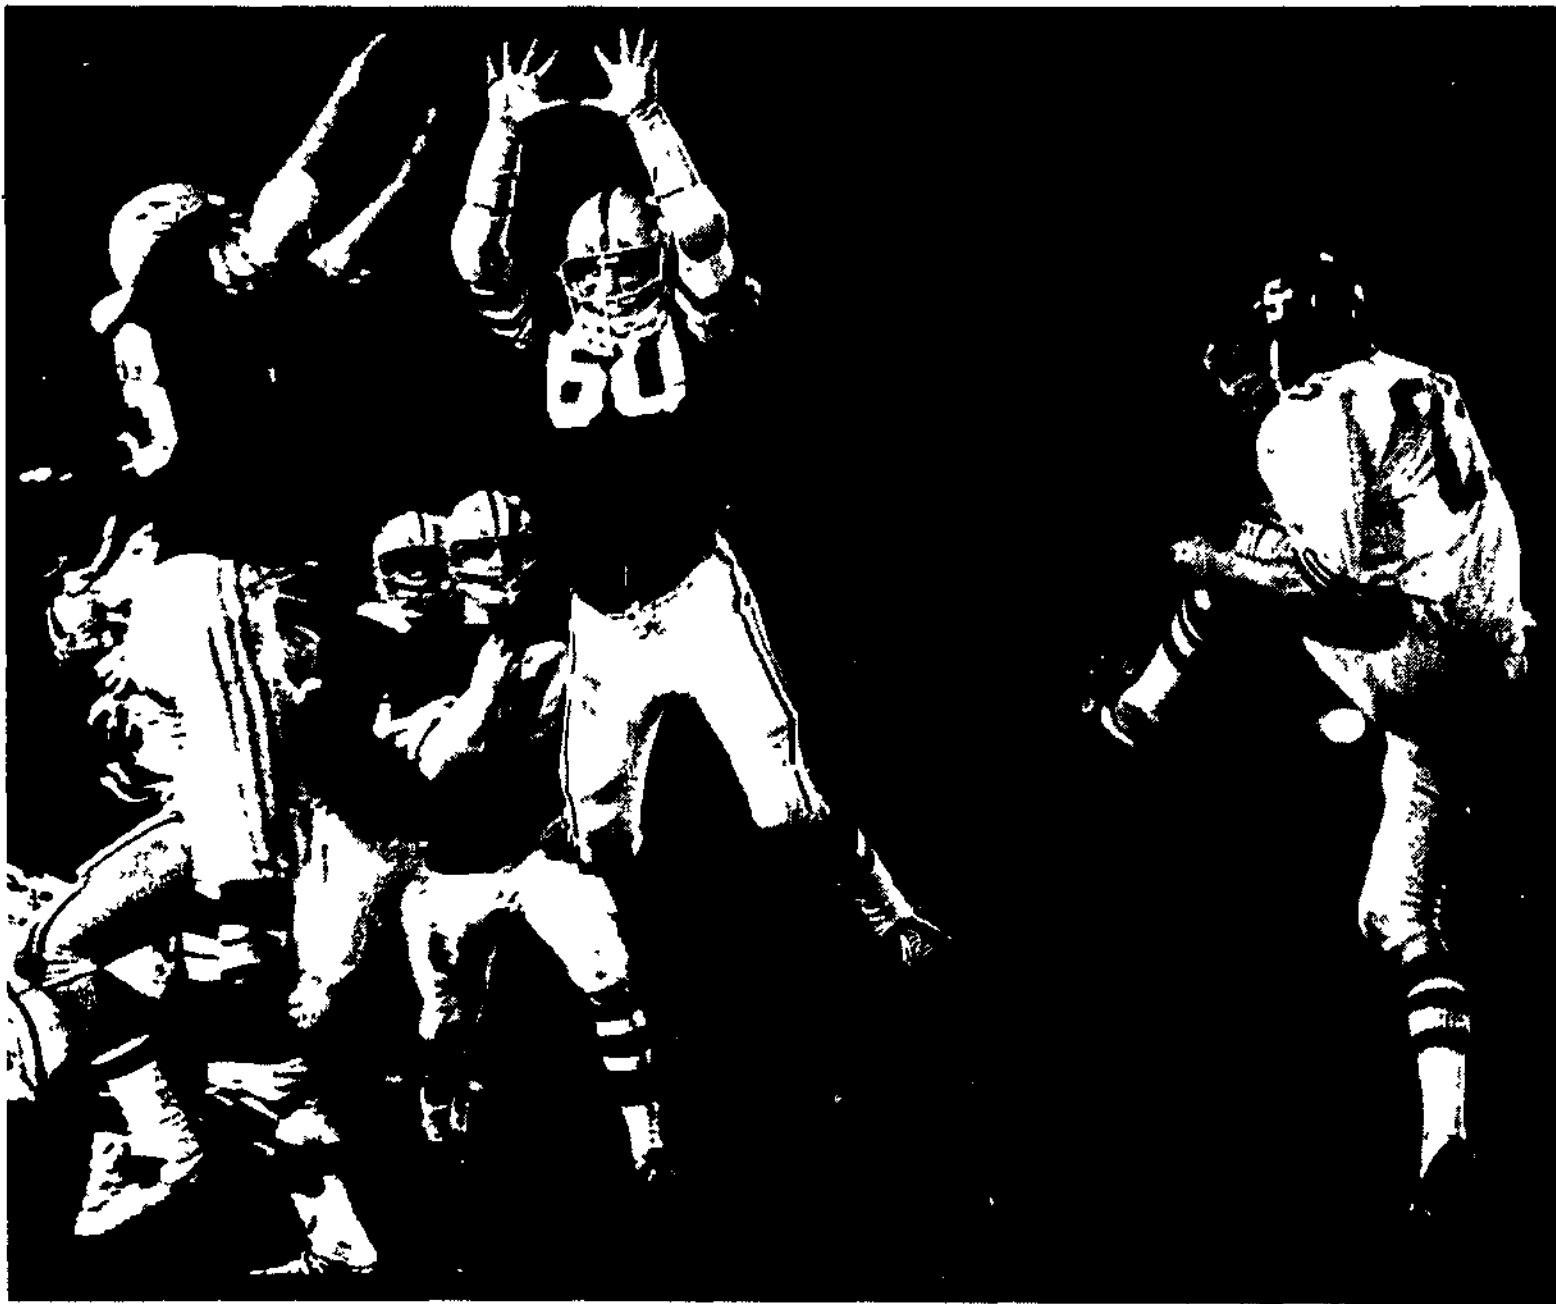

Lyne learned football by not playing it and running track instead at Notre Dame. He doesn't even talk like a football coach. He's too funny.

Take yesterday, for instance. Lyne had reached his third cup of coffee. He was saying Viator quarterback Bobby Walsh is "one helluva athlete in great physical condition, as good as any high school player in the state. He's a little Bobby Douglass with brains and talent."

Now Lyne tossed some plaudits toward junior Jim Thompson, the sometimes wide receiver, sometimes quarterback who will assume command should any harm befall Walsh during Viator's title quest.

"If anything ever happens to Bobby, we've got another kid (Thompson) who

A pair of hanging punts by Mielke kept Hersey deep in their own territory and helped Schaumburg protect a 7-6 lead until the end. ## Schaumburg entertains East Leyden

by ART MUGALIAN

When East Leyden football coach Jack Leese was building the Eagles' gridiron dynasty 10 years ago, one of his prize pupils was a lad named Bob Ferguson.

"Bob was the hardest running back I've ever seen," said Leese, whose Eagles shared a hunk of the Des Plaines Valley conference title in 1974. "He fought harder for one yard of turf than anybody ever has. He was always clawing, tearing, scraping for that extra yard."

Today Ferguson is the head coach at Schaumburg High School and, also today (1:30 p.m.), Ferguson's Saxons (8-1) will host the East Leyden Eagles (8-1) in the first round of the Illinois Class 5A playoffs. Leyden earned a wildcard berth to the tourney.

"It's a big thrill for me," said Ferguson. "Jack Leese is one of the premier coaches in the state with one of the premier teams."

This year Leese has his Eagles right up there among the state's top-ranked teams. East Leyden comes to Schaumburg, however, on the heels of its first loss of the season, a 23-6 drubbing at the hands of Willowbrook last Saturday.

"That loss to Willowbrook really hurts us," said Leese, "and it helps Schaumburg. It shows them that we're not invincible and I'm sure that they're already pretty high after their win over Hersey."

The Leyden coach was an observer last

Radio coverage of Schaumburg tourney game

WMM-FM will report the action live from Schaumburg High School today in the opening round of the first Illinois prep football tournament.

WM Director of Sports Howard Bales will call the play-by-play and Herald Sports Editor Bob Frisk will give the color commentary for the battle between Schaumburg and East Leyden.

Air time is 1:15 p.m. at 92.7 FM for the pre-game show. The kickoff is set for 1:30 p.m.

Waterfowl hunters are shooting the breeze

Outdoor Editor

It was a great weekend for sunbathing, but terribly frustrating for the full house of hunters who occupied the 30 duck blinds at the Chain O' Lakes Conservation Area north of Fox Lake.

Birds have been scarce and the primary reason for their absence has been the balmy weather. Hunters are still shooting at local targets. The mass migrations from the north have not yet materialized.

"We had a lot of people leave in the middle of the day Saturday," Neil Booth, Assistant Ranger at the state park said. "It was so warm and sunny that the people just got discouraged and left."

The season opened optimistically with good bags reported on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday mornings. "There were a lot of widgeons and a few mallards taken," Booth said. "But the hunting pressure increased on Saturday and Sunday of the first week and the wood ducks and teal had moved out with that first early cold snap we had."

In talking with hunters, most accepted the state's point-system method of establishing a bag limit. "I suppose it is the only way to protect some species," Randy Henry of Crystal Lake agreed. "Smart hunters will still be able to take a good-sized bag under this system."

Henry's reference, no doubt, was aimed at the waterfowler who can successfully identify the winging duck, determine its point value and drop it, if desired, almost by instinct.

"We've still got cases of hunters bringing their birds to the check station and asking what they are and what point value they carry," Booth admitted.

"The cases are few and far between, but it's still happening. Most of the time, there are other hunters in his blind that can help him determine what species he has bagged."

Redheads are valued at 100 points, mallard hens, wood ducks, black ducks and hooded mergansers are 90, mallard drakes and ringnecks are 35 and all others are 15. Coots are not included in the point system and canvasbacks are protected statewide. The daily bag limit is reached when the point value equals or exceeds 100.

"We haven't had any violations of the point system so far," Booth reported and there have been no accidents to our knowledge, either.

A few lucky hunters were seen to take Canada geese on opening day as several large flocks moved through the area. "We haven't seen any blues or snow geese, yet," Booth said, "but they should start migrating as soon as the temperatures start dropping up north."

Another handicap facing the "smart" hunter is the inexperienced waterfowler who prematurely pulls the trigger while the ducks are still out of shotgun range. Not only does the quick shot fail to knock down a bird, but it spooks the rest of the flock out of the effective 35-40-yard range.

Pheasant hunting will also begin Saturday, Nov. 9 at sunrise in the Chain O' Lakes area under the permit system.

To secure permission to hunt cock pheasants, a hunter must send either an application that may be acquired at the state park or a plain white card.

The hunter must apply his name, address, hunting license number, the area which he would like to hunt and two choices of dates, in case the first date is filled.

This information should be sent to the Illinois Department of Conservation, c/o Permit Section, 186 State Office Building, Springfield, Ill., 62764.

The permit is mailed back to the hunter which allows him to attend the park and specific site, register at the gate and pay his $5 hunting fee.

Each hunter will be informed where he may hunt and the regulations that govern the area. He must check in by 9 a.m. and be in the field by 9 a.m. The hunting day ends at 4 p.m.

"There will be another daily release program," Booth informed, "but it is not known how many will be stocked. Last year there was a severe drop to about 178 birds a day. Previously, we'd release 240, but the cost and feed increased about 100 per cent and forced a cutback."

"We hope to return to the 200 mark this season," Booth continued. "The early frost helped knock down some of the vegetation. Right now the conditions are fairly dry and would be rough on a dog working the area."

"The birds hold better in wet conditions and a scent is more pronounced. It's not mandatory, but we are recommending that hunters bring dogs."

Chain O' Lakes Conservation Area is two miles northwest of Fox Lake in both Lake and McHenry counties. Information about the 4,700-acre area can be obtained by calling either 567-5512 or 567-5582.

Canadian cold snap needed to facilitate duck exodus

The Wingwatcher, a periodic report on migratory waterfowl movements, indicates that its latest information has been characterized generally by unseasonably warm, dry weather throughout much of the Mississippi Flyway.

ILLINOIS
No unusual migrations were noted during the latest period. Duck numbers have declined somewhat in the Illinois River and Mississippi River valleys. Diving ducks are beginning to appear in numbers on Keokuk Pool with 79,000 scaup, 2,200 ringnecks and 12,900 canvasbacks recorded.

WISCONSIN
Canada goose numbers began to decline with an exodus of approximately 100,000 reported in the latter stages of October. About 100,000 diving ducks, mostly scaup and ruddy ducks, have been reported in lower Green Bay. Widgeon and scaup number 10,000 to 20,000 on Mississippi River Pools 7 and 8. Divers are showing in fair numbers on Lakes Winnebago and Poygan. Ruddy ducks are appearing in central areas and goldeneyes and buffle heads appeared at Crex Meadows Oct. 19.

MINNESOTA
Because of the unseasonably mild, clear weather, hunting activity has declined drastically and success has been extremely poor. Scaup are absent from most of their traditional areas in the north central part of the state. Some ringnecks are still present, perhaps 50,000 on about six areas, most of which are inaccessible. Recent surveys tallied 38,000 Canada geese at Lac Qui Parle, 1,500 at Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge and 5,100 on three state management areas.

MICHIGAN
Some Canada and blue-snow geese movements are underway.

Canada goose numbers on Saginaw Bay have declined while marked increases in diving ducks have occurred on Lake St. Clair and the lower Detroit River Lake Erie area.

The Canada goose harvest quota from the Shiawassee County area was realized Nov. 1, but the season there closed. Goose harvest on the Allegan State Game area is over 50 per cent ahead of last year.

IOWA
The majority of blue-snow geese have passed through northern Iowa and are now concentrated in the southwest. Duck numbers did not increase as anticipated between segments of the season, probably because of mild weather.

Mallards are most common species among dabbling ducks and diving ducks are beginning to appear with good numbers of scaup and ringneck already present.

Prime angling season being ignored

Where have all the fishermen gone?

Outdoor Editor

Perhaps the most oft-asked question by fishermen during the spring and summer months is "Where are the fish?"

But come fall, the fish are probably pondering, "Where are the fishermen?"

The advent of the hunting season — waterfowling beginning Oct. 23 and pheasant and small game starting Saturday, Nov. 9 — has obviously accounted for the angling decline.

But those who have prematurely exchanged hooks and slakers for shells and arrows undoubtedly are missing some of the hottest action of the year.

Reports from around the state of Illinois and into southern Wisconsin have never been more optimistic or productive. Whether snagging salmon in Lake Michigan or jigging for panfish on an inland lake, the odds at filling a stringer have considerably diminished.

Those who have taken advantage of fall's prime-time fishing hours have been rewarded with steady success. Chinook, steelhead and German browns in the 2-to-8 pound class have been snagged along Lake Michigan's shoreline and harbor area. Others are having success using spawn sacks.

Boaters are trolling small blue and green flashers and spinners 8-12 miles off shore for steelhead which are cooperating anywhere from 30-40 feet below the surface.

Nearly the same report is emanating from Racine County across the Wisconsin border. Chinook are being taken from the Root River while browns are providing action along Lake Michigan's shoreline in both Kenosha and Ozaukee counties.

The Chain O' Lakes in northern Illinois are yielding abundant stringers of panfish on a variety of live and artificial baits.

Larry Val and Art Brazeau, both of Chicago, took advantage of Indian summer temperatures to boat over 100 stripers and bluegills in the Chain's Lake Marie.

"We were using wax worms," Val smiled while transferring the hand-sized batters into a huge plastic pail. "We were about 300 feet off shore and about five feet down, casting the worms and using a slow retrieve."

"Once we found the hole, we positioned the boat so that we were casting across the current. They just attacked the worms. They really put up a good fight once they're hooked."

While bass are also on the move on the Fox River at McHenry. They're in the 6-7 inch class, a little small, but a barrel of fun to catch.

In the southern district of Wisconsin, wax worms are also doing the trick on Lower Mud Lake for perch while jigs are capturing yellow bass on Lake Kegonsa.

Largemouth bass are heading for the shallows of Lake Monona (in the heart of Madison) where spinnerbaits and plastic worms are turning lunkers in 5-to-10 feet of water.

Walleyes are hitting in all lakes, including Monona where jigs and minnows are faring the best. Northern pike, averaging about 25 inches in length, are hitting sucker minnows.

Old Faithful — Lake Geneva — continues to produce consistent catches of walleye and northern. The Fox River at Wilmet has been steady for bass and northern fishermen while worms and spinners are catching perch on Delavan Lake.

BUCKET OF BLUEGILLS. Art Brazeau and Larry Val are all smiles after filling their fish basket with over 100 bluegills and white bass from Lake Marie on the Chain O' Lakes. (Photo by Jim Cook)

PIKE'S PEAK. Sporting goods store owner Jim Tomscheck holds the 20-pound, 5-ounce northern pike which he caught at the Miner's Club, a private group of strip mine lakes. His fish beats the state record by three ounces and will become official as soon as a state game biologist inspects it.

Mischievous grinnel frays bass angler's nerves, line

Except for the color of his hair — brown — Bill Harrington of Beecher, Ill., might readily pass as a movie double for General George Armstrong Custer.

With shoulder-length wavy hair and handlebar mustache, Harrington looked more like he should be out on the plains stalking buffalo instead of searching out bass from the back seat of my boat.

However, Harrington is not to be denied his place in the fishing circle. So far this year, he has caught the biggest walleye in the state — 13 pounds 4 ounces — which is not far off Illinois' 14-pound record.

Most likely, Harrington's spring catch from the Kankakee River will hold for the state's Big Fish of The Year Award in the Walleye category. He also stands to earn $1,000 for the fish from a local contest he entered it in.

Anyone would figure with a lucky angler like Harrington in the boat, a man couldn't go wrong.

But, before the day was out I began to wish I was hunting buffalo instead of bass fishing.

There are two fish most dedicated northern bass fishermen have caught accidentally at one time or another. One is the garr and the other is the grinnel, which some call dogfish.

I won't deny I've taken my share of those trash fish at one time or another, but for some strange reason, I've always managed to look out as far as the grinnel and Rend Lake was concerned.

I've often sat back and snickered as fishing partners tied into large grinnel while searching for bass on Rend Lake.

Nobody can deny that the grinnel is one heck of a fighting fish. But bass fishermen consider it beneath their dignity to deal with the scavenger except when caught as an accident.

Because of his sharp teeth, the grinnel often frays lines before it is brought in the boat, and many frustrated bassmen have cursed the day they tied on a favorite plug only to see it swim off in the mouth of a grinnel that frayed their line.

So, when Harrington's first cast to one of my favorite fishing holes produced a grinnel, I sat back and chuckled as the fish made off with one of his favorite Big O's.

"Go ahead and laugh," he said. "Your turn is coming."

"Not me," I boasted. "I've never caught a grinnel in Rend Lake even though I've seen dozens caught from this boat."

However, my bragging was short-lived. When Harrington pointed out a large swirl beneath a bush in the cove we were fishing, I spot cast to the fish. Before I cranked the bait a few inches, the fish had it.

"It's a good one," I shouted. But moments later, I realized I was tangling with a six-pound grinnel.

When I finally brought the fish alongside the boat, Harrington inserted a pair of jaw spreaders in its mouth and removed my plug with needle-nose pliers.

"You can't be too careful with these fish," he said. "Many fishermen don't realize it, but grinnels can inflict a painful wound."

"When they clamp down on a victim, they release a saliva that paralyzes the victim. A relative of mine once spent several days in bed after being bitten by one of these fish."

The grinnel seemed to put the fishing curse on me for the entire day. It was the first time I ever fished Rend Lake without boating a good bass.

"I think someone ought to call you the grinnel king," I told Harrington when we finally gave up for the day, teasing him for our misfortune. "Either that or stick to walleye fishing."

Year-end fishing tournament Saturday

Avid bass anglers will have one final opportunity to fish under competitive conditions when they congregate at Bob Lang's Fishing Center for the year-end Open Bass Tournament.

The season finale will be conducted Saturday between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. over any portion of the Chain O' Lakes accessible by boat. All pairings will be drawn between 6-7 a.m. the morning of the contest and every attempt to pair boaters with non-boaters will be made.

All boats must report to tournament headquarters for a lunch break between 11:30 a.m. and 12:15 p.m. No live bait will be allowed. All casting will be done with artificial lures which generally include plastic worms, spinnerbaits and Big O's.

The tournament carries a $10 entry fee which will be used to award $20 for the largest bass caught. The remainder of the purse will be distributed as follows: 50 per cent to the winner (number of fish plus total weight), 30 per cent for the runnerup and 20 per cent for third.

"Bass fishing is picking up considerably," fishing center owner Bob Lang said. "It should be reaching its peak between now and the time the ice moves in."

For further information, call 395-9887.

Lake Springfield stocked with white bass

A pleasant surprise awaits anglers fishing Lake Springfield next year. Over 800 breeder white bass were stocked in the 4,234 acre impoundment in April and biologists have turned up young-of-the-year fish. The young bass are 5-8 inches, should reach 1 1/4 pounds next year and three pounds by 1976.

THE CRAZY CANADIAN

It sounds too good to be true, but it's not a delusion. Canadian LTD comes from the famed McGuinness Distilleries whose whiskies took both the gold and silver medals at the Paris competition. Yet this fabulous imported Canadian actually costs less than many domestic whiskies. You'd be crazy not to try it.

A Great Value

St. Viator faces Deerfield today on Meadows field

can step in there and we're still alright," Lyne said. "That's a stroke of luck."

So far, he's straight. Unexplainably, Lyne changes gears.

"Because we're a Catholic school and pray hard, God will favor us . . . if we sell enough raffle tickets," he goes on. "God wants us to sell raffle tickets." (They keep the doors open.)

"Plus, the girls from Sacred Heart will be there. That should inspire our team to greater things. Actually, one of the reasons we're winning is because most of the team doesn't date."

"Roughly 30 per cent of our players have girl friends," Lyne says, as if it precludes third down success. "The others are all too bashful so they concentrate on football. You win with kids like that."

You also win by scoring more points, the only statistic about which Lyne gives a hearty hoot. The Lions are finally healthy and that's got to help against Deerfield, champion of the Central Suburban South.

Viator's preferred offensive line will be intact with the return of split guard Matt

Hower, injured three games ago against St. Patrick. And there are other changes. John McShea replaces Pat Bucaro at left cornerback. That lets Bucaro concentrate on split end and means the Lions will field totally different offensive and defensive units.

The valuable Thompson will share wide receiver duties with Bucaro and return punts, a new assignment. Walsh will continue running back kickoffs. He had been handling punts, too.

A final change has Michuda and Zettek replacing Hower and Vic LaManita at guards on extra points and field goals attempted by Mark Campana. It's a size question and they're much bigger.

The Lions have one obvious weakness, their kickoff game, that must be overcome. Mark Selvig kicks because he's a sound tackler, not a good kicker. Still, the Lions often give field position between the 30 and 40-yard lines.

Not much can be done to correct the situation. "We've tried everybody on the team. I just don't have a kicker and we can't create one," Lyne said.

The once defeated Lions (to St. Francis deSales, 16-7, in overtime) today meet an opponent with two losses. Deerfield lost at Evanston where no intruder has won since 1965 and was upset (21-20) by Maine West.

They are like most of Adam's teams, featuring excellent quarterbacking from junior Mark Carlson plus a bruising ground game that has rewarded Mike Wells with 15 touchdowns.

Deerfield has superior size over Viator on both lines. It's a matter of muscle against quickness. Each team plays some form of pro-style defense with four men down and three linebackers.

Nine juniors, most notably Carlson, have broken into the Warriors' line-up since Adams' opening day, two-platoon system started 22 seniors. He says they are much better now.

Carlson got a late start due to a dislocated shoulder sustained in baseball. He was a defensive secondary starter on last year's 9-0 team.

"When he's hot, he's hard to beat," said Adams who has sent quarterbacks to Iowa and Michigan State. Another now plays in the Los Angeles Dodgers' chain. "Carlson's a fine passer and the kind of boy where you drop off him, he'll see the opening and run."

"There's a touch of IHSA history being recorded today. But Viator's Lyne already has an idea for the second playoffs. It'd be real cool next year if they held the finals in Zaire, Africa."

It'd be real cool if the Lions won this year.

Meadows wins table tennis title

Fann Yeen Liu and Fann Hoan Liu, representing Rolling Meadows High School, won the high school team championship at the U.S. National Inter-scholastic Table Tennis tournament in Hammond, Ind., Nov. 2-3.

The Lius were missing a third man for their team but still won the title against the regular three man alignment.

Hoan won the Boys' 13-year-old singles title and teamed up with Rick Hicks for the Junior Boys' Doubles championship. Yeen took the Girls' 14-year-old singles and the B class of the women's singles.

Then she teamed up with her brother to win the championship of the Class A mixed doubles.

Saxons carry Mid-Suburban colors

Friday when the Saxons edged Hersey, 7-6, in the Mid-Suburban League Super Bowl. He was impressed by what he saw.

"Schaumburg has a solid defense and an outstanding quarterback," Leese said. "Plus they've got some fast running backs. They are proficient in all areas — I saw no weaknesses. You know, Hersey has an outstanding team with an outstanding coach and Schaumburg limited what I would call an offense-minded Hersey team to six points. That's something!"

Leese returned to the subject of Ferguson, who went on from East Leyden to All-American stardom in college and a tryout with the St. Louis Cardinals.

"Bob was always an adept learner," Leese said. "He's learned a lot and he's done a fine job at Schaumburg. When I used to hold clinics, Bob was always there and his head never came up for three hours. He wasn't sleeping — he was taking notes."

Ferguson learned a lot from his teacher, all right. Schaumburg and Leyden run nearly the exact same offense — a wishbone option.

"Our strong point is our running game," the East Leyden coach admitted. "We'll run if it rains, we'll run if it snows, we'll run uphill if we have to."

With three halfbacks — Ken Gatz, Rick Dreihobl, and Ken Mette — who can sprint 100 yards in under 10 seconds, the Eagles have perhaps the most explosive backfield in the state. Track stars Gatz and Dreihobl were state qualifiers last spring in the 100-yard dash.

Willowbrook — the only team to stop the Eagles this season — did it by shutting off the 10-flat quickness.

"Schaumburg is going to have to control Leyden's speed," said Willowbrook coach Clint Evans, whose squad meets Niles West in another Class 5A game today. "If they don't, they'll be in for a long afternoon."

"We beat Leyden because we're a more physical team," continued Evans. "We banged them up pretty well — we hurt them. We controlled their home run play and forced them to play ball-control. We were patient and stopped the big play."

Ferguson doesn't need anyone to tell him how to stop the option, since he employs the same offense at Schaumburg.

"We know what they have and they know what we have," said the Saxon coach. "It should be a good game. We're trying to uphold the reputation of the MSL. That's what I told the kids — we're representing the league. I guess we'll find out how strong the MSL is."

Carrying the load for the league will be Schaumburg's quick, aggressive defense and the triple-option talents of quarterback Russ Zonca. The East Leyden coach views Zonca as just another signal caller.

"We never go out to stop one man," Leese said. "We have a team defense predicated on stopping the whole offense. If we gang up on one man, they'll fake to him and give to someone else who will beat you."

The Eagles boast four 200-pounders in their defensive line and their offensive wall is just as big.

"They aren't small by any stretch of the imagination," said Willowbrook's Evans. "But they've got a lot of linemen who go both ways."

The winner of today's game will play Saturday against the winner of the battle between Glenbrook North and Evanston.

by KEITH REINHARD

Schaumburg, Hersey, Buffalo Grove and Prospect — the one-two teams in each of the Mid-Suburban League's divisions — came in for the lion's share of positions on the 1974 all-conference list released by the coaches today.

A total of 48 top-shelf athletes, all but seven of them seniors, were picked to the elite squad this year. And the coaches further enlarged the all-star rankings to include an honorable mention lineup for the first time since 1968.

The Super Bowl-winning Saxons claimed eight berths with the North Division champion Huskies and runnerup Bison placing half a dozen standouts each on the celebrated squad. Five Knights also earned notches, an improvement of four over last season that coincided with Prospect's rise from the cellar to a second place finish in the South Division.

While the list this year was not broken down into offensive and defensive units, there was plenty of standout material to fill in on both sides. Substantiating the crucial importance of the quarterbacking role was the appearance of seven signal callers on the team, including Steve Breitbell of Rolling Meadows one of only three repeaters.

The other two athletes making encores were Schaumburg's versatile back Tom Martino and rugged Arlington stalwart Jim Stanczak.

Heading up the Saxon representatives in addition to Martino was Russ Zonca, their hard-nosed junior quarterback, and burly Ken Jafko, at 230 pounds the biggest player on the squad. They and the other Schaumburg stars, Bill Bower, Mike Marx, Scott Scholz, Bob Jones and Kevin Kristick along with Scott Mielke from the honorable mention ranks, will all be going back into action today in the state grid playoffs.

Buffalo Grove's stellar running back Ben Orcutt was the only sophomore selected. He and teammate George Bastable, Zonca and Scholz, Hersey QB Scott Topczewski, Forest View QB Jim Petran and Oscar Quesada or Wheeling all have the opportunity of cracking the team again next fall.

The full lineup of 48 represents an increase of four over 1973 and is one more than the biggest previous all-conference team tabulated in 1970.

Arlington, Meadows and Forest View each came in with four berths, Elk Grove came up with three representatives and Palatine, Conant, Wheeling and Fremd nailed down two all-star slots apiece.

Des Plaines hockey

In fast action play against Crystal Lake Hockey Club's Pee Wee travelers, Oct. 30th, the Des Plaines Blues shut out their opposition for the second time 7-0. First period goals were by Dan Reiken, Steve Graiz and Jeff Prain; with Mark Russell, Billy Berner, and Dan Edwards scoring in the second, and Berner again in the third. The keen eye and fine coordination of goalie Joe DePinto continues to make the Blues the team to beat.

The evening before the Blues tied in their second match with Hoffman Hockey Club, 2-2. Hoffman's goal early in the opening period was matched by Billy Berner. Hoffman held off the Blues' attack in the second period and then scored in the third. The tying goal by Jeff Prain came in the last four minutes of the hard fought game.

The Blues season record is now five wins, one loss and one tie.

On the night of Oct. 28th, Des Plaines fans had a hard time controlling their emotions as their house league teams, Cass Ford and First National Bank battled to a 6-0 tie. Goalies Fred Ruffalo and Steve Stauter made several unbelievable saves. They could not have lasted the game if it hadn't been for their defensive teammates.

Defensesmen, Tom and Don Smith played exceptionally well as did their Cass Ford teammates Mike Evans and Scott Hackbart. First National Bank's defensive heroes of the evening were Steve Addante, Duq Jagusch, Scott Martini and Dennis Scully.

The North Lightweights will face undefeated Winnetka in the championship game Nov. 10, 12 noon at Palatine High School. The heavyweight game, against Mundelein, will be held immediately following the lightweight game.

The Palatine South Lightweights fell to Winnetka, 20-0.

Area dogs capture show awards

A perky Wire-Haired Terrier with the call name of Tony won the International Kennel Club's fourth annual fall dog show held Saturday at the International Amphitheatre.

This was the sixth straight best-in-show title for the dog which has been shown only 23 times, winning 12 best-in-shows and 22 group awards.

Owned by Michael Weissman of Yonkers, N.Y., the dog Ch. Aryee Dominator, was shown by George Ward from Constantine, Mich., who brought Tony up through the classes to win over 3,764 entries.

The top winner from our area was Elaine H. Newbecker from Des Plaines, whose Boston Terrier, Ch. Toy Town Hi Stepping Star Trek, won Best of Breed and went on to place fourth in the Non-Sporting group.

Other winners included: Charles and Angela Nelson, Mount Prospect, American Staffordshire Terrier, Mount Shires Little Rascal, Best of Winners; Thomas B. Laurie, Des Plaines, Italian Greyhound, Ch. Laurie's Rouetta-of-Kashan, Best of Breed; Jean and Morton Clotfelter, Arlington Heights, Boxer, Hula Balo's Gun Moll, Winner's Bitch; Norbert H. Savage, Long Grove, Welsh Terrier, Ch. Colwyn Royal Caper, Best of Breed; Georgeanne Orian and Mrs. J. Hill, Hoffman Estates, West Highland White Terrier, Warbonnet's Orion, Best of Breed; and Jim and Jo Rosser, Palatine, English Setter, Ch. Rosemoors Captivatin' Carrie, Best of Opposite Sex.

And there were more: George and Betty Sundbloom, Rolling Meadows, Soft Coated Wheaten Terrier, Mr. Melick's Desdemona, Best of Breed; John P. Schneider, Elk Grove Village, Wire-Haired Fox Terrier, Bev-Wyre's Conbrio

Strike, Best of Winners; Charles and Jeannette Lindelof, Mount Prospect, Golden Retriever, Rockgold's Pandora, Winner's Bitch and Thomas and Gloria Mrowiec, Schaumburg, Long Haired Dachshund, Lovable Leaping Liebchen, Winner's Bitch.

Highest scoring dog in the obedience trial held at the show was a Golden Retriever, Ch. Kinike Big Bad Red of Topbrass, owned and handled by Jacquelyn Mertens from Elgin. The dog scored 198½ points out of a possible 200 in the Open A class.

Bleating in disguise — The anticipated shortage along with the high prices of antifreeze this winter could prove a blessing in disguise for the family pet.

With every drop of the fluid needed for the car, owners will probably be less likely to leave antifreeze where the family pet might be able to get to it.

Many dogs and cats, too, find the taste of antifreeze irresistible and veterinarians usually treat more cases of poisoning at this time of year.

As we have stated in the past, if you have any antifreeze left in an opened can, make sure that it is covered or better still transfer the balance to a plastic container that you can close with a screw cap.

Barks & Bays —

Gaines Dog Research Center comes up with what they call a "Canine Quiz" in the form of quick questions on the subject of dogs. One of them is, "What two dogs were the foundation of modern English Setters?"

The answer: "Ponto and Old Moll, acquired about 1825 by Edward Laverack from the Reverend A. Harrison, who had kept his breedings pure for 35 years."

Another coach picks most contest winners

Three was the magic number in the ninth edition of Paddock's "Pick the Winners" contest as Joe Vitton, of 2514 E. Miner St., Arlington Heights, missed only a trio of games to win the weekly prize of an AM-FM transistor radio.

Rick Holan, 1302 Robert Dr., Mount Prospect, missed three also but lost to Vitton in the tiebreaker.

Vitton falls into that category of profession, coaching, that has proved to be so popular among recent winners. Vitton is the head track coach at Rolling Meadows High School and also handles a lower level cross country team in the fall.

"I didn't get to see the Super Bowl because I was down at the state cross country meet in Peoria," Vitton said. "But I thought this would be a hard week to win because a lot of the pro games were so hard to pick."

The pro games did have some upsets but Vitton waded through them without harm. His three misses came on the Maine South win over Maine West, Rice's triumph over Texas Tech and Northwestern's upset of Minnesota.

The abbreviated high school card saw Schaumburg nip Hershey by a single point in the Super Bowl, St. Viator crush St. Joseph's and Maine East trip Highland Park.

Joliet rocked Harper in junior college action.

An expanded slate of major college action saw Duke down Georgia Tech, Purdue crushed Iowa, Rice' bombarded Texas Tech, Yale got by Dartmouth, Texas A & M tripped Arkansas, Baylor dismantled TCU and Florida shocked Auburn.

In the pro games Sunday Buffalo proved their first win over New England was no fluke as the Bills managed a one point win in the rematch, Minnesota humbled Chicago, Washington stopped Green Bay, Oakland slashed Denver, San Diego handled Cleveland and Detroit continued their recent run of good fortune with a win over New Orleans.

Dallas ended the unbeaten dreams of St. Louis with a 17-14 win in the tiebreaker.

How To Write A Best Seller... A Result-Getting Want Ad!

You'll get the results you want with a properly written Want Ad. Lots of people get confused when it comes to writing a Want Ad. Do you? If so, here are a few simple rules to make ad writing easy. A good ad is just conversation in print. So when you're preparing to place an ad, just write it the way you'd tell your neighbors about it.

Don't leave your readers guessing! What do you want to sell? If it's an appliance, what's the brand? What's the size or capacity? Model? Year? Any accessories included? Does it need repair or is it ready to use? Now put yourself in your buyer's position. If you were reading this ad, what would you like to know? Price? By all means, put that in. In nearly every ad, price is the most important information. Anything else missing? If so, fill in those blanks, too.

Ready to write? Please, no abbreviations. Studies of advertising show that abbreviations decrease readability. You want people to read and understand your message. Make it as easy for them as you can.

When your ad is finished, read it over. It's fine to eliminate a word here and there, but don't "edit" to the point where the reader may have to guess at the meaning. You might save a few pennies and lose dollars in results.

All clear now? OK! Start collecting cash with Herald Want Ads. Dial 394-2400 today or mail in the handy coupon below!

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Intestinal ills linked?

I have been subject to spastic colitis for some time. My new ailment is diverticulosis. What is the difference between the two ailments? What are the dangers that may occur suddenly or otherwise? What steps should be taken to balance the two ailments? Who should I see and what medicine should I take? What are the chances for recovery?

Most specialists in gastroenterology today believe the two conditions may be related. Diverticulosis means small pockets on the colon. These pockets are caused by a rupture of the wall of the colon, like an inner tube that has a weakened wall.

The sac-like pocket is a diverticulum. It is thought that diverticula develop because of increased pressure inside the colon. The pressure is caused by poor bowel function such as spastic colon.

There may be other factors involved, such as an inherently weak spot in the colon to begin with, before the pressure problems occur. The diverticulum is something like an appendix. It can be inflamed or rupture giving the signs of appendicitis. It can have a small leak causing pain and discomfort. It can bleed, causing a sudden, serious loss of blood.

Often the diverticula may go unnoticed. The problem is quite common in people over 40. By age 50 about half of the population has diverticulosis, so you are not unique. Most of them have no symptoms.

SOME PEOPLE have abdominal pain and cramping that is confused with diverticulosis. These pains are often the underlying problem of spastic colon.

Treatment of both of these problems requires development of proper bowel habits. You need quite a bit of help to do it right.

There has been a change in thinking about diets for these problems. Bland diets used to be recommended under the impression that they would soothe the troubled bowel. It is often necessary to eat a soft or liquid diet or sometimes nothing during an acute problem, like an acute inflammation or certainly during a hemorrhage. Otherwise, when the acute problem is under control the practice today is to provide food with lots of bulk.

THAT SPASTIC colon is really a cramp of the muscles in your colon. When there is not enough bulk in the colon, the normal rhythmic contraction of the colon is interfered with. The muscles must contract more to squeeze the food residue through the colon. The overcontraction leads to spasm and pain. The bowel is literally closed off.

The delay in moving the food residue leads to other problems, including small, hard, dried stools and the whole complicated scene of poor bowel function. A good bowel training program and diet as discussed in the two booklets will help a lot to eliminate these problems. It takes a while, though, to accomplish this.

Persons interested in the two-year career program leading to an associate degree in applied science should obtain information from the college admissions office.

Testing begins in January for entrance into the fall 1975 Legal Technology program.

LGH names rehab director

Dr. Aaron M. Rosenthal has been named director of physical medicine and rehabilitation at Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge.

Rosenthal is responsible for the hospital's rehabilitation medicine unit and all departments that give rehabilitative care including physical and occupational therapy. Before coming to Lutheran General, he was director of physical medicine and rehabilitation at Weiss and London Memorial hospitals in Chicago.

A graduate of Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, Rosenthal has been a professor at Chicago Medical School since 1968 and a faculty member at the University of Illinois School of Medicine since 1972.

NCTE cites 6 area students

Six area high school students have been cited for outstanding performance in writing by the National Council of Teachers of English.

More than 6,200 students were nominated in February by English teachers for the NCTE Achievement Award in Writing. About 850 winners nationally were selected.

Award winners, now seniors, are recommended by the council for scholarships in 1975.

Local student winners include Cheryl Kettler and Carol Swanson, Elk Grove High School; Edward Burg and Sheila Fyfe, Palatine High School; Chris Allan, Conant High School, and Karen Wenk, Arlington High School.

Study is topic of program

Weather, air pollution and even news events of the day affect the psychiatric and medical emergencies coming into hospital emergency rooms.

These are the findings of a study conducted by John Valentine, instructor of psychiatry at the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine; John Ebert, director of Psychiatric Emergency Services at the Crozer Chester Medical Center, Upland, Pa.; and Richard Oakley, a psychiatric social worker at the Crisis Intervention Center, Richmond, Va.

They will discuss their recent investigations with Dover Roth of Forest Hospital on "The Search for Mental Health" this Sunday at 8 a.m. over WJJD-FM (104.3).

Hospital cites service

At a recent Forest Hospital annual employee dinner dance at the O'Hare Inn, several employees were cited for their long, continuous service to the hospital. Mrs. Marie Laufer, director of medical records, received a 10-year service pin. Five-year pins were awarded to the following: Nancy Cohen, R.N.; Nellie Falder; Eleanor Fronczak; Ruth Gast, R.N.; Cressie Dunkin; Edward Glashagel; Margaret Jarosz; Joyce Mirro; Bernard Newman, M.D.; Margaret Nyhus, R.N.; Yoly Perez, R.N.; Vicki Rafols, R.N.; Beatrice Saper, R.N.; Coke Sten-

Thirty additional employees were awarded two-year pins at a small ceremony at the hospital recently.

Hospital raises $650 at sale

The Alumnae Assn. of the Lutheran General and Deaconess Hospitals School of Nursing, Park Ridge, recently raised more than $650 through a combination fashion show, boutique and bakery sale.

The proceeds will be used for scholarships, school gifts and continuing education programs for association members. The funds also will be used to support the work of missionaries.

Display to feature local art

During November, the Lutheran General Hospital Art Originals display will feature the work of Frances Cooper Toussaint and Marlene Winters, both of Park Ridge.

Mrs. Winters favors landscapes and flowers and renders them in oil.

Children are the favored subject of Mrs. Toussaint, but she also has a strong interest in nature studies. Her medium is oil and her work is represented in many private collections.

The exhibit, open to the public without charge, is part of the continuing Art Originals program of Lutheran General's Service League. Artwork is sold from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. weekdays.

Design studio to open

Ardith Gulbransen will formally open her new interior design studio Something Special II with an open house this week. Located at 324 N. Hough St., Barrington, the new studio is in addition to one located in Arlington Heights and St. Charles.

A long-time resident of Barrington, Ardith has more than 15 years of experience in the field and is a member of the National Society of Interior Designers.

SECTION SEVEN. That interest on principal coming due at any time when there are sufficient funds on hand to pay the same be paid promptly when due. That the current funds on hand in excess of the collection of said taxes shall be retained here, and when said taxes shall have been collected, reimbursements shall be made to the said funds in the amounts thus advanced.

SECTION EIGHT. That forthwith as soon as this ordinance becomes effective, a copy thereof certified by the Secretary of the District, which shall be attested by the Treasurer of the District, shall be passed by the Board of Commissioners of the District, and the County Clerk of Cook County, Illinois, who shall in and for each of the years 1974 to 1978, inclusive, ascertain the rate per cent required to produce the aggregate tax hereinafter provided to be levied in each of said years, respectively, in and by the District and in each of said years such annual rate shall be levied and the District shall use said tax solely for the purpose of paying principal and interest upon the bonds herein authorized in the same mature.

SECTION NINE. That the funds derived from such levy be and the same are hereby appropriated and set aside for the sale and only purpose of paying principal and interest on said bonds when and as same become due. That the funds derived from the sale of said bonds be and the same are hereby appropriated and set aside for the purpose hereinafter set out.

SECTION TEN. That the bonds hereinafter authorized shall be executed and delivered by the District as herein provided, and shall be then delivered to the Treasurer of the District who shall deliver said bonds to the purchasers thereof, John Nuveen & Co., Chicago, Illinois, upon receipt of the purchase price therefor, the same to be not less than par value of the bonds. That the interest on said bonds from the date thereof up to and including the date of delivery thereof, that the contract for the sale of said bonds to said purchaser, heretofore entered into, be and the same are hereby ratified, approved and confirmed.

SECTION ELEVEN. That it is hereby represented, certified and covenanted to and with the purchaser of said bonds on the basis of facts and circumstances known to the District at the time of the sale of said bonds on the date said bonds shall be delivered to said purchaser, that the proceeds of said bonds will not be used in a manner that would cause any of said bonds to be an "arbitrage bond" within the meaning of Section 108(d) (2) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, as amended, and that on or before the date of the delivery of said bonds, the Treasurer of the District shall execute a certification in substantially the following form:

CERTIFICATION

The undersigned Treasurer of the Prospect Heights Park District, Cook County, Illinois, certifies and reasonably expects that the following facts or will occur with respect to $1,100,000 General Obligation Park District bonds of the District: (1) The District has, or will do so not later than six months after the delivery of said bonds, entered into contracts for construction of the projects to be financed by said bonds; (2) work on said projects will proceed with due diligence in completion after the delivery of said bonds; all at least 85% of the expendable proceeds of said bonds will be expended for project costs by November 1, 1977; (3) said projects will not be sold or otherwise disposed of, in whole or in part, prior to or to the last maturity of said bonds; (4) the original proceeds of said bonds will not exceed by more than 5% the amount necessary for all purposes for which said bonds have been authorized; (5) all accrued interest on said bonds will be applied to the first interest coming due on said bonds; and (6) the District has not been advised of any listing or construction of said bonds by the Internal Revenue Service determining that the District's certification with respect to its obligations may not be relied upon.

On the basis of the foregoing, it is not expected that the proceeds of said bonds will be used in a manner that would cause said bonds to be "arbitrage bonds" under Section 108(d) of the Internal Revenue Code and the regulations prescribed under said Section. To the best of my knowledge and belief, there are no such facts, estimates or circumstances that would cause the District to change the foregoing conclusion.

WITNESS my official signature this _____ day of _____, 1974.

Treasurer, Prospect Heights Park District

SECTION ELEVEN. That the ordinances, resolutions and orders or parts thereof, in conflict herewith, be and the same are hereby repealed and annulled. That this ordinance shall be in full force and effect upon its passage and publication as provided by law.

Approved: _____ day of October, 1974.
 MAX D. LYLE
 President, Prospect Heights Park District

Incumbent gets more than 60% of votes

Crane easily turns back Mrs. Spence

Bucking a Democratic tide, U. S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th, easily won his third full term in Congress Tuesday night, turning back a challenge by Democrat Betty Spence of Buffalo Grove.

Although election results came in slowly Crane addressed his campaign workers about 9:30 p.m., thanking them for their efforts in the victory.

Workers in the Spence campaign were not convinced, however, that the election was lost.

Shortly before 11 p.m., election totals at Crane headquarters showed him with 20,686 votes to 19,092 for Mrs. Spence, a margin of slightly more than 60 per cent for Crane.

FIGURES FROM the Spence headquarters agreed with the Crane totals. With slightly more than 25 per cent of the precincts in the 12th District reporting, the Spence workers showed totals of 18,263 for Crane and 11,008 for Mrs. Spence, a 62.3 margin for the Republican Congressman.

However, the Spence camp said its figures were predominantly from Wheeling Township, one of Crane's strongholds, and included "our worst areas."

A Spence campaign aide said in "targeted precincts" where they had hoped to get 30 to 35 per cent of the vote, they received 34 to 38 per cent. At the time the above totals were reported, there were almost no results from the Lake County portion of the district, where Spence supporters hoped to do well. The first Lake County precinct report, though, went for Crane 251-185. The Lake County area of the district contains about 20 per cent of the voters.

ALTHOUGH CRANE'S victory margin was comfortable, it fell short of the 74.2 per cent he piled up in 1972. But with Republicans saddled with the hangover of Watergate, President Ford's pardon of former President Nixon, and Ford's recent proposal of an income tax surcharge, Crane had said privately in the last week of the campaign he would "be satisfied" with 60 per cent of the vote.

A key Spence campaign aide predicted a few days before the election the margin would be within 3 percentage points.

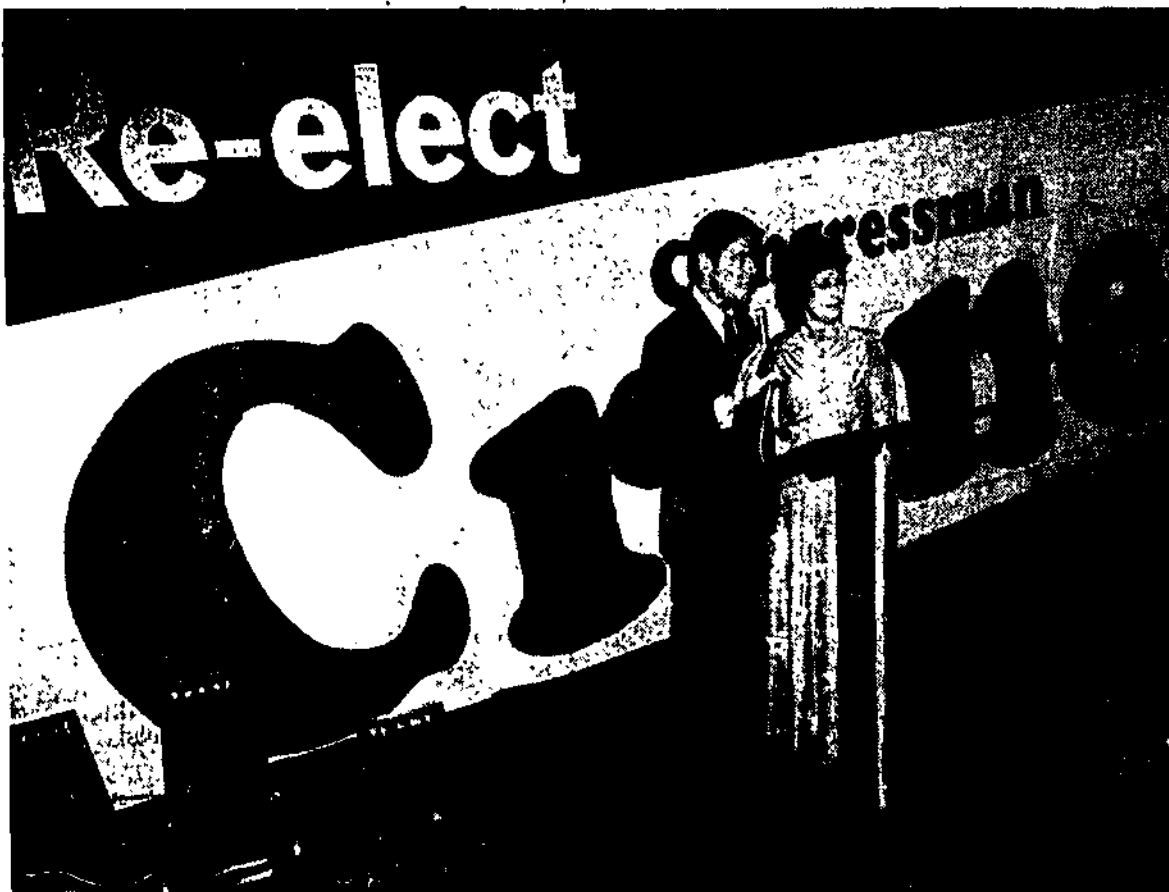

Mrs. Spence, with substantial support from organized labor, conducted the most serious campaign against Crane since he defeated Democrat Edward Warman in 1970 with 58 per cent of the vote.

CRANE, FIRST elected in a special election in 1969 and reelected in 1970 and 1972 never before had failed to carry any precinct in Wheeling, Elk Grove, Schaumburg or Palatine townships. Mrs. Spence had winning totals in scattered precincts in all those townships.

One Crane aide said early in the evening, "This is embarrassing, losing precincts."

But another staff worker said Crane's victory in the face of the Democratic sweep made him "the heir apparent" to the U. S. Senate at some future date.

Crane later said, however, he has no ambition for the Senate, and declared, "My role and the role of the Republican Party is to solve problems we have in the House."

End of the trail in the 12th District...

THE RACE for the 12th District Congressional seat is over. Philip M. Crane, the incumbent Republican apparently won his return to Washington by defeating his Democratic challenger, Betty Spence of Buffalo Grove. With early returns reporting, Crane took between 60 and 63 per cent of the vote in the

Katz, Duff, Porter ahead

Incumbents look like winners in 1st

Incumbents appeared to be on their way to victory in the 1st District Tuesday night, but official tallies were unavailable because of a slow vote count.

Only incumbent Democratic representative, Harold Katz of Glenview, declared victory, while fellow representatives, Brian Duff, R-Wilmette, and John Porter, R-Evanston, were also running way ahead.

The only challenger to the three incumbents, Democrat Dorothy Henehan of Glenview, was getting little support in her try for one of the three 1st District House seats.

"I will return to Springfield fortified by the election results," Katz said. He noted that support for him was heavy in every district, including Henehan's home district of New Trier Township. He called the results, "Excellent."

Brian Duff

Harold Katz

WHILE PORTER AND Duff were not declaring victory they did say they were pleased with the results they were seeing and would wait for the total outcome.

In the race for state senator in the 1st District, Republican incumbent Bradley Glass appeared to be on his way to an easy victory over Democrat Richard Hartigan of Glenview.

Glass, 43, of Northfield, was leading Hartigan by a 2-to-1 vote margin in Northfield Township and also was way ahead in New Trier and Evanston townships. Only Wheeling Township figures were unavailable, but township GOP officials felt confident that Glass would sweep the district.

Glass was seeking his second term in the Senate and said that while he was pleased with the way the voting was going last night, he did not want to predict the outcome until the final votes were counted.

OF THE REPRESENTATIVES, Katz was seeking his sixth term, Duff his third and Porter his second. Katz said that while he knew his Republican opponents were likely to lead all the candidates, he looked at his fellow Democrat, Henehan, as his competition in the closing months of campaigning.

Duff, who was ill with the flu Tuesday, visited several Republican headquarters to thank workers.

All of the candidates returned home Tuesday night to await the election results.

Dems on way to sweep in Lake County

Democrats appeared to be on their way to sweeping major Lake County offices following Tuesday's election. Returns however, were scarce because of slow vote count.

In the race for sheriff, Democrat E. J. LaMagdeleine was leading incumbent Republican Orville Clavey by an almost 2-to-1 margin. In the County Clerk's race Democrat incumbent Grace Mary Stern was way ahead of Republican challenger Margaret Metzler, also by almost a 3-to-1 margin.

For county treasurer, Democratic newcomer Ray Blomdi was beating another newcomer, Republican Terence Tucker by a slim margin, but Democratic officials said the trend appeared to be going in Blomdi's favor.

In the Vernon Township 32nd Legislative District only a few precincts were counted and it was too early to tell who was likely to win in that race. The same was true for the county board candidates for District 5, which includes Vernon Township.

Full results of the Lake County races will appear in Thursday's Herald.

Waits for Republican to concede

Stevenson praises Burditt in low-key victory

The celebration began early at Sen. Adlai Stevenson's Chicago headquarters Tuesday even though Stevenson delayed his official claim of victory, waiting for Republican opponent George Burditt to concede.

Stevenson supporters cheered each announcement of favorable vote totals for the senator and for Democrat Abner Mikva, in a close race for the 10th Congressional District seat.

At about 8 p.m., after several television stations had predicted his victory, Stevenson appeared and told his supporters, "It's too early to say anything."

PHOTOS BY JIM FROST AND BOB FINCH

After his brief statement, Stevenson went over to regular Democratic headquarters at the LaSalle Hotel to meet with Mayor Richard J. Daley. Stevenson's campaign manager, Larry Hansen, said the campaign will cost Stevenson about $650,000.

"It was a tough campaign. It was a hard year for money and a hard year for volunteers. It wasn't like 1970 (the year Stevenson was first elected to the Senate). There wasn't as much despair."

STEVENSON HAD said, however, he believes his election and that of other Democrats indicates a new mood in the voters. "I think the people are demanding a new standard by which to judge all public servants — mediocrity is no longer good enough," Stevenson said.

Stevenson not only piled up a prohibitive lead in the Democratic stomping grounds of Chicago, but was far ahead in such swing areas Downstate as Rock Island County and even normally Republican enclaves.

Stevenson thus won his first full term in the Senate as part of what appeared to be a Democratic surge across a state once regarded as traditionally Republican.

Democrats hoped to upset the Republicans' 14-10 edge in the Illinois Congressional delegation and perhaps take over control of the Illinois legislature.

STEVENSON'S victory became apparent when, with the first 5 per cent of the Cook County Chicago vote reporting, he was charging ahead with 80 per cent of the ballots.

Even though Democrats were expected to carry Cook County, such a margin would require a Republican landslide Downstate. Instead, Burditt appeared to lose there, too.

Voter apathy and dark, rainy skies over Chicago and much of the state held down the vote and thereby boosted the impact of the Chicago Democratic organization.

STILL, STEVENSON had a wide edge from the start with mounting inflation, Watergate hangover, and the fact that he bears one of the most famous names in Illinois politics — that of the late governor and Presidential candidate who was his father.

Stevenson hard-peddled the inflation issue, accusing oil interests of being heavily responsible.

Burditt, a suburban LaGrange lawyer who had to be drafted for the race after better-known Republicans backed off, was hobbled from the start because of his obscurity and also by a lack of campaign funds which kept him from going to television.

Still, he put on a vigorous campaign, also concentrating on inflation and seeking to put blame on Stevenson as one of the biggest spenders in Washington.

Village board wrapup

Development gets height change extension

The Buffalo Grove Village Board Monday night granted a six-month extension for a height variation for an addition to the Cambridge on the Lake development, 221 E. Dundee Rd.

The measure, passed in a 4-2 vote also stipulated that sidewalks in the development be completed by July 1.

The original variation, granted last March to the developer, Richard J. Brown, expired in late September.

Ralph Swanson, a sales manager for the firm, told village trustees that his company was unable to put up the additional four-story, 80-unit building due to tight economic conditions in the building market.

He said a major problem was obtaining financing for the job and company officials decided not to move ahead with plans until the market eased up. The building would take at least nine months to construct, he told the board.

Before granting the extension, the board voted down a motion by Trustee Edward Osmen who proposed tabling the matter pending a firm commitment by the developer to install the sidewalks.

Osmen and Trustee Clarice Rech cast negative votes on extending the height variation.

Extend Arrowhead permit

The board also granted a year's extension of a special-use permit granted as part of the annexation agreement for the proposed Arrowhead Development.

Village Mgr. Daniel Larson said the agreement expires Nov. 24 and the extension was sought by the developer, Chesterfield Corp., to allow for construction of its 288-unit townhouse project.

Larson said however, Chesterfield will be subject to increases in engineering and water system fees due to changes in village ordinances since the annexation pact was approved in November 1969.

Construction has been delayed although Chesterfield was granted final approval of plans last April.

The development is to be located on 31 acres at the northeast corner of Arlington Heights and Lake-Cook roads.

Commission gets members

The board approved the appointments of two Buffalo Grove residents to the village appearance-control commission.

Appointed were Scott E. Butler, 317 Checker Dr., and Dennis H. Gramm, 247 of 323 Chensault Rd. Two current members, Ronald Helms and Philip Lembo were reappointed.

One vacancy still remains on the nine-member commission. Larson said however the spot will be filled soon.

Bicentennial meet Nov. 21

The newly-formed Buffalo Grove Bicentennial Commission will meet Nov. 21 in the village hall, 50 Raupp Blvd. The meeting will start at 8 p.m.

$500 damage reported at Keller School

About $500 worth of damage was caused and $4 in change taken in a burglary Monday at Helen Keller Junior High School, 820 W. Bode Rd., Schaumburg.

Police were told the burglars gained entry to a rear door and rifled cabinets in various science rooms and entered the nurses and main offices. They started a small fire in one of the rooms but no damage was reported. The burglars emptied fire extinguishers in a hallway.

Jewelry theft reported

An estimated $2,000 worth of jewelry was reported stolen Monday night at the Passing Fancy Store at Woodfield Shopping Center in Schaumburg.

Police said a set of keys were apparently used to open up a display case that contained seven pieces of assorted jewelry, one of which was a $1,000 necklace.

Firemen put out burning mattress

Wheeling firemen were called on to put out a mattress fire Tuesday at the home of Glenn Griffith, 61 Laurel Dr.

There were no injuries in the fire, which broke out at 11:34 a.m. Firemen estimated damage at $25 plus the value of the mattress.

Police charge man with reckless conduct

John Cargill, 490 E. Mors Ave., Wheeling, was charged with reckless conduct Friday after he allegedly shot a gun at his girlfriend, police said Monday.

Police said Cargill filed a counter complaint of battery against the woman. The woman's name and further details of the alleged incident were unavailable Monday. Police said they expect a warrant to be issued for the woman's arrest today.

Police refused to provide any further information.

calde puts the finishing touches on an animal book. The Tarkington School students are involved in a special project.

Sixth graders make large-type books for visually handicapped

by JUDY JOBBITT

Scott Johnson plays ball, runs around and acts like any other first-grade student.

But Scott has one major difficulty. He is visually handicapped and needs special reading materials with large-type letters and figures.

Sixth-grade students at Tarkington School where Scott is a first grader decided to do something about his problem. They are working on books for Scott and other visually handicapped students in Wheeling-Buffer Grove Dist. 21.

THE IDEA STARTED on a small scale in teacher Diane O'Brien's reading class. One of her students wanted to make a children's book for the class's independent work project.

Mrs. O'Brien suggested a book for Scott. The project was picked up by the class with enthusiasm and mushroomed into a full-scale production of books for the visually handicapped.

A packet called "Interaction" with suggestions for projects to aid the visually handicapped was used to get ideas for the books.

Scott selected most of the books the students are making. Additional requests came from Laurel Denny, visually-handicapped program director, and Jerri Bisantz, his teacher.

STUDENTS ARE MAKING a book of shapes, number books, a dictionary, a coloring book, an alphabet book, a sign book and tapes that a student can listen to while reading.

Objects are made in materials that can be touched so the child can identify the figure in the book by its outline.

Mrs. Denny also is going to print the words in braille so the books can be used by blind students.

Scott visited the class to see how the books were progressing. The students said they learned from his visit because they didn't realize the problems visually handicapped students would have.

"He thought it was pretty cool," said one student after Scott's visit.

THE STUDENTS LIKE the project too.

"It's fun because I like helping little kids out," one girl said. "Everybody in the class was so happy because they wanted to do something for him."

"I think it's neat," one boy said. "Never thought I'd see the day I'd help a kid with eye problems."

Although the students still are gearing the project to Scott, Miss Bisantz reminded them that "Scott is to be treated like any 6-year-old." She warned them not to treat him with any special care. Once he knows the way he does not need special guidance, she said.

"He's a smart little boy," she told them. "His only problem is we must enlarge the items for him."

THE BOOKS ALSO will be used by other students in his class. The bright colors and pictures are attractive for any first grade student to use, Miss Bisantz said.

The books are going to be bound by the district. Parts where answers are placed or objects are colored are going to be laminated so the books can be used again.

Miller project to go before planners tonight

The controversial Miller Builders development, Stokew, will be before the Buffalo Grove Plan Commission tonight as part of a workshop session.

The session will follow the commission regularly scheduled meeting, 8 p.m. at the village hall, 50 Raupp Blvd.

The commission will be reviewing the new Miller development for the first time. The development is expected to include 415 units on a 149 acre site, west of the village boundaries.

Miller hopes to annex the property to Buffalo Grove though a strip of land running from the village to the site.

A court battle is expected on the issue, however, stemming from stiff objections raised to the proposed project by more than 125 residents of Long Grove's Country Club Estates area.

Sheets of plywood taken from Levitt site

Thirty sheets of plywood, valued at $150, were stolen from the Levitt construction area, Ill. Rte. 83 north of Arlington Heights Road, Buffalo Grove police said Tuesday.

The material, property of the Doe Construction Co. of Mokena, Ill., was taken sometime between 3:30 p.m. Friday and 10 a.m. Monday, police said.

Boy, 8, says he put razor blade in candy

An 8-year-old Mount Prospect youth admitted Tuesday he had placed the razor blade in a piece of Halloween candy "as a joke," police said.

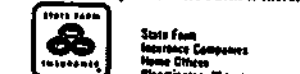

The tainted candy was reported Monday by the boy's mother. Because of the filing of a false police report, the matter has been turned over to the police juvenile section.

Mikva edges Young in 10th District

Democrat Abner J. Mikva squeaked past U.S. Rep. Samuel H. Young Tuesday to represent the 10th District in the U.S. House of Representatives.

With 527 of the 533 precincts reporting in the five-township North Shore and Northwest suburban district, Mikva won with 81,180 votes to Young's 79,212.

It was sweet revenge for the liberal Mikva, who was defeated by conservative Young in 1972 by a 7,000-vote margin, when the two men first battled to represent the newly-redistricted district.

With news of the victory still ringing in their ears, several Mikva campaign officials said the triumph was won in the Des Plaines area, which Young carried by a substantial margin in 1972.

BILL NEBGREN, Des Plaines chairman of the Citizens Committee for Mikva, said Mikva lost Maine Township by only 2,000 votes, although Mikva forces predicted a 4,500-vote defeat in that area.

Nebgren said Mikva won "seven or eight" precincts in the City of Des Plaines, where two years ago he had failed to win a single precinct.

He added that Mikva won 39 per cent of the total vote in Maine Township in 1972, but on Tuesday totaled 45 per cent of the vote, contributing mightily to the thin margin of victory.

Both Young and Mikva canvassed heavily in the Des Plaines area in the final days of the campaign, for both men regarded it as one of the critical vote areas in the district.

THROUGHOUT THE EVENING, the vote tallying reflected the intense nature of the campaign. Mikva held a slight lead through most of the evening, but Young always remained within 2,000 or 3,000 votes.

At Young headquarters, vote totals lagged behind totals from Mikva's campaign headquarters. Young's totals from his own headquarters showed him with slim leads.

At 11:20 p.m., in front of perhaps 3,000 cheering backers, Mikva announced his victory, saying he was the first Democratic congressman since 1894 to represent the 10th District area.

The smiling Mikva said the "vote margin was like three or four votes a precinct" and told his backers: "Don't let anyone tell you there were too many amateurs involved (in this campaign)."

He added, "You're not professional, and isn't that great."

At 11:30 p.m., Young appeared before his backers and said he would not concede, and that vote totals still were coming into his office.

"The fact that we're in a cliff hanger in the most hotly contested race for Congress is a credit to you who've worked here," he told his cheering backers.

"I'm sure we'll get a recount. There are a lot of irregularities — in Maine Township in particular," he said.

BEFORE MAKING his speech, Young watched Mikva's victory announcement on television. He told reporters he felt he had done "exceedingly well under the circumstances" and more campaign funds would not have made a difference in the race.

He added that he had been handicapped by having to remain in Washington, attending to congressional business during much of the campaign. He said he'd done better than expected in normally Democratic sections of the district.

REASONS FOR the defeat? Apathy and Watergate, Young said. He then added he was going back to practice law.

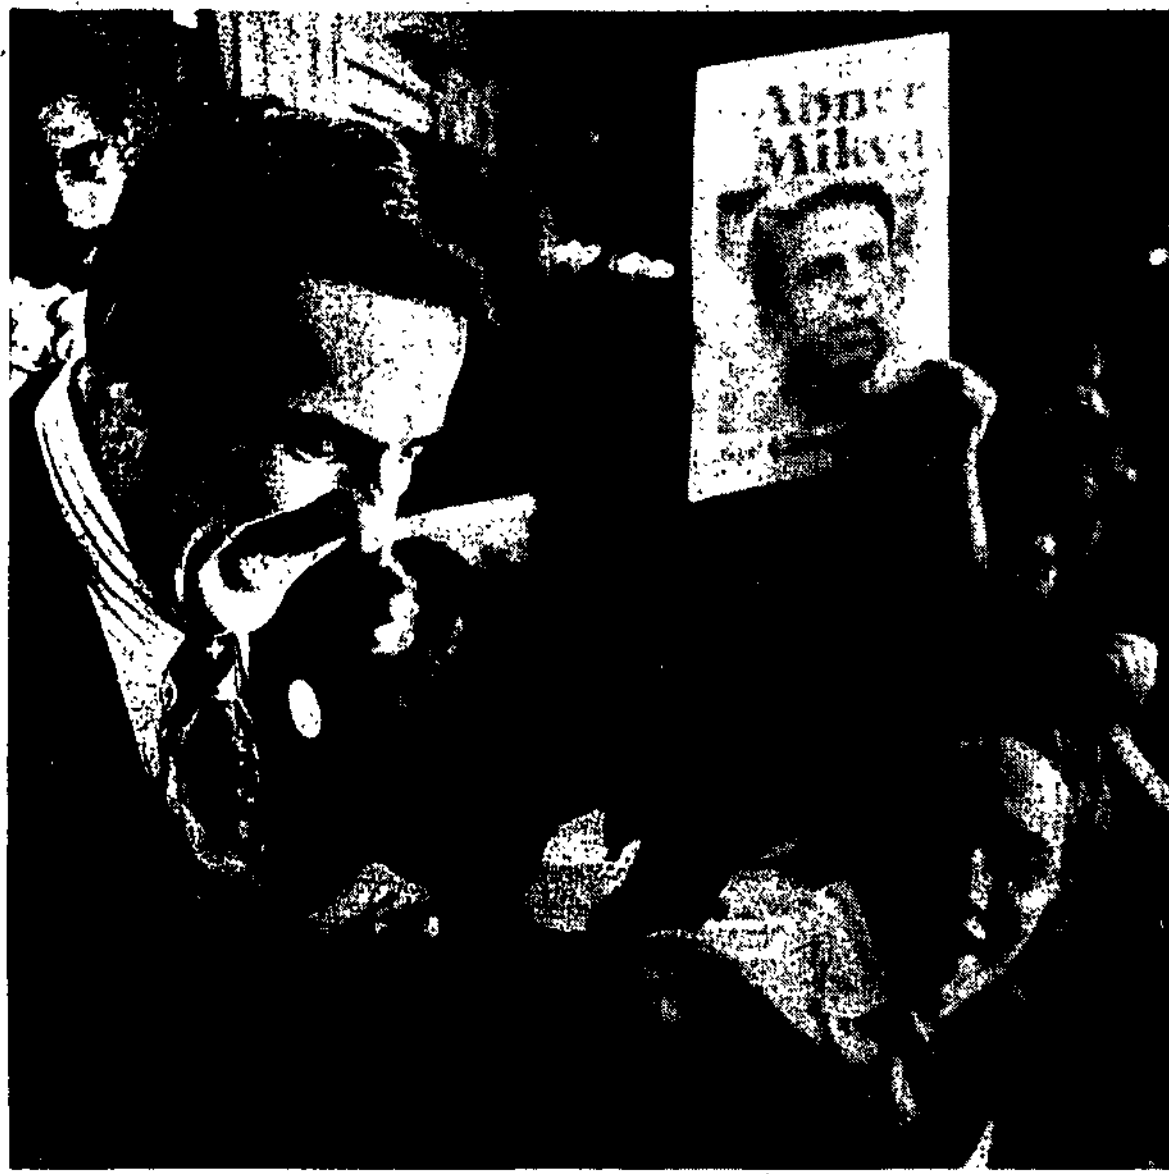

Vote totals reflected the expected voting pattern in the district. In New Trier Township, which includes Winnetka, Young defeated Mikva, 14,830 to 12,254. In Northfield Township with 60 of 69 precincts reporting, Young was leading Mikva by 4,000 votes.

In Evanston and Niles townships, however, Mikva was able to score substantial victories.

THE VICTORY REFLECTS a two-year struggle on the part of Mikva, whose 1972 defeat was blamed in part on the Nixon landslide.

This time, Mikva was buoyed by Adlai Stevenson's leading the Democratic ticket. Observers said Mikva resurrected the campaign organization that had almost been successful in 1972, and Young was hurt by Watergate and his early support of Nixon.

Mikva, 48 and a lawyer, served four years in Congress prior to the 1970 redistricting, after which he decided to move to Evanston rather than attempt to regain his Congressional seat on Chicago's South Side.

IT WAS PERHAPS THE hottest congressional race in the county. By 11 p.m., challenger Abner Mikva declared a victory over incumbent Republican Samuel Young. By the closest of margins, the tough race in the 10th Congressional District was won by a Democrat.

3 incumbent 4th District reps win

The three incumbent 4th District state representatives, Eugene Schlickman, Robert Juckett and Aaron Jaffe, swept to victory Tuesday.

This victory marks the sixth term for Republican Schlickman, a resident of Arlington Heights. He formerly represented the 3rd District until redistricting moved him into the eastern section of the area. This is his second term from the 4th District.

Juckett, a Park Ridge Republican, repeatedly has been a solid choice by voters in the district and again was endorsed by voters there.

Jaffe, a prominent suburban independent Democrat, campaigned for judicial reform and will hold the minority seat from the 4th District.

The other Democratic candidate was

Rep. Robert Juckett

Thomas Flynn. He ran unsuccessfully for the State Senate against John Nimrod two years ago and was defeated in his bid for the legislature.

EARLY RETURNS FROM Wheeling

Township, as expected, were giving Schlickman the lead. Juckett was second and Jaffe third.

Juckett was the leader in the first returns from Maine Township with Schlickman second and Jaffe a close third.

Republican officials were predicting victory after the first dozen precincts were in. They said Jaffe appeared to be running third and would be the minority representative.

Niles Township was going heavily for Jaffe, and Flynn was the second-highest vote-getter there, but the totals in that township were not enough to elect another Democrat.

With about one-fourth of the Maine Township precincts in, Juckett had almost 10,000 votes, Schlickman about 8,000, Jaffe, 7,600, and Flynn 6,700.

Nimrod retains Senate seat

Incumbent State Sen. John T. Nimrod, R-Skokie, was elected to another term Tuesday, defeating his Democratic challenger Patton D. Feichter in Illinois' 4th Senatorial District.

With one-fourth of the Maine Township precincts recorded, Nimrod had 6,742 votes to Feichter's 5,260.

Race for third seat too close to call

Williams, Leverenz headed for House wins

Two Democrats, including a first-time candidate, appeared headed to victory late Tuesday in the 5th District while a battle between two veteran House Republicans was being waged for the third seat.

With about 75 per cent of the votes counted, incumbent State Rep. Jack B. Williams, D-Franklin Park, and Democrat Ted E. Leverenz of Maywood, running in his first House race, were leading the field. Incumbent State Reps. Edward E. Bluthardt, R-Schiller Park, and Richard A. Walsh, D-River Forest, were in a nip-and-tuck fight for the third House seat.

Late Tuesday, Bluthardt, 58, said results were "not very good" and indicated returns he was receiving strongly indicated victories for the two Democrats and an apparent victory for Walsh, a 12-year veteran of the House.

UNOFFICIAL RETURNS from 135 of

Ted E. Leverenz

187 precincts showed Williams with 23,542 votes; Leverenz, 22,575; Bluthardt, 16,871; and Walsh, 17,356.

Returns were very slow coming in and candidates could not explain the delay. The district includes parts of Maine, Leyden, Proviso, Oak Park and River Forest townships.

Officials from Maine Township, which includes 32 Des Plaines precincts in the 5th District, had not begun to count returns for the race as late as 11 p.m.

BOTH DEMOCRATS indicated satisfaction with the unofficial results. Williams, who will enter his second term in the House, said he was pleased the district was sending two Democrats to Springfield for the first time in many years.

Leverenz, 33, who organized a strong volunteer campaign network, said he was "extremely encouraged" by the returns.

"There was no doubt in my mind from the start that this district could elect two Democrats," Leverenz said. "It proves that the people's will to win can do it. I think the people in the 5th District now can start rowing instead of bailing."

BOTH BLUTHARDT and Walsh have had lengthy careers in the state House. Walsh, 43, a native of Oak Park, was seeking his seventh term while Bluthardt, who also serves as Schiller Park mayor, was running for his fifth term.

Walsh was unavailable for comment late Tuesday night. With 52 precincts in Maine and Proviso townships yet to report, a winner for the third vacant seat in the race between the two Republicans was too close to call.

Republicans buried by Democratic landslide

From United Press International
Democrats forged a landslide victory Tuesday and took commanding charge of the Senate and House in the first post-Watergate elections. President Ford pledged to work "wholeheartedly" with the Congress which will act on his programs for the next two years.

In addition to strengthening their grip on the Senate and House, the Democrats ousted Republicans from statehouses around the nation although the GOP averted a shutout in the 10 most populous states by hanging onto the Michigan governorship.

A wave of discontent over inflation, unemployment and recession engulfed Republicans, threatening Ford's legislative program and strengthening Democratic presidential prospects in 1976.

Ford, who barnstormed around the country in a desperate effort to save Republican candidates, called inflation the No. 1 issue in the campaign.

"The mandate of the electorate places upon the next Congress a full measure of responsibility for resolving this problem," Ford said from the White House where he watched the returns. "I will work wholeheartedly in this urgent task which is certainly beyond partisanship."

Democrats picked off at least four Republican Senate seats; four GOP governorships — including New York denied the Democrats for 16 years — and were rolling up large margins in the House.

CBS projected a 50-seat gain by the Democrats which would give them the biggest majority since Franklin D. Roosevelt's heyday in the late 1930s.

Four of Richard M. Nixon's staunchest defenders during the eight-month impeachment proceedings — all Republicans — were defeated in re-election. The four who had opposed Nixon from the beginning of the proceedings early this year won re-election easily or were leading in early returns.

Many Democrats who had once appeared to be in trouble won re-election. They included Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, who burst into the news and into trouble when police stopped his speeding car near the Tidal Basin in Washington and a go-go dancer jumped from the car into the water. Mills defeated 31-year-old Judy Petty, his first major GOP opposition, in his tightest contest since 1950.

In South Dakota, 1972 Democratic presidential candidate George S. McGovern handily defeated Republican challenger Leo Thorness. And in Colorado, Gary Hart, the young Denver attorney who guided McGovern's 1972 campaign, swept to an easy win over Republican incumbent Peter Dominick to give Colorado Democrats both Senate seats for the first time in 33 years.

Democrats also won the Colorado governorship and at least three of five congressional races in the biggest state win for the party in more than three decades.

By defeating Rep. Richard Malary, 34-year-old Patrick Leahy became the first Democrat ever elected to the Senate from Vermont.

Democrats elected to first terms in the Senate included former astronaut John Glenn in Ohio, former Gov. Dale Bumpers in Arkansas and Robert Morgan in North Carolina.

Entrenched Senate Democrats swept to easy victories. They included Sens. Birch Bayh of Indiana, James B. Allen of Alabama, Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut, Herman E. Talmadge of Georgia, Adlai Stevenson III of Illinois, Russell B. Long of Louisiana, Thomas F. Eagleton of Missouri and Ernest F. Hollings of South Carolina.

Republican Sen. Jacob K. Javits won in his New York race against Democratic former U. S. Attorney General Ramsey Clark. Other incumbent Senate Republican re-elected were Charles Mathias of Maryland and Richard Schweiker of Pennsylvania. Rep. Louis Wyman, a Republican, won the New Hampshire Senate seat vacated by retiring Sen. Norris H. Cotton.

Democrats ended GOP control of governorships in seven states but the Republicans stopped a Democratic sweep of the nation's 10 largest states by re-electing Gov. William Milliken of Michigan.

The Democrats won the bulk of the 35 governorships at stake, electing Rep. Hugh Carey over Nelson Rockefeller's hand-picked successor for governor of New York. In Connecticut, Rep. Ella Grasso became the first woman ever elected governor on her own.

Nationwide Democrats by early Wednesday had captured 25 of 35 governorships at stake and Republicans only four, re-electing Govs. Milliken, Meldrim Thomson Jr. of New Hampshire, Robert Ray of Iowa and electing State Sen. James Edward in South Carolina.

Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace easily won a third term and set the stage for another bid at a presidential nomination.

FORMER ASTRONAUT John Glenn, the first man to orbit the earth, gives his wife, Annie, a "victory" kiss after soundly defeating Cleveland Mayor Ralph Park for the U.S. Senate seat from Ohio.

Financial community gears for new wage and price control demands

From United Press International
The financial community expected big gains by Democrats in Tuesday's election and braced itself for new demands for wage and price controls to fight inflation.

"The worst thing would be if we had controls," said Lucien Hooper, a 40-year veteran on Wall Street. But he said both Democrat and Republican parties "are more afraid of recession and depression" than inflation, and this could discourage pressure for wage and price controls.

Economists generally view controls as a tool to keep wages and prices down in an inflationary period but ineffective against recession or depression when expansion is sought. Most economists now believe the economy is in a recession, complicated by unabated inflation.

Adding to uncertainty about the economy was the apparent likelihood of a coal miners strike next week despite union promises of new contract proposals.

United Mine Workers and the coal industry resumed talks late Tuesday night with a new union proposal on the table, but union leaders appeared still convinced a strike next week is inevitable.

Federal energy officials said, meanwhile, the governors of a dozen coal-producing states had been invited to the White House for a Thursday afternoon meeting to discuss the impact of any strike. The stoppage could dim the nation's lights, sharply curb steel production and add hundreds of thousands to the unemployment rolls.

In other developments Tuesday:

• As part of a far-ranging, cost-cutting program, Sears Roebuck and Co. announced it was discharging 300 to 500 employees at its corporate headquarters in Chicago.

• Swiss Credit Bank Chairman F. W. Schulthess told the National Press Club in Washington, D.C., that world inflation and unemployment "may well destroy the democratic institutions of the West." He said "a truly awesome tidal wave" of price increases is sweeping across most of the world, adding that "hardly ever before has the situation been nearly as alarming as now."

• The four U.S. automakers produced further evidence of the economic downturn with reports that October new car sales fell nearly 27 per cent from last year to mark the industry's worst new model introduction in 10 years.

American Motors showed the sharpest drop in October with sales off nearly 53 per cent from a year ago followed by General Motors, down 31.8 per cent; Ford, off 17.1 per cent; and Chrysler Corp., — which announced another layoff of 7,100 employees — down 16.7 per cent.

The lagging sales, due in part to uncertain economic conditions and prices averaging about $400 higher than 1974 models, have resulted in a new round of industry layoffs which now total nearly 52,000 workers.

U.S. speeds arms orders to Israel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States is speeding up delivery of arms orders to Israel as a result of official Arab alignment with the Palestine Liberation Organization, diplomats said Tuesday.

Although the Rabat Arab summit raised new war fears in Israel, the Israelis still are prepared for a second stage peace negotiation with Egypt, these sources said.

The agreement provides for speeding up the delivery of weapons which America already has agreed to supply, and does not represent additional arms orders.

Meanwhile, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger launched his renewed effort to promote "a just and lasting peace in the Middle East" Tuesday night after proposing a five-pronged approach to world food problems.

Kissinger arrived in Cairo from the Rome food conference and a meeting with Pope Paul VI and immediately met with Egyptian foreign minister Ismail Fahmy and then President Anwar Sadat.

American officials said Kissinger met Sadat in the president's bedroom for 90 minutes. Kissinger said Sadat had the flu but he did not say whether the president was actually in bed.

The Middle East News Agency reported earlier Sadat had been confined to his home with a cold he caught during a visit to Algiers last week.

The American officials said Sadat's wife and daughter joined Kissinger and the president briefly before the talks began. Fahmy and U. S. Ambassador Hermann Eilts also attended the session.

In a statement on his arrival in Cairo the secretary said he had come "to see how further progress can be made towards a just and lasting peace in the Middle East."

Kissinger is scheduled to fly to Saudi Arabia Wednesday afternoon and then on to Jordan the same night. He will complete his tour Thursday with a visit to Syria and Israel.

He is then to fly to Turkey for talks aimed at promoting peace between Greeks and Turks over Cyprus.

As he left Rome for Cairo in a driving rain Kissinger looked tired from what his wife Nancy said was a night of only two hours' sleep.

Henry Kissinger declares war on world starvation

ROME (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger declared war Tuesday on world hunger and starvation with a five-point blueprint for global action.

He said a concrete and concerted program could end hunger within a generation. He called on oil-rich nations to help pay for it.

Keynoting the United Nations World Food Conference, which had been called at his urging, Kissinger told the more than 1,000 delegates from 100 countries including China and the Soviet Union that they must all "act together to regain control over our shared destiny."

Countries that are able to do so should build up food reserves that other countries could draw on in case of emergency, Kissinger said.

Kissinger said that immediately after the conference the United States would convene a group of major exporters to form a program for increasing food production.

The secretary of state urged help from the oil producing countries, whom he partly blames for the current food crisis because they increased oil prices several times over, thus forcing up the price of everything else.

The secretary of state said the oil producers have "a special responsibility" to help finance the war on hunger.

"Hundreds of millions of people do not eat enough for decent and productive lives," Kissinger said. "In many parts of the world 30 to 50 per cent of the children die before the age of five, many of them from malnutrition."

"World population is projected to double by the end of the century," Kissinger told the conference. He said that at that rate, "at some point we will inevitably exceed the earth's capacity to sustain human life."

City Council wrapup

Fight looms for 'after-6 p.m.' sales of meat

Des Plaines City officials may be preparing to do battle with local meatcutters over the prohibition against selling meat after 6 p.m. in local grocery stores.

In a letter to the city council, Ald. Kenneth Kehe, 2nd, asked the city code and judiciary committee and the city attorney to review the union regulations which prohibit the sale of meat in the evening to see if some local ordinance could be passed to abolish this standard.

"This may help us break this barrier," said Mayor Herbert H. Behrel after hearing of Kehe's request.

He noted that Chicago officials also are receiving the union regulations to determine if Chicago's home-rule power would give the city authority to draft an ordinance outlawing such a restriction.

Behrel suggested the city take a similar approach to be matter.

In his letter, Kehe said he opposed the evening meat sales ban and the "to heck with the public attitude" shown by area meatcutters.

Union butchers recently voted to keep the lid on evening meat sales for another three years as part of a new contract settlement they approved with major supermarket chains in the Chicago area.

Chicago area meatcutters are the only such union in the nation which still upholds the ban on the sale of meat after 6 p.m.

Building bonds for sale

The city council gave final approval for the sale of $1.3 million in general obligation bonds to finance the new police building.

Construction of the two-story facility, which will be located next to the new municipal building, is expected to start in the next 30 days. Demolition crews already have razed the old fire station to make way for construction of the police building.

The project is part of the overall plans for the city's new municipal building.

Name sought for building

The city is still seeking a name for the new senior-citizen apartment building at Lee Street and Ashland Ave. Mayor Behrel noted that one suggestion called for the building to be called the Garden, an acronym standing for Golden Ages.

Another suggestion is that the facility be named after Socrates Rand, one of the early residents of the city.

Committee meetings Monday

A number of city council committees have scheduled meetings for next Monday. The streets and traffic committee will meet at 6:30 p.m. The municipal development committee will give further consideration to the restrictive covenants covering the development of the Walgreen property at Touhy Avenue and Lee beginning at 7:30 p.m.

The city code and judiciary committee also will meet at 7:30 p.m. to discuss an ordinance outlining the duties of the city attorney. They also will continue to work on recommendations concerning possible changes in city government.

The building control and inspection committee will review a proposed ordinance dealing with the maintenance of dwelling units beginning at 7:30 p.m.

The building grounds and parking lots committee will meet at 8:30 p.m. to review parking plans for the new municipal building.

The sewer and water committee will meet at 8 p.m. to review bids for the Weiler Creek bank improvement project.

The health and welfare committee will meet at 8:30 p.m. on Nov. 13 to review several matters concerned with making application for about $2.5 million in federal funds under the new Housing and Community Development Act program.

The youth activity committee will consider next year's budget for youth programs at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 12.

Plans for garage OK'd

Mayor Behrel received authorization to seek preliminary architectural plans for a proposed park district garage. The plans will be prepared by Orville Kurtz at a cost not to exceed $600.

Construction of the garage would probably be part of a settlement between the city and the park district over the acquisition of the park district's administration and maintenance facility on Pearson Street. The land would be used as a parking lot for the proposed downtown redevelopment project.

College transfer topic of student program

Eight former Oakton Community College students now attending four-year colleges and universities will share their experiences and feelings about transferring at an evening students development program at 7:30 p.m. today.

Students will discuss what happened after they decided to transfer. The discussion will cover topics including registration, academic demands, grades, commuting, advising and activities.

The program will be in the board room in Building 3 on the interim campus, 7800 N. Nagle Ave., Morton Grove.

Colored chips are awarded to youngsters for work completed in the preschool special education program in River Trails Dist. 26. When the line of chips touch bottom, the youngsters receive a prize.

Reinforcement, parent involvement important

Teaching kids with disabilities 'really worth it'

by LINDA PUNCH

Lori Meshulam's students are a mixed bag.

As preschool special education teacher for River Trails Dist. 26, Miss Meshulam works daily with youngsters whose problems are as varied as stuttering, hyperactivity, mental retardation and delayed speech.

The program — in its second year — is designed to help preschool youngsters with special learning problems and is based at Bond School, 350 Wolf Rd., Mount Prospect.

"Most of my students have learning disability type problems such as delayed speech and language," Miss Meshulam said. "Most of the parents said they knew their child had a problem but they just couldn't put their finger on it."

THE PROGRAM IS open to all youngsters in the district. Parents make an appointment for tests and interviews through the school district administration. Minimum age for the program is 3 years.

"We test by developmental ages to see if the children have all the skills for their age level," Miss Meshulam said. "If parents suspect there is an emotional or psychiatric problem, the district nurse and psychologist are brought in for the screening."

While only youngsters with severe problems are accepted in the program, Miss Meshulam suggests exercises and work parents can do at home with children with minor problems. She notes that parents are free to call at any time for help.

Classroom work centers around the child's individual problem. The children meet with Miss Meshulam singly or in small groups for one 20-minute period a week.

IN ONE RECENT session, the young, dark haired teacher worked with two girls. The youngsters took turns pulling plastic furniture from a box, naming the item and placing it in a dollhouse.

"When I first started working with them, they couldn't say more than a couple of words. Now they're working with noun and verb phrases," Miss Meshulam said.

Miss Meshulam notes that one little girl now "talks and talks and talks. I'm exhausted when she leaves."

Correct work is rewarded with colored chips, which are redeemable for a prize. "I believe in positive reinforcement — I make a big deal when they say a word correctly. They are so proud they can say something another person can understand," Miss Meshulam said.

THE PRESCHOOL TEACHER recounts one time when a student learned to say the word "apple."

"She was so proud that she said apple for everything. Her mother went to her room that night and heard her singing apple to herself," Miss Meshulam said.

Parent involvement is a basic part of the program, said Miss Meshulam, who meets with mothers after each lesson.

"I sometimes invite the mother to sit in on the lesson. I always talk with them afterwards to tell what we did and what followup should be done at home," she said.

The preschool youngsters will continue to receive help when they enter the regular school program, she added.

Meeting the needs of youngsters is difficult because every child is completely different, Miss Meshulam said.

"It's a lot of work but it's really worth it."

Behrel urges city eliminate specific dates

Superblock timetable facing delay

Des Plaines Mayor Herbert H. Behrel has proposed a revision to the planned-unit development ordinance covering construction of the proposed Superblock office and retail complex.

Behrel submitted a proposed ordinance to the city council, suggesting that specific dates for start and completion of construction be eliminated from the ordinance.

Instead, Behrel has proposed that the developer, J. R. Gottlieb and Co., be required to begin construction 60 days after obtaining financing and to complete construction within two years after that date.

The city council voted Monday to revise the ordinance covering the construction timetable proposed last April. The original ordinance called for the project to be completed by Sept. 15, 1975. The completion date was changed in April to Sept. 15, 1976.

IN HIS LETTER to the council, Behrel noted that the general slowdown in the economy, negotiations between the city and the developers, and some difficulty in obtaining financing have slowed the project.

"Because of the delays which have not been the fault of the developer, I am suggesting that the city, on its own motion extend the construction schedule," Behrel said. He also advocated the schedule be tied to events and not particular dates.

Although preliminary site preparation work began last month, no date has been set for the official groundbreaking.

Behrel said he had talked to the developers recently and was told that final negotiations are nearly completed to secure financing of the $14 million project. Several buildings have been razed on the site of the proposed development.

CREWS STARTED work recently installing water mains and larger storm sewers along Prairie Street to serve the project.

Behrel said the amended ordinance will be discussed at the Nov. 18 council meeting. He said he held off action on the ordinance for two weeks so aldermen could study the changes and have time to discuss the ordinance.

Mel Helms, a spokesman for the developer, recently said that Gottlieb is still hoping to break ground before the end of the year. He said some local merchants have expressed interest in leasing space in the retail section of the complex. The Herald has surveyed a number of downtown merchants last month who indicated they were reluctant to take leases in the retail area because of the rental price and a number of undetermined charges that will be assessed tenants.

Committee to review plans for intersection project

The police and fire committee of the Mount Prospect Village Board tonight will review proposed plans for the improvement of the intersection of Rand, Central and Mount Prospect roads.

Trustee George Anderson said the committee will review the recommendations of both the state and consulting firm, M & E/Alstot, March and Gullion. Using both sets of recommendations, the commission is expected to come up with its own proposal for the project.

The improvement, estimated to cost $1.2 million, would include the installation of left turn bays on Central Road to Rand Road as well as left turn bays on Rand Road. Additional vehicle storage would be provided for those east-bound on Central Road turning north on Rand Road.

The project has already been recommended for federal funding, that, if approved, would cover about 70 per cent of the financing. The state is expected to provide an additional 20 per cent, with the local government paying only about 10 per cent. Anderson said Des Plaines is expected to cover about 20 per cent of the financing provided by local government.

If the commission approves the project, Anderson said a public hearing will

The boy suffered head injuries when he was struck by a car on Mount Prospect Road south of Thacker Street. Police said the boy was riding his bicycle and went across the street into the path of an oncoming car driven by Christopher M. O'Neill, 24, 2140 S. Goebbert Rd., Arlington Heights.

Police charged Slavick with the May 19 burglaries at the homes of Luke Kehoe, 48, of 666 Millers Rd., and Thomas P. Vitale, 47, of 674 Millers Rd.

Merchandise totaling more than $140 was taken in the two burglaries.

Slavick will appear in the Des Plaines branch of Circuit Court Dec. 12.

Incumbent's projected margin 63%

Crane bucks Dem tide, whips Spence

Bucking a Democratic tide, U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th, won his third full term in the Congress Tuesday, turning back a challenge by Democrat Betty Spence of Buffalo Grove.

With an estimated 75 per cent of the vote in from the Cook County portion of Crane's district, his campaign staff reported him leading in the County with a total of 47,065 votes to 27,380 for Mrs. Spence.

The Spence camp had hoped to cut Crane's margin in the Lake County portion of the district, which includes about one-third of the total vote, but meager returns from Lake County gave Crane a lead there of 1,913 to 1,084.

Those figures indicated Crane would wind up with a victory margin of about 63 per cent.

EARLY FIGURES from the Spence headquarters agreed with those figures. With little more than 25 per cent of the vote recorded, the Spence camp showed Crane receiving 62.3 per cent of the vote.

Mrs. Spence said before the final totals were in she would "definitely" campaign against Crane again, and planned to start another effort to unseat him in 1978 "a year from now."

She pointed out she had carried at least 30 precincts in the Cook County portion of the district, more than any Democrat who has run against Crane.

In three previous elections, Crane never had lost a precinct in Wheeling, Elk Grove, Palatine or Schaumburg townships. Mrs. Spence carried scattered precincts in all those townships Tuesday.

ALTHOUGH CRANE'S victory margin was comfortable, it fell short of the 74.2 per cent he piled up in 1972. But with Republicans saddled with the hangover of Watergate, President Ford's pardon of former President Nixon, and the President's recent proposal of an income tax surcharge, Crane had said privately in the last week of the campaign he would "be satisfied" with 60 per cent of the vote.

A key Spence aide had predicted a few days before the election that the margin would be within 3 percentage points.

The scope of confidence in the Crane camp was reflected in the comment of one Crane staffer early in the evening: "This is embarrassing, losing precincts."

BUT ANOTHER STAFF worker said Crane's victory in the face of the Democratic sweep made him the "best opponent" to a U.S. Senate seat at some future date.

Crane later said he has no ambition for the Senate, and declared, "My role and the role of the Republican Party is to solve the problems we have in the House."

Although tacitly conceding the election was lost, Mrs. Spence refused to concede "defeat."

"Defeat would have been if (Crane) had won by 75 per cent," he said. She also conceded that at no time during the campaign had she expected to win.

End of the trail in the 12th District...

THE RACE for the 12th District Congressional seat is over, Philip M. Crane, the incumbent Republican, apparently won his return to Washington by defeating his Democratic challenger, Betty Spence of Buffalo Grove. With early returns reporting, Crane took between 60 and 63 per cent of the vote in the

heavily Republican district. (Photos by Jim Frost and Bob Finch)

In 3rd District of House

Macdonald, Totten, Chapman win

Three incumbents in the 3rd District of the Illinois House of Representatives were reelected Tuesday by significant margins.

With 131 of 184 precincts reported, unofficial totals showed Virginia Macdonald, R-Arlington Heights as top vote getter and her running mate Donald Totten, R-Hoffman Estates, a close second.

Mrs. Macdonald showed 22,907 votes with Totten receiving 22,502 votes. Both were first elected in 1972. Eugene Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, held a close third in her reelection for a sixth term to the House, receiving 19,728 votes. Walter Sullivan, 22-year-old Democrat from Hoffman Estates, got 12,119 votes.

THE 3RD DISTRICT includes Elk Grove and Schaumburg townships, the southeast corner of Palatine Township and the southwest corner of Wheeling Township.

In his dual capacity as Schaumburg Township Republican Committeeman, Totten Tuesday night said he was pleased with the vote he received but was irked by chronic problems he said were caused by faulty voting equipment. He requested examination of voting machines by the state's attorney's office because he had zero votes when machines were opened at Schaumburg Township Precinct 15 at Hillcrest School, Hoffman Estates.

"I feel really great," Totten said at Republican headquarters in Schaumburg. "It's always nice to get reelection on your own record. It's done by a lot of people working for you. You can't thank them enough," Totten said, standing on a folding chair in the smoke-filled room.

MRS. CHAPMAN traveled from spot to spot during the evening Tuesday to places where Democrats were gathered in the district.

"I'm not worried. I always run first in half a dozen precincts, second in half a dozen precincts, and third in the rest," she said, assured of reelection early in the evening.

"In Totten's township I'm beating him in about six precincts," she later said, looking at returns from about 20 pre-incts posted at the Democratic Party headquarters in Schaumburg Township. "This is a Democratic township this year. I'm close to carrying this township."

Mrs. Macdonald also made the rounds. At Elk Grove Township Republican headquarters, she arrived at 9:30 p.m. with her husband and a big smile on her face.

She greeted most people on a first name basis and spoke of how she tried to relate to people and be close to her constituency.

"I believe that if political leaders have faith in their local people... that faith and rapport would pay off," she said.

DEFEATED CANDIDATE Walter Sullivan said he was pleased with the vote total he received and added that he "definitely" would run again for a state representative's seat in two years.

"I'm surprised I did as well as I did," Sullivan said. "I was very pleased with my vote total. With the budget we ran on ($900) and my age against me, I think I did very well," Sullivan said.

Sullivan two years ago ran unsuccessfully for a trustee post on the Hoffman Estates Village Board. He said Tuesday night he would decide "in about a month" whether to attempt again a village race in April, but added if he did not he would again vie for a state position in 1976.

A BREAKDOWN OF figures for the election with all 55 precincts reporting in Schaumburg Township show Totten received 9,876 votes; Macdonald, 8,171.5; Chapman, 8,987 and Sullivan, 5,901.

In Elk Grove Township, with 59 of 75 precincts reporting, the vote was Totten, 9,245; Macdonald, 11,236; Chapman, 8,535 and Sullivan, 5,142.

In Wheeling Township, with 17 of 33 precincts reporting, Totten received 3,381; Macdonald, 4,500; Chapman, 2,680 and Sullivan, 1,076.

With 6 of 21 precincts reporting in Palatine Township returns showed Totten with 1,102; Macdonald 1,291; Chapman, 1,043 and Sullivan, 606.

Stevenson hard-peddled the inflation issue, accusing all interests of being heavily responsible. Burditt, a suburban LaGrange lawyer who had to be drafted for the race after better-known Republicans backed off, was hobbled from the start because of his obscurity and also by a lack of campaign funds which kept him from going to television.

Still, he put on a vigorous campaign, also concentrating on inflation and seeking to put blame on Stevenson as one of the biggest spenders in Washington.

Incumbent crushes Republican

Stevenson lauds Burditt after landslide win

Sen. Adlai Stevenson was gentleman enough to wait for his opponent, George Burditt, to concede before declaring his victory in the U.S. Senate race Tuesday night.

Although Stevenson's victory never was in doubt, he waited until about 11:15 p.m., after a call from Burditt, before declaring "the long campaign is now over, and we won." The number of supporters at Stevenson headquarters had dwindled considerably because of Stevenson's delay in making his statement.

In his victory statement, Stevenson said, "I salute George Burditt, a man of high integrity and a credit to his party."

PHOTOS BY JIM FROST AND BOB FINCH

It is my hope and the hope of others that he will continue in public service."

STEVENS ON ALSO said the nationwide Democratic landslide means "the American people have brought down their judgments on five years of misrule."

He said, "The Democratic Congress must now work with the Republican president. The times are too dangerous for anything but partnership in government."

Stevenson not only piled up a prohibitive lead in the Democratic stomping grounds of Chicago, but was far ahead in such swing areas Downstate as Rock Island County and even normally Republican enclaves.

Stevenson thus won his first full term in the Senate as part of what appeared to be a Democratic surge across a state once regarded as traditionally Republican.

Democrats hoped to upset the Republicans' 14-10 edge in the Illinois Congressional delegation and perhaps take over control of the Illinois legislature.

STEVENS ON'S victory became apparent when, with the first 5 per cent of the Cook County Chicago vote reporting, he was charging ahead with 80 per cent of the ballots.

Even though Democrats were expected to carry Cook County, such a margin would require a Republican landslide Downstate. Instead, Burditt appeared to lose there, too.

Voter apathy and dark, rainy skies over Chicago and much of the state held down the vote and thereby boosted the impact of the Chicago Democratic organization.

STILL, STEVENSON had a wide edge from the start with mounting inflation, Watergate hangover, and the fact that he bears one of the most famous names in Illinois politics — that of the late governor and Presidential candidate who was his father.

Stevenson hard-peddled the inflation issue, accusing all interests of being heavily responsible.

Burditt, a suburban LaGrange lawyer who had to be drafted for the race after better-known Republicans backed off, was hobbled from the start because of his obscurity and also by a lack of campaign funds which kept him from going to television.

Still, he put on a vigorous campaign, also concentrating on inflation and seeking to put blame on Stevenson as one of the biggest spenders in Washington.

He breaks record in collecting old phonographs

by DIANE MERMIGAS

Bill Bailey has carried the nostalgia craze a little further than most Roaring Twenties fans. He's amassed a collection of 25 antique phonographs to belt out the tunes of the era of flappers and Al Capone.

The phonographs, with original Capitol Edison and Victor labels, decorate every room in the Bailey home and instantly attract the eye and interest of visitors. "It's an expensive hobby, but it's an enjoyable one," Bailey said.

Bailey of Arlington Heights is an industrial engineer who has been collecting disc and cylinder models of the earliest phonographs for the past three years. All of his small, wood box "music machines" have shiny metal or flower-painted horns that are essential for amplifying the recorded sounds, he said.

An authentic old phonograph, Bailey says, costs anywhere from $50 to $1,000. He has driven 100 miles just to buy a model he wants at an auction, and he and his wife, Diane, spend two weeks of their vacation each year driving through small country towns rich in antiques.

Bailey has spent many an hour trying to convince an owner to sell his old phonograph for a special price, and he's spent even more hours in his garage workshop restoring the old phonographs inside and out, he said.

BAILEY AND HIS wife stumbled upon their first phonograph at a flea market three years ago. The couple, constantly in search of antiques for their home, found an old phonograph with a bright red horn "that we thought would look striking up against our white front room walls," Mrs. Bailey said.

The novelty of the machine wore off several weeks later, and Bailey adopted a serious study and collection. He's also collected early patent drawings of the machines, magazine and newspaper advertisements selling the machines, and some of the first paintings done of them.

Bailey even has two original phonograph dolls that stand about two feet high. He continually attends auctions, flea markets and showings, scans antique shops, and confronts dealers of old phonographs for parts and models he's looking for to "upgrade my collection," he said.

"It may take several years to find the phonograph part I'm looking for. The main thing to know when collecting phonographs is the authenticity of what you are buying," Bailey said.

The price of an old phonograph or parts depends on the model, make, condition and authenticity of the machine. Old phonographs sold for $25 to $50 when they were introduced in America, he said.

THE SCRATCHY AND fuzzy recordings that play on Bailey's machines are clear considering the crude technology with which they were made at the turn of the century, Bailey said. He has recordings of speeches made by Thomas Edison and Theodore Roosevelt in his collection of wax and all-ceramic spools that fit onto the cylinder-style phonographs. He also has one of the earliest cylinder model phonographs invented in 1877 by Thomas Edison while Edison was attempting to perfect the telegraph machine.

The disc phonographs, using heavy and large records, came 20 years later as an improvement on the cylinder models. Bailey has an upright, turntable model whose speed is controlled by the constant cranking of a handle. Other phonographs in the collection are key-wound, and none of them is electrically operated.

"I don't attempt to modernize these phonographs when I work on them. I just work at restoring them to their original state, and make them work the way they used to," Bailey said.

BUT THE PARTS that he needs to restore the phonographs "are getting more difficult to find just lately," Bailey said.

"People are starting to keep the antiques that are being handed down to them through family members. All of a sudden, everyone is interested in their instant heritage, so there's not as many good phonographs or parts in circulation as there used to be," he said.

Bailey said that the main pleasure he gets out of collecting and restoring phonographs is "learning to appreciate the complex work of others."

"By working with these machines and studying them, I have grown a little closer to understanding the mechanical progress this country has made," he said.

BILL BAILEY keeps many of his old phonographs displayed in a room in his Arlington Heights home where he does some of the restoration of the phonographs. The metal horns, common to both recorded sounds: the larger the horn, the louder the cylinder and disc phonographs, amplify the the sound.

Revise ordinances?

Board to discuss health survey

A health survey and possible revisions to village ordinances governing health and sanitation will be discussed by the Board of Health at a meeting Nov. 13 in the municipal building, 901 Wellington St. Health Coordinator Nancy Yiannias said the board is reviewing several ordinances and will ask the village board to authorize a revision of health-related ordinances. Mrs. Yiannias said she had no specific ordinances in mind but noted that several developments in the fields of sanitation and health might make many village ordinances outdated.

Mrs. Yiannias said the board of health also will discuss the possibility of interviewing a sampling of residents about their health.

"This information would be used to back up the comprehensive health survey conducted in 1972," Mrs. Yiannias said.

In that study the board of health assessed local conditions of health and health-care services using research data. The new survey calls for personal interviews.

Donna Farley, who was cochairman of the comprehensive health survey committee, recently was appointed chairman of the mental health board by Village Pres. Charles Zettek.

The board of health meets at 8 p.m. every second Wednesday of the month, in the lower level all-purpose room of the municipal building.

Hanover Park couple remain hospitalized

A Hanover Park couple remained hospitalized Tuesday with head injuries sustained in an accident Monday on Nerge Road in Elk Grove Village.

Thomas and Maricela Kitchen, 6881 Juniper St., were listed in good condition at Alexian Brothers Medical Center, Elk Grove Village. Their son, Thomas Jr., 1, and the driver of the other vehicle, Patrick Noonan, 53, of 536 Hyde Park St., Bellwood, were treated for head injuries and released.

Police said the Kitchen vehicle, west-bound on Nerge, apparently went out of control and crossed into the eastbound lane, where it struck the Noonan car. Mrs. Kitchen was ticketed for illegal lane usage.

Baby born in Volkswagen wins $100 savings bond

Charity Elaine Selsor, born Aug. 14, was given a special present Tuesday because she was delivered in a special place... the back of a Volkswagen station wagon.

The circumstances surprised Charity's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Selsor of Hoffman Estates. "I only had one hour labor," Mrs. Selsor said of the quick end to her pregnancy.

So, as the baby's father drove toward St. Joseph's Hospital, Elgin, Mrs. Selsor delivered Charity by herself in the back of the car.

Charity arrived while the car moved along U.S. Rte. 20 east of Ill. Rte. 31. Mrs. Selsor recalled, "There was no sense in stopping. It wouldn't get us to the hospital any faster," Selsor added.

"It's quite an experience. I still can't think of the right words," said Mrs. Selsor, adding, "I enjoyed it."

"You just do what's instinctive and what Mother Nature tells you to do. And, you thank God there were no complications."

Charity received a $100 U.S. Savings Bond from Suburban Motors in Schaumburg because she was born in a VW. She is one of 292 babies to receive the gift since 1964 because they were born in Volkswagens.

The Selsors, 1967 Haddam Pl., have another daughter, Clare, 4. They've lived in Hoffman Estates one year.

at Keller School

About $500 worth of damage was caused and $4 in change taken in a burglary Monday at Helen Keller Junior High School, 820 W. Bode Rd., Schaumburg.

Police were told the burglars gained entry to a rear door and rifled cabinets in various science rooms and entered the nurses and main offices. They started a small fire in one of the rooms but no damage was reported. The burglars emptied fire extinguishers in a hallway.

Jewelry theft reported

An estimated $2,000 worth of jewelry was reported stolen Monday night at the Passing Fancy Store at Woodfield Shopping Center in Schaumburg.

Police said a set of keys were apparently used to open up a display case that contained seven pieces of assorted jewelry, one of which was a $1,000 necklace.

Some things are private

Can school officials give out information to prospective employers on student's grades, IQ, and personality traits without getting permission from the student or parent?

In most cases, no. The Office of the Illinois Superintendent of Public Instruction states that only officials of agencies with the power of subpoena or who represent certain federal agencies may be provided with such information without receiving permission from the student or his parents.

Incumbent's projected margin 63%

Crane bucks Dem tide, whips Spence

Bucking a Democratic tide, U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th, won his third full term in the Congress Tuesday, turning back a challenge by Democrat Betty Spence of Buffalo Grove.

With an estimated 75 per cent of the vote in from the Cook County portion of Crane's district, his campaign staff reported him leading in the County with a total of 47,083 votes to 27,380 for Mrs. Spence.

The Spence camp had hoped to cut Crane's margin in the Lake County portion of the district, which includes about one-third of the total vote, but meager returns from Lake County gave Crane a lead there of 1,913 to 1,084.

THE RACE for the 12th District Congressional seat is over, Philip M. Crane, the incumbent Republican apparently won his return to Washington by defeating his Democratic challenger, Betty Spence of Buffalo Grove. With early returns reporting, Crane and Bob Finch took between 60 and 63 per cent of the vote in the

In 3rd District of House

Macdonald, Totten, Chapman win

Three incumbents in the 3rd District of the Illinois House of Representatives were reelected Tuesday by significant margins.

With 131 of 184 precincts reported, unofficial totals showed Virginia Macdonald, R-Arlington Heights as top vote getter and her running mate Donald Totten, R-Hoffman Estates, a close second.

Mrs. Macdonald showed 24,907 votes with Totten receiving 22,502 votes. Both were first elected in 1972. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, held a close third in her reelection for a sixth term to the House, receiving 19,728 votes. Walter Sullivan, 22-year-old Democrat from Hoffman Estates, got 12,119 votes.

THE 3rd DISTRICT includes Elk Grove and Schaumburg townships, the southeast corner of Palatine Township and the southwest corner of Wheeling Township.

In his dual capacity as Schaumburg Township Republican Committeeman, Totten Tuesday night said he was pleased with the vote he received but was irked by chronic problems he said were caused by faulty voting equipment.

He requested examination of voting machines by the state's attorney's office because he had zero votes when machines were opened at Schaumburg Township Precinct 15 at Hillcrest School, Hoffman Estates.

"I feel really great," Totten said at Republican headquarters in Schaumburg. "It's always nice to get reelection on your own record. It's done by a lot of people working for you. You can't thank them enough," Totten said, standing on a folding chair in the smoke filled room.

MRS. CHAPMAN traveled from spot to spot during the evening Tuesday to places where Democrats were gathered in the district.

"I'm not worried. I always run first in half a dozen precincts, second in half a dozen precincts and third in the rest," she said, assured of reelection early in the evening.

"In Totten's township I'm beating him in about six precincts," she later said, looking at returns from about 20 precinets posted at the Democratic Party headquarters in Schaumburg Township. "This is a Democratic township this year. I'm close to carrying this township."

Mrs. Macdonald also made the rounds. At Elk Grove Township Republican headquarters, she arrived at 9:30 p.m. with her husband and a big smile on her face.

She greeted most people on a first name basis and spoke of how she tried to relate to people and be close to her constituency.

"I believe that if political leaders have faith in their local people... that faith and rapport would pay off," she said.

DEFEATED CANDIDATE Walter Sullivan said he was pleased with the vote total he received and added that he "definitely" would run again for a state representative's seat in two years.

"I'm surprised I did as well as I did," Sullivan said. "I was very pleased with my vote total. With the budget we ran on ($800) and my age against me, I think I did very well," Sullivan said.

Sullivan two years ago ran unsuccessfully for a trustee post on the Hoffman Estates Village Board. He said Tuesday night he would decide "in about a month" whether to attempt again a village race in April, but added if he did not he would again vie for a state position in 1976.

A BREAKDOWN OF figures for the election with all 55 precincts reporting in Schaumburg Township show Totten received 9,876 votes; Macdonald, 9,171.5; Chapman, 8,887 and Sullivan, 5,901.

In Elk Grove Township, with 59 of 75 precincts reporting, the vote was Totten, 9,245; Macdonald, 11,236; Chapman, 8,535 and Sullivan, 5,142.

In Wheeling Township, with 17 of 33 precincts reporting Totten received 3,381; Macdonald, 4,500; Chapman, 2,680 and Sullivan, 1,076.

With 6 of 21 precincts reporting in Palatine Township returns showed Totten with 1,102; Macdonald 1,291; Chapman, 1,043 and Sullivan, 606.

Incumbent crushes Republican

Stevenson lauds Burditt after landslide win

Sen. Adlai Stevenson was gentleman enough to wait for his opponent, George Burditt, to concede before declaring his victory in the U.S. Senate race Tuesday night.

Although Stevenson's victory never was in doubt, he waited until about 11:15 p.m., after a call from Burditt, before declaring "the long campaign is now over, and we won." The number of supporters at Stevenson headquarters had dwindled considerably because of Stevenson's delay in making his statement.

In his victory statement, Stevenson said, "I salute George Burditt, a man of high integrity and a credit to his party."

STEVENSON'S victory became apparent when, with the first 5 per cent of the

STEVENSON ALSO said the nationwide Democratic landslide means "the American people have brought down their judgments on five years of misrule."

He said, "The Democratic Congress must now work with the Republican president. The times are too dangerous for anything but partnership in government."

Stevenson not only piled up a prohibitive lead in the Democratic stomping grounds of Chicago, but was far ahead in such swing areas Downstate as Rock Island County and even normally Republican enclaves.

Stevenson thus won his first full term in the Senate as part of what appeared to be a Democratic surge across a state once regarded as traditionally Republican.

Democrats hoped to upset the Republicans' 14-10 edge in the Illinois Congressional delegation and perhaps take over control of the Illinois legislature.

STEVENSON'S victory became apparent when, with the first 5 per cent of the Cook County Chicago vote reporting, he was charging ahead with 60 per cent of the ballots.

Even though Democrats were expected to carry Cook County, such a margin would require a Republican landslide Downstate. Instead, Burditt appeared to lose there, too.

Voter apathy and dark, rainy skies over Chicago and much of the state held down the vote and thereby boosted the impact of the Chicago Democratic organization.

STILL, STEVENSON had a wide edge from the start with mounting inflation, Watergate hangover, and the fact that he bears one of the most famous names in Illinois politics—that of the late governor and Presidential candidate who was his father.

Stevenson hard-peddled the inflation issue, accusing all interests of being heavily responsible.

Burditt, a suburban LaGrange lawyer who had to be drafted for the race after better-known Republicans backed off, was bobbed from the start because of his obscurity and also by a lack of campaign funds which kept him from going to television.

Still, he put on a vigorous campaign, also concentrating on inflation and seeking to put blame on Stevenson as one of the biggest spenders in Washington.

Village board wrapup

Panel to review fire district audit results

The long-awaited results of an audit of the Hoffman Estates Fire Protection District will be reviewed Thursday in a special meeting of the village board finance committee.

The audit had been ordered as part of the preparatory work for the annexation of the fire district by the village. The financially troubled district has operated at a deficit for several years and Village Mgr. George Longmeyer said the audit will reveal the anticipated deficit as of April 30, 1975 — estimated as high as $240,000.

Fire district trustees will be invited to attend the meeting, William Cowin, finance committee chairman, said.

Because of the audit completion, trustees agreed Monday to delay action on several ordinances dealing with the transfer of fire protection responsibilities from the fire district to the village.

Delay action on transfer tax

The village board agreed this week to defer for two weeks action on a proposed real estate transfer tax.

The tax has been proposed on all property sales in the village. It would levy a charge of up to one-tenth of 1 per cent of the selling price of property to be paid by the property buyer, or a $40 charge on an average home selling for $40,000.

Several aspects of the tax are being reviewed, including whether the tax should be charged to the buyer or seller of property and whether cooperation can be expected from the county recorder of deeds office in Chicago to enforce the tax collection.

Meet on Westbury delayed

The Palatine Rural Park District apparently will delay until Nov. 27 its meeting with the village plan commission concerning park development in the Westbury development.

The park district notified the village it will hold its own meeting Nov. 17 to discuss the project and therefore will meet with the village plan commission at its second November meeting instead of the first monthly meeting.

The plan commission currently is studying building plans for the 4,400-unit residential development at Palatine Road near Freeman Road in Hoffman Estates. The commission has said, however, it cannot grant approval for final development plans without input from the park district, which has jurisdiction over the 497-acre site.

Cafe gets new liquor license

A class AA liquor license allowing the sale of package goods was given to the Trattoria Romantica restaurant after the village board this week agreed to make the license available.

The restaurant, at 2570 Hassel Rd., previously had a class A license allowing by-the-drink service only. Village Pres. Virginia Hayter, the village liquor commissioner, awarded the license.

Appropriation for clerk

The village board appropriated up to $225 for Village Clerk Helen Wozniak to attend the Municipal Clerk Training Institute to be held at the University of Illinois Nov. 13 to 16.

Kuhn quits ecology board

The resignation of Earl F. Kuhn from the village environmental control commission was accepted Monday by the village board. Kuhn, in a letter, cited job responsibilities for his resignation.

$500 damage reported at Keller School

About $500 worth of damage was caused and $4 in change taken in a burglary Monday at Helen Keller Junior High School, 820 W. Bode Rd., Schaumburg.

Police were told the burglars gained entry to a rear door and rifled cabinets in various science rooms and entered the nurses and main offices. They started a small fire in one of the rooms but no damage was reported. The burglars emptied fire extinguishers in a hallway.

Jewelry theft reported

An estimated $2,000 worth of jewelry was reported stolen Monday night at the Passing Fancy Store at Woodfield Shopping Center in Schaumburg.

Police said a set of keys were apparently used to open up a display case that contained seven pieces of assorted jewelry, one of which was a $1,000 necklace.

CHARITY ELAINE SELSOR sits with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Selsor, in the car where the baby was born on Aug. 14. Charity was given a $100 U.S. Savings Bond Tuesday, a gift made to all babies born in Volkswagens. Mrs. Selsor gave birth as their car moved along Ill. Rte. 20.

Ride a bike to Woodfield? Village weighs path plan

A feasibility study of bicycle paths throughout Hoffman Estates is being considered by village officials.

The plan has been proposed by officials to coincide with road repairs to be made soon. The paths also could be built between major points of interest in the village and around it.

Village Planner Gerald Estes told the village board Monday paths could be built between locations such as the Wood-field Shopping Center, the high schools and the forest preserves on the western limits of the village. The paths could be used by cyclists and pedestrians, he said.

The cost of planning could be excessive, however, if the village would be required to pay for professional expertise in planning, Estes said. He estimated comprehensive planning could be as much as $10,000, and recommended village officials consider doing the planning to reduce the cost.

THERE CURRENTLY IS no comprehensive bike plan in the Chicago area, Estes said, so a village undertaking could be a prototype for the area.

Money to undertake the planning is available from several sources, Estes said, including the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission and the Illinois Dept. of Transportation. Money also would be available to implement plans should the project be pursued, he said.

The village has contacted the state highway department to consider bike paths along Golf Road when the road is widened and improved next year between Higgins and Barrington roads.

ESTES SAID THAT if the village prepares a comprehensive study plan, it could be in a better position to request funding for paths.

The state has said it will consider including bike paths along state roads as they are improved. Approval is expected early next year by Gov. Daniel Walker on a bike path policy along state roadways.

delivered Charity by herself in the back of the car.

Charity arrived while the car moved along U.S. Rte. 20 east of Ill. Rte. 31, Mrs. Selsor recalled. "There was no sense in stopping. It wouldn't get us to the hospital any faster," Selsor added. "It's quite an experience. I still can't think of the right words," said Mrs. Selsor, adding, "I enjoyed it."

"You just do what's instinctive and what Mother Nature tells you to do. And, you thank God there were no complications."

Charity received a $100 U.S. Savings Bond from Suburban Motors in Schaumburg because she was born in a VW. She is one of 292 babies to receive the gift since 1964 because they were born in Volkswagens.

The Selsors, 1957 Haddam Pl., have another daughter, Clare, 4. They've lived in Hoffman Estates one year.

Baby born in Volkswagen wins $100 savings bond

Charity Elaine Selsor, born Aug. 14, was given a special present Tuesday because she was delivered in a special place... the back of a Volkswagen station wagon.

The circumstances surprised Charity's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Selsor of Hoffman Estates. "I only had one hour labor," Mrs. Selsor said of the quick end to her pregnancy.

So, as the baby's father drove toward St. Joseph's Hospital, Elgin, Mrs. Selsor

Woodfield project hearings canceled

Lack of quorum forced cancellation of Wednesday's continued public hearing on annexation of 237 acres of Golf Road property for Schaumburg's proposed $250 million Woodfield 76 "metro center."

Trustees Herbert J. Almer and Ray G. McArthur were reported ill late Tuesday, a village spokesman said. Trustee Raymond E. LeBeau, an airline dispatcher, was scheduled to work last night, the spokesman added.

A new date for the annexation hearing will be announced at the Nov. 12 village board meeting, the spokesman said.

Senior Trustee Raymond Kessell is acting as chairman of village board annexation hearings for Woodfield 76 since Village Pres. Robert O. Atcher removed himself from the deliberations in September citing possible conflict of interest.

Atcher said he would not participate in the hearings because he and Jack M. Pritzker, a principal in the project's development team, were co-owners of 43 acres of Meacham Road property.

Committee to hear transit study reports

Reports on two Schaumburg transportation studies are expected at the mass transportation committee meeting at 8 p.m. today in the Great Hall, 231 S. Civic Dr.

A representative of Howard, Needles, Tammen and Bergendoff, engineering consultants engaged in a $56,000 airport expansion feasibility study, will report on progress in the investigation which began in September. Two-thirds of the study's cost is being paid with a federal grant and supplemental funding is being provided by the state.

A report also is expected on a $28,000 survey of bus transportation needs of Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates. The project has also received federal and state funding but has not yet been started. It is being done by Jack E. Leisch and Associates, Evanston consultants affiliated with Northwestern University Transportation Center.

Incumbent's projected margin 63%

Crane bucks Dem tide, whips Spence

Bucking a Democratic tide, U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th, won his third full term in the Congress Tuesday, turning back a challenge by Democrat Betty Spence of Buffalo Grove.

With an estimated 75 per cent of the vote in from the Cook County portion of Crane's district, his campaign staff reported him leading in the County with a total of 47,006 votes to 27,380 for Mrs. Spence.

The Spence camp had hoped to cut Crane's margin in the Lake County portion of the district, which includes about one-third of the total vote, but meager returns from Lake County gave Crane a lead there of 1,913 to 1,064.

Those figures indicated Crane would wind up with a victory margin of about 63 per cent.

EARLY FIGURES from the Spence headquarters agreed with those figures. With little more than 25 per cent of the vote recorded, the Spence camp showed Crane receiving 62.3 per cent of the vote.

Mrs. Spence said before the final totals were in she would "definitely" campaign against Crane again, and planned to start another effort to unseat him in 1978 "a year from now."

She pointed out she had carried at least 30 precincts in the Cook County portion of the district, more than any Democrat who has run against Crane.

In three previous elections, Crane never had lost a precinct in Wheeling, Elk Grove, Palatine or Schaumburg townships. Mrs. Spence carried scattered precincts in all those townships Tuesday.

ALTHOUGH CRANE'S victory margin was comfortable, it fell short of the 74.2 per cent he piled up in 1972. But with Republicans saddled with the hangover of Watergate, President Ford's pardon of former President Nixon, and the President's recent proposal of an income tax surcharge, Crane had said privately in the last week of the campaign he would "be satisfied" with 60 per cent of the vote.

A key Spence aide had predicted a few days before the election that the margin would be within 3 percentage points.

The scope of confidence in the Crane camp was reflected in the comment of one Crane staffer early in the evening: "This is embarrassing, losing precincts."

BUT ANOTHER STAFF worker said Crane's victory in the face of the Democratic sweep made him the "heir apparent" to a U.S. Senate seat at some future date.

Crane later said he has no ambition for the Senate, and declared, "My role and the role of the Republican Party is to solve the problems we have in the House."

Although tacitly conceding the election was lost, Mrs. Spence refused to concede "defeat."

"Defeat would have been if (Crane) had won by 75 per cent," he said. She also conceded that at no time during the campaign had she expected to win.

End of the trail in the 12th District...

THE RACE for the 12th District Congressional seat is over. Philip M. Crane, the incumbent Republican, apparently won his return to Washington by defeating his Democratic challenger, Betty Spence of Buffalo Grove. With early returns reporting, Crane took between 60 and 63 per cent of the vote in the

heavily-Republican district. (Photos by Jim Frost and Bob Finch)

Macdonald, Totten, Chapman win

Three incumbents in the 3rd District of the Illinois House of Representatives were reelected Tuesday by significant margins.

With 131 of 184 precincts reported, unofficial totals showed Virginia Macdonald, R-Arlington Heights as top vote getter and her running mate Donald Totten, R-Hoffman Estates, a close second.

Mrs. Macdonald showed 24,907 votes with Totten receiving 22,502 votes. Both were first elected in 1972. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, held a close third in her reelection for a sixth term to the House, receiving 19,728 votes. Walter Sullivan, 22-year-old Democrat from Hoffman Estates, got 12,119 votes.

THE 3RD DISTRICT includes Elk Grove and Schaumburg townships, the southeast corner of Palatine Township and the southwest corner of Wheeling Township.

In his dual capacity as Schaumburg Township Republican Committeeman, Totten Tuesday night said he was pleased with the vote he received but was irked by chronic problems he said were caused by faulty voting equipment.

He requested examination of voting machines by the state's attorney's office because he had zero votes when machines were opened at Schaumburg Township Precinct 15 at Hillcrest School, Hoffman Estates.

"I feel really great," Totten said at Republican headquarters in Schaumburg. "It's always nice to get reelection on your own record. It's done by a lot of people working for you. You can't thank them enough." Totten said, standing on a folding chair in the smoke filled room.

MRS. CHAPMAN traveled from spot to spot during the evening Tuesday to places where Democrats were gathered in the district.

"I'm not worried. I always run first in half a dozen precincts, second in half a dozen precincts and third in the rest," she said, assured of reelection early in the evening.

"In Totten's township I'm beating him in about six precincts," she later said, looking at returns from about 20 precincts posted at the Democratic Party headquarters in Schaumburg Township. "This is a Democratic township this year. I'm close to carrying this township."

Mrs. Macdonald also made the rounds. At Elk Grove Township Republican headquarters, she arrived at 9:30 p.m. with her husband and a big smile on her face.

She greeted most people on a first name basis and spoke of how she tried to relate to people and be close to her constituency.

"I believe that if political leaders have faith in their local people . . . that faith and rapport would pay off," she said.

DEFEATED CANDIDATE Walter Sullivan said he was pleased with the vote total he received and added that he "definitely" would run again for a state representative's seat in two years.

"I'm surprised I did as well as I did," Sullivan said. "I was very pleased with my vote total. With the budget we ran on ($800) and my age against me, I think I did very well," Sullivan said.

Still, he put on a vigorous campaign, also concentrating on inflation and seeking to put blame on Stevenson as one of the biggest spenders in Washington.

Stevenson not only piled up a prohibitive lead in the Democratic stomping grounds of Chicago, but was far ahead in such swing areas Downstate as Rock Island County and even normally Republican enclaves.

Stevenson thus won his first full term in the Senate as part of what appeared to be a Democratic surge across a state once regarded as traditionally Republican.

Democrats hoped to upset the Republicans' 14-10 edge in the Illinois Congressional delegation and perhaps take over control of the Illinois legislature.

STEVENSON'S victory became apparent when, with the first 5 per cent of the Cook County Chicago vote reporting, he was charging ahead with 80 per cent of the ballots.

BILL BAILEY keeps many of his old phonographs displayed in a room in his Arlington Heights home where he does some of the restoration of the phonographs. The metal horns, common to both recorded sounds: the larger the horn, the louder the cylinder and disc phonographs, amplify the sound.

Bill Bailey breaks the record in collecting old phonographs

by DIANE MERNIGAS

Bill Bailey has carried the nostalgia craze a little further than most Roaring Twenties fans. He's amassed a collection of 25 antique phonographs to belt out the tunes of the era of flappers and Al Capone.

The phonographs, with original Capitol Edison and Victor labels, decorate every room in the Bailey home and instantly attract the eye and interest of visitors. "It's an expensive hobby, but it's an enjoyable one," Bailey said.

Bailey of Arlington Heights is an industrial engineer who has been collecting disc and cylinder models of the earliest phonographs for the past three years. All of his small, wood box "music machines" have shiny metal or flower-painted horns that are essential for amplifying the recorded sounds, he said.

An authentic old phonograph, Bailey says, costs anywhere from $50 to $1,000. He has driven 100 miles just to buy a model he wants at an auction, and he and his wife, Diane, spend two weeks of their vacation each year driving through small country towns rich in antiques.

Bailey has spent many an hour trying to convince an owner to sell his old phonograph for a special price, and he's spent even more hours in his garage workshop restoring the old phonographs inside and out, he said.

BAILEY AND HIS wife stumbled upon their first phonograph at a flea market three years ago. The couple, constantly in search of antiques for their home, found an old phonograph with a bright red horn "that we thought would look striking up against our white front room walls," Mrs. Bailey said.

The novelty of the machine wore off several weeks later, and Bailey adopted a serious study and collection. He's also collected early patent drawings of the machines, magazine and newspaper advertisements selling the machines, and some of the first paintings done of them.

Bailey even has two original phonograph dolls that stand about two feet high. He continually attends auctions, flea markets and showings, scans antique shops, and confronts dealers of old phonographs for parts and models he's looking for to "upgrade my collection," he said.

"It may take several years to find the phonograph part I'm looking for. The main thing to know when collecting phonographs is the authenticity of what you are buying," Bailey said.

The price of an old phonograph or parts depends on the model, make, condition and authenticity of the machine. Old phonographs sold for $25 to $50 when they were introduced in America, he said.

THE SCRATCHY AND fuzzy recordings that play on Bailey's machines are clear considering the crude technology with which they were made at the turn of the century, Bailey said. He has recordings of speeches made by Thomas Edison and Theodore Roosevelt in his collection of wax and silicone spoils that fit onto the cylinder-style phonographs. He also has one of the earliest cylinder model phonographs invented in 1877 by Thomas Edison while Edison was attempting to perfect the telegraph machine.

The disc phonographs, using heavy and large records, came 20 years later as an improvement on the cylinder models. Bailey has an upright, turntable model whose speed is controlled by the constant cranking of a handle. Other phonographs in the collection are key-wound, and none of them is electrically operated.

"I don't attempt to modernize these phonographs when I work on them. I just work at restoring them to their original state, and make them work the way they used to," Bailey said.

BUT THE PARTS that he needs to restore the phonographs "are getting more difficult to find just lately," Bailey said.

"People are starting to keep the antiques that are being handed down to them through family members. All of a sudden, everyone is interested in their instant heritage, so there's not as many good phonographs or parts in circulation as there used to be," he said.

Bailey said that the main pleasure he gets out of collecting and restoring phonographs is "learning to appreciate the complex work of others."

"By working with these machines and studying them, I've grown a little closer to understanding the mechanical progress this country has made," he said.

Baby born in Volkswagen wins $100 savings bond

Charity Elaine Selsor, born Aug. 14, was given a special present Tuesday because she was delivered in a special place... the back of a Volkswagen station wagon.

The circumstances surprised Charity's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Selsor of Hoffman Estates. "I only had one hour labor," Mrs. Selsor said of the quick end to her pregnancy.

So, as the baby's father drove toward St. Joseph's Hospital, Elgin, Mrs. Selsor delivered Charity by herself in the back of the car.

Charity arrived while the car moved along U.S. Rte. 20 east of Ill. Rte. 31, Mrs. Selsor recalled. "There was no sense in stopping. It wouldn't get us to the hospital any faster," Selsor added.

"It's quite an experience. I still can't think of the right words," said Mrs. Selsor, adding, "I enjoyed it."

"You just do what's instinctive and what Mother Nature tells you to do. And, you thank God there were no complications." Charity received a $100 U.S. Savings Bond from Suburban Motors in Schaumburg because she was born in a VW. She is one of 292 babies to receive the gift since 1964 because they were born in Volkswagens.

The Selsors, 1967 Haddam Pl., have another daughter, Clare, 4. They've lived in Hoffman Estates one year.

Arlington man finds no time limit to friendship

An Arlington Heights man went back 30 years and several thousand miles recently to where he was stationed immediately after World War II, and found some friendly, familiar faces.

Jacob Herr, 901 N. Douglas, joined about 15 former members of his Army infantry division, the "Cactus Company," and their wives on a bus tour of the Europe they knew in 1944-45. Herr and two friends took a side trip to Scharnitz, Austria, while visiting Innsbruck, and dropped in on the Albin Reinhold family.

Reinhold is the son of the man with whom Herr stayed during the American occupation of the Austrian Tyrol section immediately after the war.

The two men stood face to face for a moment, and then Reinhold smiled and called Herr by name.

The two men became acquainted when Reinhold returned to Scharnitz from his duty in the German army. Once enemies, the two men shared six months in Scharnitz and many stories, and became friends.

Herr has a photo album filled with pictures of the Reinholds, the Draxls, another Scharnitz family he knew after the war, and other memories of his summer trip. But the thrill of seeing Reinhold after 30 years and hearing him remember his name was the best memory of all, Herr said.

"That was worth the whole trip."

Incumbent's projected margin 63%

Crane bucks Dem tide, whips Spence

Bucking a Democratic tide, U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th, won his third full term in the Congress Tuesday, turning back a challenge by Democrat Betty Spence of Buffalo Grove.

With an estimated 75 per cent of the vote in from the Cook County portion of Crane's district, his campaign staff reported him leading in the County with a total of 47,095 votes to 27,390 for Mrs. Spence.

The Spence camp had hoped to cut Crane's margin in the Lake County portion of the district, which includes about one-third of the total vote, but meager returns from Lake County gave Crane a lead there of 1,913 to 1,064.

Those figures indicated Crane would wind up with a victory margin of about 63 per cent.

EARLY FIGURES from the Spence headquarters agreed with those figures. With little more than 25 per cent of the vote recorded, the Spence camp showed Crane receiving 62.3 per cent of the vote.

Mrs. Spence said before the final totals were in she would "definitely" campaign against Crane again, and planned to start another effort to unseat him in 1976 "a year from now."

She pointed out she had carried at least 30 precincts in the Cook County portion of the district, more than any Democrat who has run against Crane.

In three previous elections, Crane never had lost a precinct in Wheeling, Elk Grove, Palatine or Schaumburg townships. Mrs. Spence carried scattered precincts in all those townships Tuesday.

ALTHOUGH CRANE'S victory margin was comfortable, it fell short of the 74.2 per cent he piled up in 1972. But with Republicans saddled with the hangover of Watergate, President Ford's pardon of former President Nixon, and the President's recent proposal of an income tax surcharge, Crane had said privately in the last week of the campaign he would "be satisfied" with 60 per cent of the vote.

A key Spence aide had predicted a few days before the election that the margin would be within 3 percentage points.

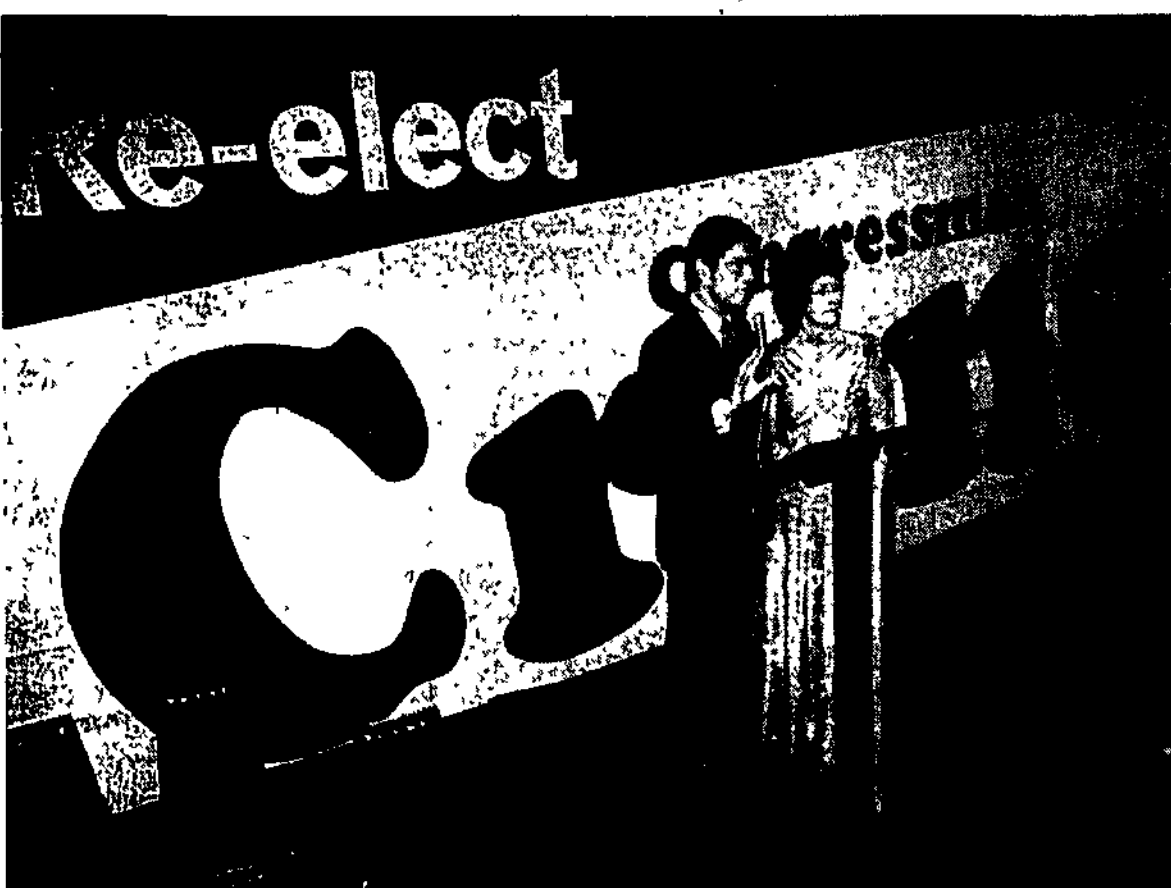

The scope of confidence in the Crane camp was reflected in the comment of one Crane staffer early in the evening: "This is embarrassing, losing precincts."

BUT ANOTHER STAFF worker said Crane's victory in the face of the Democratic sweep made him the "their apparent" to a U.S. Senate seat at some future date.

Crane later said he has no ambition for the Senate, and declared, "My role and the role of the Republican Party is to solve the problems we have in the House."

Although tacitly conceding the election was lost, Mrs. Spence refused to concede "defeat."

"Defeat would have been if (Crane) had won by 75 per cent," he said. She also conceded that at no time during the campaign had she expected to win.

End of the trail in the 12th District...

THE RACE for the 12th-District Congressional seat is over, Philip M. Crane, the incumbent Republican apparently won his return to Washington by defeating his Democratic challenger, Betty Spence of Buffalo Grove. With early returns reporting, Crane took between 60 and 63 per cent of the vote in the

heavily Republican district. (Photos by Jim Frost and Bob Finch)

In 2nd District

Mugalian wins reelection bid over David Carey

Maverick Democrat Richard A. Mugalian, D-Palatine, appeared to have won reelection to the general assembly Tuesday night, fighting off a stiff challenge from David Carey, an Elgin Democrat, in the 2nd District race.

Mugalian campaign aides proclaimed victory after he was named the top vote-getter in predominantly Republican DuPage County. At midnight, however, Carey would not admit defeat.

Incumbent State Representatives Leo D. LaFleur, R-Bloomington, and John E. Friedland, R-South Elgin, also apparently were reelected.

Mugalian admitted he was hurt by a poor showing in his home district of Palatine Township, where he had hoped to collect 3,000 votes more than Carey. With more precincts recorded, Mugalian had only a 1,000 vote lead.

With Kane and DuPage counties to be counted, Mugalian led by a scant 200 votes.

CAREY CARRIED Hanover Township by 1,000 votes, wiping-out the margin

$400 cash, invoices stolen from store

An estimated $400 in cash and invoices were taken from the One Hour Martinizing Dry Cleaning Store, 26 S. Greeley St., Palatine, Sunday.

The owner of the store said he discovered the money and invoices missing when he came to open the store Sunday morning. He told Palatine police the cash and invoices were wrapped in a plastic bag and stored on a shelf behind a pile of clothes.

Police report there was no forced entry into the store.

Mugalian had built in Palatine Township. Early returns still were not in from Kane County — Carey's home district — but a victory there still would not be enough to defeat Mugalian, according to Mugalian aides.

The computerized vote in Elgin and late returns from the Streamwood area where voter turnout was heavy, were still to be recorded and Carey said the election "was too close to pick a winner."

LaFleur was elected to his first term in the Illinois General Assembly two years ago. He spent 22 years in local and county government in DuPage County.

LaFleur visited the Palatine Township Republican headquarters Tuesday night and said he felt confident of victory. He said he campaigned extensively throughout the 2nd District.

Friedland is the senior member of the legislative group.

A SOMBER State Rep. Richard A. Mugalian, D-Palatine, studies the returns Tuesday night at his 2nd District headquarters at Uncle Andy's Cow Palace in Palatine. Mugalian appeared to have won reelection, fending off a stiff challenge by Democrat David Carey of Elgin.

Stevenson lauds Burditt after landslide win

Sen. Adlai Stevenson was gentleman enough to wait for his opponent, George Burditt, to concede before declaring his victory in the U.S. Senate race Tuesday night.

Although Stevenson's victory never was in doubt, he waited until about 11:15 p.m., after a call from Burditt, before declaring "the long campaign is now over, and we won." The number of supporters at Stevenson headquarters had dwindled considerably because of Stevenson's delay in making his statement.

In his victory statement, Stevenson said, "I salute George Burditt, a man of high integrity and a credit to his party."

It is my hope and the hope of others that he will continue in public service."

STEVENS ON ALSO said the nationwide Democratic landslide means "the American people have brought down their judgments on five years of misrule."

He said, "The Democratic Congress must now work with the Republican president. The times are too dangerous for anything but partnership in government."

Stevenson not only piled up a prohibitive lead in the Democratic stomping grounds of Chicago, but was far ahead in such swing areas Downstate as Rock Island County and even normally Republican enclaves.

Stevenson thus won his first full term in the Senate as part of what appeared to be a Democratic surge across a state once regarded as traditionally Republican.

Democrats hoped to upset the Republicans' 14-10 edge in the Illinois Congressional delegation and perhaps take over control of the Illinois legislature.

STEVENS ON'S victory became apparent when, with the first 5 per cent of the Cook County Chicago vote reporting, he was charging ahead with 80 per cent of the ballots.

Even though Democrats were expected to carry Cook County, such a margin would require a Republican landslide Downstate. Instead, Burditt appeared to lose there, too.

Voter apathy and dark, rainy skies over Chicago and much of the state held down the vote and thereby boosted the impact of the Chicago Democratic organization.

STILL, STEVENSON had a wide edge from the start with mounting inflation, Watergate hangover, and the fact that he bears one of the most famous names in Illinois politics — that of the late governor and Presidential candidate who was his father.

Stevenson hard-peddled the inflation issue, accusing oil interests of being heavily responsible.

Burditt, a suburban LaGrange lawyer who had to be drafted for the race after better-known Republicans backed off, was hobbled from the start because of his obscurity and also by a lack of campaign funds which kept him from going to television.

Still, he put on a vigorous campaign, also concentrating on inflation and seeking to put blame on Stevenson as one of the biggest spenders in Washington.

Village board wrapup

Committee seeks new site for meetings

A committee has been appointed to find a new meeting room for Palatine village boards and commissions.

Trustee Robert J. Guss will head the committee. Also serving on the committee will be Village Mgr. Anton H. Harwig, Village Pres. Wendell E. Jones, Trustee James L. Shaw and Trustee Fred H. Zajonc.

The boards and committees have been meeting at the State Street Fire Station, 117 W. Slade St., since the spring. Poor acoustics and lack of temperature control are some of the problems with this meeting room.

Guss indicated Monday priority would be given to keeping the board meetings in downtown Palatine. The options are to rent a public building or rent a regular office room, he added.

The committee will also be looking into the five-year needs for a municipal building, police department and fire department.

'Listen-in' restarted

The Palatine listen-in is being started again by the village board on a three-month trial basis.

The trustees will be on call every Saturday from 9 a.m. to noon. A schedule is being worked out by Village Mgr. Anton H. Harwig.

Persons with problems and concerns can go to village hall and a trustee will be called in to meet with them.

The listen-in was started nearly two years ago but dropped because of lack of interest. If there is no interest in the listen-in during the three-month trial period it will be dropped again.

The Cook County Board approved an application Monday for the construction of an apartment above The Skrudland Photo Service store at 1720 Rand Rd. in Palatine Township.

The board approved the application by store owner Vaughn Shomaker so that he could construct an apartment for the caretaker of the store.

The county zoning board of appeals recommended that the county board approve the request.

2 named to sanitary district board

The Cook County Board Monday appointed two Palatine men to the Plum Grove Woodlands Sanitary District Board.

Robert A. Willard, 29 E. Brookdale, was appointed to a two-year term to fill a vacancy left by resigning board member Francis Scroggins of Palatine. Willard's new term will expire in June 1976.

Walter R. Sundling, 2073 S. Linden, was reappointed to the board position he was held for several years. His new term will expire in June 1977.

BILL BAILEY keeps many of his old phonographs displayed in a room in his Arlington Heights home where he does some of the restoration of the phonographs. The metal horns, common to both recorded sounds: the larger the horn, the louder the cylinder and disc phonographs, amplify the the sound.

Bill Bailey breaks the record in collecting old phonographs

by DIANE MERMIGAS

Bill Bailey has carried the nostalgia craze a little further than most Roaring Twenties fans. He's amassed a collection of 25 antique phonographs to belt out the tunes of the era of flappers and Al Capone.

The phonographs, with original Capitol Edison and Victor labels, decorate every room in the Bailey home and instantly attract the eye and interest of visitors. "It's an expensive hobby, but it's an enjoyable one," Bailey said.

Bailey of Arlington Heights is an industrial engineer who has been collecting disc and cylinder models of the earliest phonographs for the past three years. All of his small, wood box "music machines" have shiny metal or flower-painted horns that are essential for amplifying the recorded sounds, he said.

An authentic old phonograph, Bailey says, costs anywhere from $50 to $1,000.

He has driven 100 miles just to buy a model he wants at an auction, and he and his wife, Diane, spend two weeks of their vacation each year driving through small country towns rich in antiques.

Bailey has spent many an hour trying to convince an owner to sell his old phonograph for a special price, and he's spent even more hours in his garage workshop restoring the old phonographs inside and out, he said.

BAILEY AND HIS wife stumbled upon their first phonograph at a flea market three years ago. The couple, constantly in search of antiques for their home, found an old phonograph with a bright red horn "that we thought would look striking up against our white front room walls," Mrs. Bailey said.

The novelty of the machine wore off several weeks later, and Bailey adopted a serious study and collection. He's also collects early patent drawings of the machines, magazine and newspaper advertisements selling the machines, and some of the first paintings done of them.

Bailey even has two original phonograph dolls that stand about two feet high. He continually attends auctions, flea markets and showings, scans antique shops, and confronts dealers of old phonographs for parts and models he's looking for to "upgrade my collection," he said.

"It may take several years to find the phonograph part I'm looking for. The main thing to know when collecting phonographs is the authenticity of what you are buying," Bailey said.

The price of an old phonograph or parts depends on the model, make, condition and authenticity of the machine. Old phonographs sold for $25 to $50 when they were introduced in America, he said.

THE SCRATCHY AND fuzzy recordings that play on Bailey's machines are clear considering the crude technology with which they were made at the turn of the century, Bailey said. He has recordings of speeches made by Thomas Edison and Theodore Roosevelt in his collection of wax and silicone spools that fit onto the cylinder-style phonographs. He also has one of the earliest cylinder model phonographs invented in 1877 by Thomas Edison while Edison was attempting to perfect the telegraph machine.

The disc phonographs, using heavy and large records, came 20 years later as an improvement on the cylinder models. Bailey has an upright, turntable model whose speed is controlled by the constant cranking of a handle. Other phonographs in the collection are key-wound, and none of them is electrically operated.

"I don't attempt to modernize these phonographs when I work on them. I just work at restoring them to their original state, and make them work the way they used to," Bailey said.

Incumbent's projected margin 63%

Crane bucks Dem tide, whips Spence

Bucking a Democratic tide, U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th, won his third full term in the Congress Tuesday, turning back a challenge by Democrat Betty Spence of Buffalo Grove.

With an estimated 75 per cent of the vote in from the Cook County portion of Crane's district, his campaign staff reported him leading in the County with a total of 47,003 votes to 27,380 for Mrs. Spence.

The Spence camp had hoped to cut Crane's margin in the Lake County portion of the district, which includes about one-third of the total vote, but meager returns from Lake County gave Crane a lead there of 1,913 to 1,064.

Those figures indicated Crane would wind up with a victory margin of about 63 per cent.

EARLY FIGURES from the Spence headquarters agreed with those figures. With little more than 25 per cent of the vote recorded, the Spence camp showed Crane receiving 62.3 per cent of the vote.

Mrs. Spence said before the final totals were in she would "definitely" campaign against Crane again, and planned to start another effort to unseat him in 1978 "a year from now."

She pointed out she had carried at least 30 precincts in the Cook County portion of the district, more than any Democrat who has run against Crane.

In three previous elections, Crane never had lost a precinct in Wheeling, Elk Grove, Palatine or Schaumburg townships. Mrs. Spence carried scattered precincts in all those townships Tuesday.

ALTHOUGH CRANE'S victory margin was comfortable, it fell short of the 74.2 per cent he piled up in 1972. But with Republicans saddled with the hangover of Watergate, President Ford's pardon of former President Nixon, and the President's recent proposal of an income tax surcharge, Crane had said privately in the last week of the campaign he would "be satisfied" with 60 per cent of the vote.

A key Spence aide had predicted a few days before the election that the margin would be within 3 percentage points.

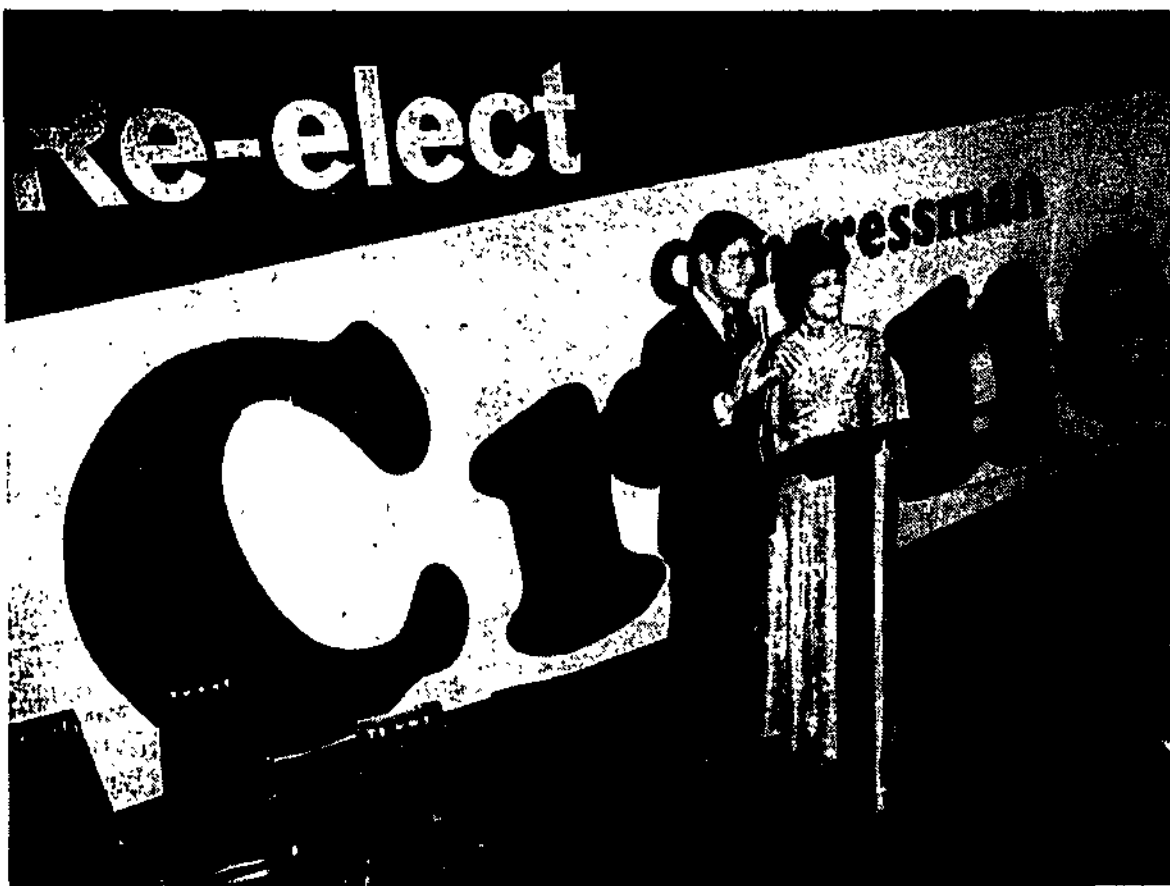

The scope of confidence in the Crane camp was reflected in the comment of one Crane staffer early in the evening: "This is embarrassing, losing precincts."

BUT ANOTHER STAFF worker said Crane's victory in the face of the Democratic sweep made him the "heir apparent" to a U.S. Senate seat at some future date.

Crane later said he has no ambition for the Senate, and declared, "My role and the role of the Republican Party is to solve the problems we have in the House."

Although tacitly conceding the election was lost, Mrs. Spence refused to concede "defeat."

"Defeat would have been if (Crane) had won by 75 per cent," he said. She also conceded that at no time during the campaign had she expected to win.

End of the trail in the 12th District...

THE RACE for the 12th District Congressional seat is over, Philip M. Crane, the incumbent Republican apparently won his return to Washington by defeating his Democratic challenger, Betty Spence of Buffalo Grove. With early returns reporting, Crane took between 60 and 63 per cent of the vote in the

heavily Republican district. (Photos by Jim Frost and Bob Finch)

3 incumbent 4th District reps win

The three incumbent 4th District state representatives, Eugene Schlickman, Robert Juckett and Aaron Jaffe, swept to victory Tuesday.

This victory marks the sixth term for Republican Schlickman, a resident of Arlington Heights. He formerly represented the 3rd District until redistricting moved him into the eastern section of the area.

Eugene Schlickman

This is his second term from the 4th District.

Juckett, a Park Ridge Republican, repeatedly has been a solid choice by voters in the district and again was endorsed by voters there.

Jaffe, a prominent suburban Independent Democrat, campaigned for judicial reform and will hold the minority seat from the 4th District.

The other Democratic candidate was Thomas Flynn. He ran unsuccessfully for the State Senate against John Nimrod two years ago and was defeated in his bid for the legislature.

EARLY RETURNS FROM Wheeling Township, as expected, were giving

Schlickman the lead. Juckett was second and Jaffe third.

Juckett was the leader in the first returns from Maine Township with Schlickman second and Jaffe a close third.

Republican officials were predicting victory after the first dozen precincts were in. They said Jaffe appeared to be running third and would be the minority representative.

Niles Township was going heavily for Jaffe, and Flynn was the second-highest vote-getter there, but the totals in that township were not enough to elect another Democrat.

Rep. Aaron Jaffe

With about one-fourth of the Maine Township precincts in, Juckett had almost 11,000 votes, Schlickman about 8,000, Jaffe, 7,690, and Flynn 6,700.

Nimrod retains Senate seat

Incumbent State Sen. John T. Nimrod, R-Skokie, was elected to another term Tuesday, defeating his Democratic challenger Patton D. Feichter in Illinois' 4th Senatorial District.

Nimrod predicted victory Tuesday night after losing Niles Township while apparently carrying Maine and Wheeling townships.

With one-fourth of the Maine Township precincts recorded, Nimrod had 6,742 votes to Feichter's 5,260.

Nimrod begins his second term. Feichter is a teacher at Maine South High School.

Incumbent crushes Republican

Stevenson lauds Burditt after landslide win

Sen. Adlai Stevenson was gentleman enough to wait for his opponent, George Burditt, to concede before declaring his victory in the U.S. Senate race Tuesday night.

Although Stevenson's victory never was in doubt, he waited until about 11:15 p.m., after a call from Burditt, before declaring "the long campaign is now over, and we won." The number of supporters at Stevenson headquarters had dwindled considerably because of Stevenson's delay in making his statement.

In his victory statement, Stevenson said, "I salute George Burditt, a man of high integrity and a credit to his party. It is my hope and the hope of others that he will continue in public service."

He said, "The Democratic Congress must now work with the Republican president. The times are too dangerous for anything but partnership in government."

Stevenson not only piled up a prohibitive lead in the Democratic stomping grounds of Chicago, but was far ahead in such swing areas Downstate as Rock Island County and even normally Republican enclaves.

Stevenson thus won his first full term in the Senate as part of what appeared to be a Democratic surge across a state once regarded as traditionally Republican.

Democrats hoped to upset the Republicans' 14-10 edge in the Illinois Congressional delegation and perhaps take over control of the Illinois legislature.

STEVENSON'S victory became apparent when, with the first 5 per cent of the Cook County Chicago vote reporting, he was charging ahead with 80 per cent of the ballots.

Even though Democrats were expected to carry Cook County, such a margin would require a Republican landslide Downstate. Instead, Burditt appeared to lose there, too.

Voter apathy and dark, rainy skies over Chicago and much of the state held down the vote and thereby boosted the impact of the Chicago Democratic organization.

STILL, STEVENSON had a wide edge from the start with mounting inflation, Watergate hangover, and the fact that he bears one of the most famous names in Illinois politics — that of the late governor and Presidential candidate who was his father.

Stevenson hard-peddled the inflation issue, accusing oil interests of being heavily responsible.

Burditt, a suburban LaGrange lawyer who had to be drafted for the race after better-known Republicans backed off, was hobbled from the start because of his obscurity and also by a lack of campaign funds which kept him from going to television.

Still, he put on a vigorous campaign, also concentrating on inflation and seeking to put blame on Stevenson as one of the biggest spenders in Washington.

Popular course teaches survival to boy bachelors

by BOB GALLAS

"This stuff looks awful. We must have done something wrong."
 "You sure you got everything in this?"
 "Whose egg is on the floor?"
 The home economics rooms at several schools in High School Dist. 214 have been taken over by a group interested only in survival — bachelor survival.

A course, designed to prepare males for life on their own after high school, is becoming more and more popular in the district, especially at Forest View High School, Arlington Heights.

WHAT STARTED out mainly as a cooking class for boys has evolved into a complete training program, said Joy Moody, who teaches "bachelor survival" classes at Forest View.

The course now covers housing, furniture, laundry and grooming in addition to the perennial favorite, cooking. Mrs. Moody's three classes of 24 boys each are full.

"We offer what the guys will be able to use later, whether they go away to college or get an apartment and start working," said Mrs. Moody.

"Some guys still insist they'll find a girlfriend to cook, wash or iron. I tell them the girl will be happy to do it — for 20 cents a shirt," Mrs. Moody said with a laugh.

In the three years the one semester course has been offered at Forest View, it's grown to include virtually all the skills a male living at home might not be familiar with.

TO FAMILIARIZE students with housing, rental agents from apartment complexes are brought in to speak. Also discussed is how to pick roommates, Mrs. Moody said.

Furniture also is discussed. Students work with basic apartment blueprints and plan furniture layouts with pieces of paper. "They enjoy that. I think it brings out the child in them," Mrs. Moody said.

Next comes laundry, how to wash clothes and then iron them. "Most had the idea you had to read a big book to understand how to work a washer and dryer," she said.

 A grooming section emphasizes buying clothes. "Some say they'll never wear a tie or a suit," Mrs. Moody said. "But I remind them they might want to wear one to their wedding."

Of course cooking is the most popular with the men, probably because they get to eat what they cook, she said.

The students divide up into "kitchens" or smaller groups that work together on baking projects. The projects range from making special desserts to main dishes.

WHILE SOME TAKE the class only for the cooking — and eating, many also take it with an eye on the future.

"I plan to work the night shift when I graduate," said senior Dave Tolle. "So I'll have to cook my own meals. I want to know what I'm doing."

While Mrs. Moody is on hand to answer questions, the students are usually on their own when it comes to cooking. "I try not to give too much of an opinion. I let them think. I'm not going to put them down."

Cleaning up also is taught, although the girls in the next class aren't too enthused over the job the boys do, Mrs. Moody said.

Of course the novice chefs have their problems, such as the student who washed a batch of apples after, rather than before, peeling them.

His apple crisp looked fine going into the oven, but the baking brought out all the water the apples soaked up. "The apple crisp turned out to be baked apples floating on water which everybody called 'the swamp,'" she said.

LAST YEAR A group of football players also had some problems with ingredients. "I guess it was their teamwork training carrying over. Each of them was assigned to add an ingredient."

"Well the guy with the salt got a little mixed up and read ½ tsp. to mean ½ cup. Nobody realized it until the next day when they tasted the brownies."

make his point in a discussion of the fine art of cooking. The class is taught by Joy Moody.

Prospect Meadows changes slated

Hearing for subdivision on traffic

A hearing will be held Dec. 4 to inform residents of the Prospect Meadows subdivision of recommendations by the Mount Prospect Safety Commission for solving traffic problems in the area.

The commission voted Monday night to recommend turning Prospect Manor Avenue into a one-way northbound street between Bob-O-Link and Rand roads. In addition, the commission recommended improvement of both Elmhurst Street and Forest Avenue, including their extension to Kensington Road.

Homeowners in the area have complained that traffic is a problem because Prospect High School students use the subdivision as a shortcut to the McDonald's restaurant on Rand Road.

The situation also creates a litter problem in the area, with paper and garbage from the restaurant thrown from passing autos onto front lawns.

By making Prospect Manor Avenue one-way at its northern end, the commission hopes to eliminate at least half of the through traffic. The commission considered closing the street to Rand Road, but rejected that option on the advice of police and fire officials who said the street was needed in case of emergencies.

CLOSING PROSPECT Manor Avenue to southbound traffic at Rand Road will also reduce accidents caused by drivers trying to turn onto the street from Rand Road.

Trustee George Anderson, chairman of the police and fire committee of the village board, said he will call the hearing to inform residents of the recommendations. After the hearing, he said, the committee will vote on the recommendations and then present them to the village board for action.

Anderson said funding for the project has not been considered. The improvement of both Elmhurst Street and Forest Avenue would allow village police and fire equipment better access to the area. The streets currently are not paved.

Drive begins at 4 p.m. today

Country club site of blood drawing

Appointments are being taken for today's drawing for the Mount Prospect village blood drive.

The drawing will run from 4 to 8:30 p.m. at the Mount Prospect Country Club, 600 S. SeeGrun Ave. Residents can make appointments by calling 439-9727 or 392-6000.

Until the village reaches its yearly quota of 1,800 pints representing 4 per cent of the village population, the village can only use as much blood as has been donated. After the quota is reached all residents and their immediate families can receive an unlimited supply for the remainder of the year.

Noting that the North Suburban Blood Center provides blood for area hospitals, volunteer chairman Norma Murauskis said persons who give at work to other blood centers do not directly benefit their area. She urged residents to donate to the village plan, saying it would help their friends and neighbors.

Donors must be at least 18 years of age and in good health. They should not eat fatty foods or dairy products within four hours of giving blood, or use alcohol within 12 hours.

Radio equipment stolen

An estimated $750 worth of radio equipment, including a citizen's band radio, was stolen during a burglary at the home of Ralph Laich, 1124 Juniper Ln., Mount Prospect police said.

Police said the home was broken into through a basement window between 10 p.m. Saturday and 10:30 p.m. Sunday.

Committee to review plans for intersection project

The police and fire committee of the Mount Prospect Village Board tonight will review proposed plans for the improvements of the intersection of Rand, Central and Mount Prospect roads.

Trustee George Anderson said the committee will review the recommendations of both the state and consulting firm, M & E/Alisto, March and Guillou. Using both sets of recommendations, the commission is expected to come up with its own proposal for the project.

TV taken from home

Burglars took a color television set, two radios and a stereo set Monday evening from the home of Chester Penar, 1418 Sauk Ln., Mount Prospect police said.

The missing items were worth $3,000, police reported. Police said there was no sign of forced entry.

The improvement, estimated to cost $1.2 million, would include the installation of left turn bays on Central Road to Rand Road as well as left turn bays on Rand Road. Additional vehicle storage would be provided for those eastbound on Central Road turning north on Rand Road.

The project has already been recommended for federal funding, that, if approved, would cover about 70 per cent of the financing. The state is expected to provide an additional 20 per cent, with the local government paying only about 10 per cent. Anderson said Des Plaines is expected to cover about 20 per cent of the financing provided by local government.

If the commission approves the project, Anderson said a public hearing will be called in about four months so that residents can review the project.

Cicero youth nabbed with stolen check

An 18-year-old Cicero youth was arrested Monday night as he tried to cash a stolen check at the First National Bank of Mount Prospect drive-up window, police said.

Daniel D. Tryba was charged with deceptive practices in the 8:43 p.m. incident. The check, one of several stolen in Chicago recently, was made out for $350, police said.

Police said Tryba is under investigation in other bad-check schemes. He is to appear Nov. 20 in the Mount Prospect branch of Circuit Court.

THE STEEL FRAME of the Mount Prospect State Bank building is rapidly rising these days. When completed, the six-story building will be the tallest purchase the old bank building to use for municipal offices.

Forest View High variety show Nov. 14

Forest View High School will present its annual variety show Nov. 14-17 in the school theater, 2121 S. Goebbert Rd., Arlington Heights.

The theme of this year's show, entitled "Route 54, Where Are You?" will be travel. The acts will include excerpts from Broadway plays as well as scores and scripts created by the students.

The Thursday performance will begin at 7:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday performances are at 8 p.m. Proceeds from the 2 p.m. Sunday show will be donated to the school's Fine Arts Scholarship Fund.

Tickets are $1.50 and may be obtained by calling 437-4600.

EARLY FIGURES from the Spence headquarters agreed with those figures. With little more than 25 per cent of the vote recorded, the Spence camp showed Crane receiving 62.3 per cent of the vote.

Mrs. Spence said before the final totals were in she would "definitely" campaign against Crane again, and planned to start another effort to unseat him in 1976 "a year from now."

She pointed out she had carried at least 30 precincts in the Cook County portion of the district, more than any Democrat who has run against Crane.

In three previous elections, Crane never had lost a precinct in Wheeling, Elk Grove, Palatine or Schaumburg townships. Mrs. Spence carried scattered precincts in all those townships Tuesday.

ALTHOUGH CRANE'S victory margin was comfortable, it fell short of the 74.2 per cent he piled up in 1972. But with Republicans saddled with the hangover of Watergate, President Ford's pardon of former President Nixon, and the President's recent proposal of an income tax surcharge, Crane had said privately in the last week of the campaign he would "be satisfied" with 60 per cent of the vote.

A key Spence aide had predicted a few days before the election that the margin would be within 3 percentage points.

The scope of confidence in the Crane camp was reflected in the comment of one Crane staffer early in the evening: "This is embarrassing, losing precincts."

BUT ANOTHER STAFF worker said Crane's victory in the face of the Democratic sweep made him the "their apparent" to a U.S. Senate seat at some future date.

Crane later said he has no ambition for the Senate, and declared, "My role and the role of the Republican Party is to solve the problems we have in the House."

Although tacitly conceding the election was lost, Mrs. Spence refused to concede "defeat."

"Defeat would have been if (Crane) had won by 75 per cent," he said. She also conceded that at no time during the campaign had she expected to win.

End of the trail in the 12th District...

THE RACE for the 12th District Congressional seat is over, Philip M. Crane, the incumbent Republican apparently won his return to Washington by defeating his Democratic challenger, Betty Spence of Buffalo Grove. With early returns reporting, Crane took between 60 and 63 per cent of the vote in the

heavily Republican district. (Photos by Jim Frost and Bob Finch)

3 incumbent 4th District reps win

The three incumbent 4th District state representatives, Eugene Schlickman, Robert Juckett and Aaron Jaffe, swept to victory Tuesday.

This victory marks the sixth term for Republican Schlickman, a resident of Arlington Heights. He formerly represented the 3rd District until redistricting moved him into the eastern section of the area.

Eugene Schlickman

This is his second term from the 4th District.

Juckett, a Park Ridge Republican, repeatedly has been a solid choice by voters in the district and again was endorsed by voters there.

Jaffe, a prominent suburban Independent Democrat, campaigned for judicial reform and will hold the minority seat from the 4th District.

The other Democratic candidate was Thomas Flynn. He ran unsuccessfully for the State Senate against John Nimrod two years ago and was defeated in his bid for the legislature.

EARLY RETURNS FROM Wheeling Township, as expected, were giving

Schlickman the lead. Juckett was second and Jaffe third.

Juckett was the leader in the first returns from Maine Township with Schlickman second and Jaffe a close third.

Republican officials were predicting victory after the first dozen precincts were in. They said Jaffe appeared to be running third and would be the minority representative.

Niles Township was going heavily for Jaffe, and Flynn was the second-highest vote-getter there, but the totals in that township were not enough to elect another Democrat.

Rep. Aaron Jaffe

With about one-fourth of the Maine Township precincts in, Juckett had almost 11,000 votes, Schlickman about 8,000, Jaffe, 7,690, and Flynn 6,700.

Nimrod retains Senate seat

Incumbent State Sen. John T. Nimrod, R-Skokie, was elected to another term Tuesday, defeating his Democratic challenger Patton D. Feichter in Illinois' 4th Senatorial District.

Nimrod predicted victory Tuesday night after losing Niles Township while apparently carrying Maine and Wheeling townships.

With one-fourth of the Maine Township precincts recorded, Nimrod had 6,742 votes to Feichter's 5,260.

Nimrod begins his second term. Feichter is a teacher at Maine South High School.

1st District incumbents claim win

Incumbents in the 1st District claimed victories Tuesday night in one State Senate and three House races. Official vote tallies were not available, however, because of an extremely slow vote count in the district.

Incumbent State Sen. Bradley Glass, R-Northfield, was running ahead of Democratic challenger Richard Hartigan by a 2-to-1 margin. Glass' biggest margins appeared to be coming from the North Shore townships of Northfield, New Trier and Evanston.

IN THE HOUSE RACE, two Republicans and a Democrat will return to their seats as they outdistanced Democratic newcomer Dorothy Henehan of Glenview without much of a challenge.

Harold Katz, incumbent Democrat, claimed an early victory, saying he thought the returns were "excellent." He said his support was heavy in every district, including Henehan's home township of New Trier.

Later in the evening Republican Rep. John Porter of Evanston, said he was confident he would win and thanked everyone who voted for him. He said he was assured of victory as soon as the first results from Northfield and Wheeling townships were received.

Stevenson lauds Burditt after landslide win

Sen. Adlai Stevenson was gentleman enough to wait for his opponent, George Burditt, to concede before declaring his victory in the U.S. Senate race Tuesday night.

Although Stevenson's victory never was in doubt, he waited until about 11:15 p.m., after a call from Burditt, before declaring "the long campaign is now over, and we won." The number of supporters at Stevenson headquarters had dwindled considerably because of Stevenson's delay in making his statement.

In his victory statement, Stevenson said, "I salute George Burditt, a man of

STEVENSON ALSO said the nationwide Democratic landslide means "the American people have brought down their judgments on five years of misrule."

He said, "The Democratic Congress must now work with the Republican president. The times are too dangerous for anything but partnership in government."

Stevenson not only piled up a prohibitive lead in the Democratic stomping grounds of Chicago, but was far ahead in such swing areas Downstate as Rock Island County and even normally Republican enclaves.

Stevenson thus won his first full term in the Senate as part of what appeared to be a Democratic surge across a state once regarded as traditionally Republican.

Democrats hoped to upset the Republicans' 14-10 edge in the Illinois Congressional delegation and perhaps take over control of the Illinois legislature.

STEVENSON'S victory became apparent when, with the first 5 per cent of the Cook County Chicago vote reporting, he was charging ahead with 60 per cent of the ballots.

Even though Democrats were expected to carry Cook County, such a margin would require a Republican landslide Downstate. Instead, Burditt appeared to lose there, too.

Voter apathy and dark, rainy skies over Chicago and much of the state held down the vote and thereby boosted the impact of the Chicago Democratic organization.

STILL, STEVENSON had a wide edge from the start with mounting inflation, Watergate hangover, and the fact that he bears one of the most famous names in Illinois politics — that of the late governor and Presidential candidate who was his father.

Stevenson hard-peddled the inflation issue, accusing oil interests of being heavily responsible.

Burditt, a suburban LaGrange lawyer who had to be drafted for the race after better-known Republicans backed off, was bobbled from the start because of his obscurity and also by a lack of campaign funds which kept him from going to television.

Still, he put on a vigorous campaign, also concentrating on inflation and seeking to put blame on Stevenson as one of the biggest spenders in Washington.

The Arlington Heights Village Board has approved a low bid of $118,192 by Chicago Aerial Survey Co. for photo mapping of the village.

Federal revenue-sharing funds will be used to pay for the maps, which will be used in place of engineering surveys on future land-development projects. Cost of the mapping will be recovered over the years by charging builders a fee to use the photographic surveys.

Trustee James T. Ryan, who earlier had questioned the aerial mapping, was absent from Monday night's meeting at which the low bid was unanimously approved.

Although the total cost of the project is $118,000, maps will be printed and paid for only as they are needed.

Rail hike hearing Nov. 14

Village Atty. Jack M. Siegel will appear in behalf of the village at a public hearing on the Chicago and North Western Ry.'s request for a 7 per cent fare increase.

The hearing will be held by the Illinois Commerce Commission at 11 a.m., Thursday, Nov. 14, at the State of Illinois Building, 160 N. LaSalle St., Chicago.

Siegel has not been told to object to the rate hike request, but he will report to the village board which then may consider filing a formal objection.

Flood-control pacts awarded

The firm of R. J. Peterson and Associates, Skokie, has been awarded $38,942 worth of engineering work for two village flood-control projects.

Peterson will design the Hickory Meadows-Arlington Knolls area storm water retention basin and channel improvements to McDonald Creek near Windsor Drive.

Two years ago, the Peterson firm drew up a comprehensive flood control plan for the village estimated to cost $16.6 million. Engineering work on several other projects in that plan is still pending with the Citizens Action Committee Against Flooding.

15 acres annexed

The Village of Arlington Heights has annexed 15 acres of property east and west of north Arlington Heights Road just south of Palatine Road. The land, totally surrounded by incorporated property, includes the proposed sites of Wheeling Township's new town hall and the Crossings shopping and bowling center.

Pizza, popcorn sales Saturday

The Camp Fire Girls will sponsor a pizza sale and the YMCA Indian Guides will sell popcorn Saturday. The Boy Scouts will hold a candy sale Nov. 23, and the Rolling Meadows Hockey Assn. will sell decals in the part of the village included in Rolling Meadows High School attendance area.

Three seek Prospect Hts. school post

Three candidates are seeking appointment to the vacant seat on the Prospect Heights Dist. 23 Board of Education.

The vacancy was created by the Oct. 31 resignation of John Stull, who is moving to New Jersey.

The three are Aileen Melnick, Deanna Wells and C. Van Kleef. They will meet with the board in closed session tonight. A decision about the appointment is expected at the Nov. 13 board meeting.

Mediation subject of upcoming lecture

An introductory lecture in transcendental meditation will be given Thursday, Nov. 14, at 7:30 p.m. in the Arlington Heights Public Library, 500 N. Dunton Ave.

Transcendental meditation is described as a mental technique which provides deep rest to the system and increases energy and clarity of mind.

The lecture is free and open to the public.

Crusade reaches 34% of '74 goal

More than 34 per cent of the Arlington Heights Crusade of Mercy's $70,000 goal has been reached, with $23,613.26 collected.

Contributions are still being solicited, said Judith Reading, secretary of the fund.

The residential campaign has produced the largest share of the contributions, with $17,818. Commerce and industry are reporting $5,194, about $4,000 above last year's total at this time, Mrs. Reading said. Several companies have reported

Bill Bailey breaks the record in collecting old phonographs

by DIANE NERMIGAS

Bill Bailey has carried the nostalgia craze a little further than most Roaring Twenties fans. He's amassed a collection of 25 antique phonographs to belt out the tunes of the era of flappers and Al Capone.

The phonographs, with original Capitol Edison and Victor labels, decorate every room in the Bailey home and instantly attract the eye and interest of visitors. "It's an expensive hobby, but it's an enjoyable one," Bailey said.

Bailey of Arlington Heights is an industrial engineer who has been collecting disc and cylinder models of the earliest phonographs for the past three years. All of his small, wood box "music machines" have shiny metal or flower-painted horns that are essential for amplifying the recorded sounds, he said.

An authentic old phonograph, Bailey says, costs anywhere from $50 to $1,000. He has driven 100 miles just to buy a model he wants at an auction, and he and his wife, Diane, spend two weeks of their vacation each year driving through small country towns rich in antiques.

Bailey has spent many an hour trying to convince an owner to sell his old phonograph for a special price, and he's spent even more hours in his garage workshop restoring the old phonographs inside and out, he said.

BAILEY AND HIS wife stumbled upon their first phonograph at a flea market three years ago. The couple, constantly in search of antiques for their home, found an old phonograph with a bright red horn "that we thought would look striking up against our white front room walls," Mrs. Bailey said.

The novelty of the machine wore off several weeks later, and Bailey adopted a serious study and collection. He's also collected early patent drawings of the machines, magazine and newspaper advertisements selling the machines, and some of the first paintings done of them.

Bailey even has two original phonograph dolls that stand about two feet high. He continually attends auctions, flea markets and showings, scans antique shops, and confronts dealers of old phonographs for parts and models he's looking for to "upgrade my collection," he said.

"It may take several years to find the phonograph part I'm looking for. The main thing to know when collecting phonographs is the authenticity of what you are buying," Bailey said.

The price of an old phonograph or parts depends on the model, make, condition and authenticity of the machine. Old phonographs sold for $25 to $50 when they were introduced in America, he said.

THE SCRATCHY AND fuzzy recordings that play on Bailey's machines are clear considering the crude technology with which they were made at the turn of the century, Bailey said. He has recordings of speeches made by Thomas Edison and Theodore Roosevelt in his collection of wax and silicone spoils that fit onto the cylinder-style phonographs. He also has one of the earliest cylinder model phonographs invented in 1877 by Thomas Edison while Edison was attempting to perfect the telegraph machine.

The disc phonographs, using heavy and large records, came 20 years later as an improvement on the cylinder models. Bailey has an upright, turntable model whose speed is controlled by the constant cranking of a handle. Other phonographs in the collection are key-wound, and none of them is electrically operated.

"I don't attempt to modernize these phonographs when I work on them. I just work at restoring them to their original state, and make them work the way they used to," Bailey said.

BUT THE PARTS that he needs to restore the phonographs "are getting more difficult to find lately," Bailey said.

"People are starting to keep the antiques that are being handed down to them through family members. All of a sudden, everyone is interested in their instant heritage, so there's not as many good phonographs or parts in circulation as there used to be," he said.

Bailey said that the main pleasure he

Concrete light poles in Scarsdale?

Residents of the Scarsdale subdivision in Arlington Heights hope to get concrete light poles for the 134 sodium-vapor streetlights to be installed in their area next spring.

The lights originally were to have 30-foot aluminum highway poles but some residents feel the aluminum poles are not appropriate for the neighborhood. They say the concrete poles are better looking and that the breakaway feature of the aluminum poles, designed for safety in case the pole is struck by an auto, is not needed in a residential area.

The Scarsdale Property Owners' Assn. asked State Rep. Virginia Macdonald, R-Arlington Heights, to check with the Illinois Dept. of Transportation to determine if the concrete poles could be substituted.

State approval is required because the village plans to pay for installation of the street lights with motor fuel tax funds.

"They told me there's no hard and fast rule to have aluminum poles," said Mrs. Macdonald. "It's between the village and the Scarsdale residents." Aluminum poles will probably be installed in front of Scarsdale houses on Arlington Heights Road because of the road's higher speed limit, she said.

Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson said the village board will have to approve bids on the project, but he anticipated no opposition to the concrete poles.

payroll deductions amounting to $7,000. Several large Arlington Heights banks are expected to report their payroll deductions within the next few weeks, she said.

Crusade of Mercy chairman Edward Pawelko said, "From all indications, the campaign looks very good." Pawelko said that Arlington Heights is right behind Mount Prospect in achieving the local campaign goal.

"Our goal is larger, and we got started later than they did," he added.
